Jackson Opposed Hooper's Scheme to Annex It to Their Encyclopaedia Business.

BUT DID NEGOTIATE SALE

Story Brought Out in Jackson's Suit Against Hooper, Demanding a Receiver for Their Partnership.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, May 27.—As the result of a disagreement between Walter M. Jackson of Newton, Mass., and Horace E. Hooper, who for many years have been associated in the publication and sale of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, Mr. Jackson has filed a bill in Chancery asking that a receiver be appointed to take charge of their joint assets, and that an injunction issue restraining Mr. Hooper and his associates from consummating an alleged plan to oust Mr. Jackson from the business. The complainant further seeks to have the partnership dissolved and an accounting rendered by the defendants.

In answer to the bill, the defendants were to-day ordered to show cause next Tuesday why an injunction should not issue in accordance with the prayer. The order also restrains the defendants temporarily from assigning or disposing of any stock in the company of Hooper & Jackson, Limited. It further restrains any disposition being made of the English or American rights in the eleventh edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The bill of complaint filed by Lindabury, Depue & Faulks gives some inside history regarding the business management of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and a plan of its prospectus for the purchase of The London Times, which was interested in the enterprise. It shows that for years Mr. Jackson and Mr. Hooper under a joint partnership controlled absolutely the affairs of the various corporations which were organized to circulate the encyclopaedia. By means of dummy directors, who performed no actual services for their corporations, and in some instances met less than once a year, the partners managed the details of the enterprise and kept their books in such a manner as to escape the payment of taxes to which the partnership, under the English law, would have been subjected.

Prior to 1900 Mr. Jackson and Mr. Hooper had been associated with James Clarke and George Clarke in the publication and sale of subscription books. The principal office was in London, and the business was carried on under the name of the Clarke Company, Limited. Some time in March of that year Hooper and Jackson decided to become more closely associated in the ownership and control of the business, and in furtherance of their plan acquired the Clarke interests.

From 1900 until about last November the partners conducted their various joint enterprises resulting from their partnership in different countries under various names and according to the means and methods which the business in the respective localities seemed to demand. During the period from 1900 to 1902 they acquired their most important assets, namely, the copyrights and trade name of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. All books which they published were offered to the public in the name either of The London Times, The London Standard, or of some other newspaper, or in the name of the Grolier Society of London, a trade name adopted by the partners.

In 1902, owing to the provisions of the English law putting a tax on the business, the affairs of the Clarke Company, Limited, were liquidated, and English and American companies were formed to take over the business. The English company was known as Hooper & Jackson, Limited, and the American corporation as the Encyclopaedia Britannica Company, a New York corporation. The partners drew from the business of the Clarke Company, Limited, $100,000 for operating expenses of Hooper & Jackson, Limited, and the remaining assets were conveyed to the New York company for the issuing of its $500,000 worth of capital stock and $1,000,000 in bonds.

The bill sets forth that the partnership was threatened with many infringements of its copyrights, particularly in the United States. Under advice of counsel the Encyclopaedia Britannica Company of Illinois was organized in May, 1903, as a substitute for the New York corporation. For the sole purpose of contemplated litigations, the assets of the New York corporation were transferred to the Illinois company, as were the copyrights which had been held in trust for Jackson and Hooper by A. & C. Black. The capital stock of the company was equally divided between Mr. Hooper and Mr. Jackson, one share each, for the purpose of organization merely, being placed in the name of Franklin H. Hooper, William J. Cox, Harry K. Allen, and Stephen A. Foster. In addition to the two partners Franklin H. Hooper, a brother; Mr. Cox, a brother-in-law, and Adam Rimmer Black were made Directors. Mr. Black's family name had been identified with the Encyclopaedia Britannica for nearly a century, and according to the bill, he was placed on the directorate for the effect of the name in the impending litigations.

Mr. Hooper asserts that the principal part of the business was always carried on in London. Two sets of accounts were kept under the direction of the same accountant and by the same corps of bookkeepers.

Both Mr. Hooper and Mr. Jackson, according to the papers, had been intimately associated, with the management of the advertising and circulating departments of The London Times. In January, 1908, the public announcement of a proposed change in the control of The Times was regarded by Hooper and Jackson as likely to impair the value of a contract they had for the publication of the eleventh edition of the Encyclopaedia, to be brought out on Jan. 1 next. At that time it is claimed that about half a million dollars had already been expended under the contract. Mr. Hooper and Mr.

HAS HIS SHADOW ARRESTED.

Sleuth Then Says a Woman Hired Him to Follow Goldsmith.

Otto Goldsmith, a jeweler, of 1,284 Broadway, was complainant in the Night Court last night against Herman Erde of 222 Livonia Avenue, Brooklyn. Goldsmith told Magistrate Kernochan that Erde had been following him about for several months. If he rode on a car he was sure to find Erde there. If he took a taxicab, Erde, he said, got in another and followed. No matter whether he went to a restaurant to dine, or to a theatre, or anywhere else, Goldsmith said he was sure to find the young man just behind him.

Last night Goldsmith said he went to Terrace Garden and Erde was at his heels. Leaving the garden, Goldsmith declared he called a taxicab and Erde followed him in another. At last, Goldsmith said, he could stand it no longer, and at Park Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street he called Policeman Miller of the East Fifty-first Street Station and had Erde arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Asked to explain, Erde told the Magistrate that he was being paid $5 a day by a woman living in West Thirty-third Street to follow Goldsmith. He said he didn't know the object of it, but that he was being paid to make note of every place the jeweler went to.

Goldsmith said he didn't care to prosecute if the young man would cease his activities. Erde said he would and was discharged.

HITCH IN JERSEY AUTO LAW.

State Discovers That Only Its Residents Can Be Punished for Speeding.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, May 27.—There is some indignation here over the discovery that, under the amended automobile law, none but residents of New Jersey are in danger of arrest for violation of the speed limit.

This is because the law provides that when a complaint against a non-resident is made it must be accompanied with $2 to cover the expenses of the State Motor Vehicle Commissioner in finding the person accused. This means that Constables will not put up the money out of their own pockets, the result being that motorists from New York, Philadelphia, or other places outside the State, run no risk of arrest for violation of the speed law.

The fact is, that since the law went into effect only Jerseymen have been arrested. A hundred complaints have been received here against New York and Philadelphia automobile owners, but when they were forwarded to the State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for service under the law, that official refused to serve them until he had the $2 apiece in hand. An appeal to the Attorney General has resulted in the Commissioner being sustained in his position.

BIG STEEL MILLS FOR CANADA.

New Plant Will Contest Northwest Trade with Pittsburg Interests.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, May 27.—Another move toward centring the iron and steel industry of the United States on the borders of the great lakes was made to-day, when a contract was closed by the Algoma Steel Company for $500,000 worth of heavy steel machinery, to be delivered at Sault Ste. Marie, Canada, as quickly as possible. It is the intention of the Philadelphians and the Londoners back of this plant to have two immense steel mills there turning out bars and other steel products by Nov. 1.

The nature of the machinery ordered shows that the mills to be erected will be rivals worthy of even the biggest and best Pittsburg mills. They will be by far the largest in Canada.

After six years' study those concerned in this project at the head of the great lakes have decided that it would be cheaper to carry the coal to the iron ore than to bring the ore to the coal, as has been the custom for years. It is the intention to go after the Canadian trade and the trade of the Northwestern States, a specialty being made of the steel entering into the making of farming machinery.

Announcement of the placing of this order caused some interest in Pittsburg to-night, as the Pittsburg steel men have looked on this Northwestern territory as their own.

OVERBOARD AT YACHT PIER.

Friend of Urban H. Broughton Spilled from a Launch—Rescued.

Longshoremen along the river front were talking yesterday of a narrow escape which a friend of Urban H. Broughton, son-in-law of the late H. H. Rogers, had from drowning on Wednesday night. They did not know who the man was, but they were enthusiastic about the pluck of two men who jumped in to save him and kept him afloat in the rapid current until he could be pulled out.

Mr. Broughton and his friend left the New York Yacht Club anchorage in the afternoon for a cruise up the Sound in the yacht Visitor. She came back soon after 6 o'clock and headed for Landing No. 2. Mr. Broughton's friend on disembarking caught his foot and fell into the water. He did not seem able to swim and floundered about in the narrow strip of water between the Visitor and the pier. In the strong tide of the East River this was dangerous, as the boat might have been carried against the pier.

The yacht Captain backed away into the stream, while Mr. Broughton called for aid. Michael Mulligan, one of the hands employed on the pier, unhesitatingly jumped into the water. But he is of slight build, and the man in the river was too much for him to handle. A sailor from the Visitor dived to his assistance, and the two kept Mr. Broughton's friend above water.

A launch from the yacht Winchester, owned by Peter W. Rouss, put off from the float to their aid and pulled them out. Mr. Broughton's friend was hurried to the former's covered automobile and carried away, wet as he was.

MANY BIDDERS READY FOR NEW SUBWAYS

B. R. T. May be One—Inter-Met, Bradley-Gaffney, and Moving Sidewalk Plans.

McADOO FRANCHISE HELD UP

Board of Estimate Committee Sends It Back to Utilities Commission Because of Interborough Objections.

A canvass yesterday of the four interests that are prospective bidders for the construction of new subways by private capital, made possible under the Travis-Robinson bill signed by Gov. Hughes on Wednesday, developed the fact that all four will have bids in some form ready in the near future. The prospective bidders are the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers Company, the Amsterdam Corporation, headed by William J. Wilgus, and the Continuous Transit Securities Company, builders of moving sidewalks. Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission sent letters to all four Wednesday evening.

In addition, President E. W. Winter of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company sought and had a conference with Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission yesterday afternoon relating to the situation in Brooklyn created by the Travis-Robinson bill. Neither Mr. Winter nor Mr. Willcox would discuss their talk, but it gave rise to a report that the B. R. T. might be a possible bidder on additional transit lines in Brooklyn, directly or through a subsidiary.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has been spending large sums of money in the development of its lines, and within the last six months, according to the statement of President Theodore P. Shonts of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, the engineers of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit and those of the Interborough-Metropolitan have been conferring with a view to working out a comprehensive plan of traction development for both Manhattan and Brooklyn.

Inter-Met. and B. R. T. in Harmony.

It came out recently that there was a gentlemen's agreement between the Interborough-Metropolitan and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit about the non-invasion of each other's territory beyond the present subway to Flatbush Avenue, and as the Interborough-Metropolitan here is trying to get permission to build an upper east side route that would knock out the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers combination from a plan which would adapt itself readily to Brooklyn extension, the visit of Mr. Winter was considered significant.

The amended offer of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in the Subway matter is expected to reach the Public Service Commission some time in the next two weeks. Arthur J. Baldwin, counsel for the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers combination, which intends to bid on the Broadway-Lexington Avenue routs to the Bronx, said yesterday that his clients had already replied to Mr. Willcox, and that a definite proposal would be submitted in a few days.

"The commission has asked us to stick as closely to the Broadway-Lexington Avenue route as possible," said Mr. Baldwin, "and we wish to meet this wish. Accordingly, we have decided to make the southern terminal of our road the Battery instead of the connection with the bridge loop Subway. As to the northern terminus, we will confer with the commission before deciding upon its location. We are anxious to build, and we feel that our proposition conforms entirely with the new law."

Mr. Wilgus, whose company plans the construction of a water front elevated structure for freight and passengers from Fifty-ninth Street, on the west side, to Twentieth Street, on the east side, and a subway from that point to Fifty-ninth Street, and through Fifty-ninth Street to the western terminus, said that his company had sent a letter to the commission outlining several matters in connection with its plans.

The President of the moving sidewalk concern is Max E. Schmidt, who said yesterday that in a few days he would renew his proposition so as to conform to the new law.

City Not Barred from Building.

Chairman Willcox said yesterday:

"The Travis-Robinson bill in no way alters the provisions of the Elsberg law for the construction of subways by the city. It simply amplifies that law by providing another method by which subways may be constructed if for any reason the city finds itself unable to build with its own money.

"The attitude of the Board of Estimate has been that the city is so close to the debt limit that it is financially unable to undertake, on its own account, the building of additional rapid transit lines. The injunction restraining the Board of Estimate from appropriating money to build the Fourth Avenue subway in Brooklyn is still in force, awaiting a determination by the Court of Appeals of the question of debt limit.

"Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, appointed by the court to ascertain the debt limit on June 30, 1908, has reported that the margin on that date was in the neighborhood of $106,000,000. This conclusion is disputed by the legal representative of the Board of Estimate, who has appealed from the decision of the Appellate Division affirming the Tracy report."

BLOCK McADOO SUBWAY PLAN.

Interborough Objections Cause It to be Sent Back to Utilities Board.

The special committee of the Board of Estimate appointed to consider the proposed extension of the McAdoo tunnels to the Grand Central Station, which has already been approved by the Public Service Commission, held a hearing in the Controller's office yesterday afternoon and decided to send the matter back to the commission for further consideration. The plan was held up in spite of the emphatic protests of William G. McAdoo, Louis Stern, and a large delegation of west side property owners and business

SITUATION IN CUBA IS WORRYING TAFT

FINANCES IN BAD SHAPE

Politicians Sent Abroad at Great Expense—Works Stopped—Lottery and Cockfights to Meet Deficit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Information from an authoritative source has reached President Taft and Secretary Knox in the last day or two showing a serious condition of affairs in Cuba, and portending a situation that may easily demand another intervention.

It seems that the new Cuban Government is just beginning to feel and enjoy the freedom from American restraint that held the Cubans in check during the second intervention, and is in a fair way to make ducks and drakes of the finances of the island and precipitate National bankruptcy.

In the short time that the Gomez Government has been in power there have already been several indications of the way in which it enjoys spending money without much consideration of the means of raising it. The total revenues of the island will hardly be more than $26,000,000, but the budget now in the hands of the Administration calls for expenditures of more than $33,000,000. The Cuban Congress seems ready at any time to pass an appropriation bill.

A favorite way of getting rid of a man who is in a position to embarrass Gomez is to give him a liberal sum of money and send him out of the country. Thus Loynas del Castillo, who was one of the leaders of the famous "insurrectionary army" of 1906, has been appointed special Ambassador to all of South America and packed off with $40,000 to entertain the Presidents of the continental republics. Castillo divided with Pino Guerra the honors of leadership in the brief insurrection that was terminated suddenly by the arrival of the United States forces in the Fall of 1906.

Since the elevation of José Miguel Gomez to the Presidency Castillo has been demanding recognition of his services. He would have enjoyed official association with Gomez in the administration, but the new President skillfully avoided that by sending him on his diplomatic mission. Castillo's duties are chiefly to convey the greeting of Gomez to the Presidents of other republics and to furnish banquets for the edification of the South American capitals. This arrangement has been reported to President Taft as a sample of what the Gomez Government is doing and what may be expected from it.

Meanwhile the island treasury is suffering from an extraordinary stringency. The Government has made some small effort to supply funds, but its principal endeavors have consisted of the restoration of the lottery and of cock fighting. There is also pending in Congress a bill to revive bull fighting.

While this is going on contractors who have claims against the Cuban Government are unable to get their money. W. J. Oliver of Knoxville, who has a big contract for the construction of public roads, is one of these contractors. The McGiveny-Rokeby firm, which has the contract for sewering and paving Havana, is another. There is more than $400,000 due to Oliver for work completed, and he has been unable to get a dollar of it. Work on the sewer and paving contract has been suspended for lack of funds. Other public works have been stopped, and there is no indication when it will be possible to resume them.

It has been reported to the President that the Gomez Administration is so hard pressed that it is endeavoring to raise money by the sale of the Havana Arsenal property, through a trade for some water-front property which can be disposed of for ready cash. Gomez is also ready to negotiate for concessions, and some very peculiar transactions are reported, in which this Government is especially interested.

The conservatives in Congress, after fighting the tendency to extravagance for a time, have apparently come to the conclusion that the best policy for them is to help the Gomez partisans along as much as possible, so as to bring on the climax at the earliest possible moment. There was a time when the Conservatives contemplated the possibility of organizing a revolution of their own in the hope of bringing on another intervention by the United States, but it is reported now that this plan has been abandoned.

One effect of the recent intervention was to put sufficient strength in the hands of the new Government to enable it to deal sharply and effectively with incipient revolutions, and the prospects of success from that kind of a move do not now seem as good as they did at first. But later in the year the situation will be altered. When the sugar cane is well grown it will take a slight effort to burn a field of cane now and then, and, as was said to-day by a man well acquainted with the Cuban situation, "More can be won by the burning of one cane field than by the winning of five battles."

It is pointed out by those familiar with Cuban affairs that in case the epoch of extravagance is not checked before long a situation will be produced such that the foreign creditors of Cuba will turn to the United States for assistance in securing settlement of their claims, and there will then be nothing for us but another assumption of authority over the island. Already it is plain that despite the lesson of the second intervention the Cubans are drifting rapidly back to their old style of government, which is natural inasmuch as it is the only style with which they have any real experience or education.

Altogether the situation is far from satisfactory from the viewpoint of this Government, and it is understood that President Taft is much concerned about it.

THE PRINZESS ALICE AGROUND IN THE BAY

LOST HER WAY IN THE FOG

Tugs Fail to Move Liner and Lighters Are Called to Take Out Her Cargo—Ship Reported Undamaged.

Outgoing with more than a thousand passengers aboard, the North German Lloyd Line steamship Prinzess Alice went aground yesterday morning off the sea wall at Fort Wadsworth. The accident happened in the fog. Before the great liner checked her headway her bow went grating and sliding over the rocky ledge surrounding the wall, until she came to a stop under the Fort Tompkins lighthouse and within five feet of the shore.

There was no excitement among her passengers and a very few minutes after the accident word had been sent to the company's office in this city and tugs were speeding to her help. Within five minutes the fog lifted. With high tide in the afternoon tugs attempted to pull her into deep water. They did not budge her and it is planned to take her cargo from the forward hold and make another effort to move her to-day. Her officers report that the hull has not been damaged and she will be able to proceed on her interrupted voyage to Cherbourg, Plymouth, and Bremen.

The Prinzess Alice sailed from her Hoboken Pier at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and passed Quarantine about an hour later. At that time it was comparatively clear, though a mist hung over the water. Just as she came abreast of the Quarantine station the French liner Bretagne, outward bound for Havre, came abreast of the Alice. She had sailed from the foot of Morton Street at the same time the Prinzess Alice was pulling out from her slip across the river, and had followed the German ship down the river. On the bridge of the Prinzess Alice was Capt. P. Grosch and Pilot John Ackerman, the latter responsible for navigating the vessel in safety through the channels to the open sea. The pilot noticed the proximity of the Bretagne, and, fearing the ships were too close for safety, crowded in nearer the Staten Island shore.

The wall at that point runs near the site of an old fog bell, and on the sea side is reinforced by stones piled up along it. This deposit of stones forms a ledge barely under water at low tide and extending out about ten feet. Beyond this there is a sudden drop to deep water. The Prinzess Alice brought up with her stern in deep water and with enough water under the main mast, according to her skipper, to float her.

The bell on the lighthouse was ringing at intervals of fifteen seconds when the Prinzess Alice struck, but so quietly was it all done that the first known of the accident ashore was when Nelson Ackerman, the lighthouse keeper, went out a few minutes after the accident. He found the fog clearing and the great bow of the liner lying almost inside his doorway. Major W. G. Haan, Commander of the fort, was on the north pier, within a few yards of the ship when the Prinzess Alice struck. He could see nothing through the fog, and it was only the frequent blowing of the whistle that told him a big vessel was in trouble off the sea wall.

As the fog lifted the lighthouse tender Larkspur was passing and the lighthouse man signalled her to aid. Then came the Gen. Meigs, the Quartermaster's boat, and later the Revenue cutter Seneca made her appearance. It was high tide about 2:30 o'clock, and at once the men began to lay hawsers to free the liner.

Soon the small craft working along side the stranded vessel were joined by the tugs Hudson, John Nichols, John K. Gilkinson, Emma J. Kennedy, and the William J. McCaldin. Lines were passed from the stern of the vessel, which was lying pointing west. There was much work to interest the passengers, who lined the vessel's rail, watching the tugs puffing about with the men bending the lines. The effort to free her was made after the engines of the liner had given up. For time and again the screws had churned up the water in the effort to get free without help. When all was ready a short blast on the liner's whistle started the bevy of tugs straining and tugging at the hawsers. In vain they strained. The great hull did not give an inch. Twice the hawsers of the Seneca broke, and at last they were forced to give up the attempt. The Seneca let go her lines, and the engines on the Prinzess Alice stopped at 4:15 o'clock.

Capt. Grosch confirmed the story of the pilot that the vessel had been crowded inshore to allow the Bretagne the right of way.

Pilot Ackerman said that the Prinzess Alice was going at 6 knots when she struck. He only heard the shore bell once. "The truth of the matter is," he said, "we were too close in. What happened you know. We have no holes in the bottom, and are not making water."

The passengers of the Prinzess Alice were in the saloons or between decks when the vessel struck. It was raining and foggy at the time, and so easily did the vessel go on that they did not know she was in trouble until later. Mr. Otto Meyer of this city said that he was much surprised when he came on deck and found that the vessel was so close to the sea wall. There was no excitement, he said, and after the lifting of the fog the tedium of waiting was relieved by watching the efforts to pull the liner into deep water and watching the soldiers in the fort.

"I kept the fog bell going from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock and then started it again at 9:30," said Keeper Ackerman. "Soon after 11 o'clock the fog lifted, and I went out to look. There was the bow of the Prinzess Alice within five feet of me. 'Hello, when did you get here?' I said to a sailor. 'Just arrived,' he said, and then when I started to ask another question put his fingers to his lips. The next thing was the hail from the bridge, asking for a tender. I saw the Larkspur approaching and signaled her skipper to come alongside the steamer." According to Capt. Henry C. Daniels of the Gen. Meigs, the Prinzess Alice was a whole point out of her course.

After the unsuccessful effort of the tugs to pull the steamer into deep water word was sent to this city, and two Merritt-Chapman boats, the Hustler and the Rescue, and two lighters were sent to the Narrows. The men worked until late in the night taking out hundreds of barrels of oil that were stowed forward. Another attempt will be made to float her early this morning on the high tide.

On the Prinzess Alice are Mrs. Elizabth R. Barrie, Herbert Best, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Butler, Mrs. H. P. F. Dubois, Miss J. D. Favre, Prof. and Mrs. Hans Gudden, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jenks, Ernest H. GOV. HASKELL INDICTED.

Accused with Others of Obtaining Government Land Illegally.

TULSA, Okla., May 27.—Indictments charging fraud in the Muskogee town lot cases were returned by the United States Grand Jury to-night against Gov. Charles N. Haskell, F. B. Severs, W. T. Hutchins, C. W. Turner, A. Z. English, and W. R. Eaton. They are charged with obtaining titles from the Government to town lots in Muskogee by illegal methods. Bond in each case was fixed at $5,000 and was promptly furnished. It is thought the cases will be heard at an early date.

This is the second indictment of Gov. Haskell in the Tulsa case. The first bills were dismissed on a technicality.

Gov. Haskell said to-night:

"As a result of four Government attorneys and an army of secret men surrounding the Grand Jury and limiting the testimony to just what suited them, indictments have been secured against me. I am thoroughly satisfied that when the whole facts are made known in the open the Government will not approve of these cases, as there has been no violation of the law in any particular. Later disclosures in this case will speak for themselves."

105 ENGINES FOR HARRIMAN.

Big Order Means Employment for Many at Baldwin Works.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—The Baldwin Locomotive Works has received an order from the Harriman lines for 105 engines, and work on the contract will be started at an early date.

In addition to keeping the present force busy for several months, the order gives promise of the employment of a large number of extra men soon.

PROF. JENKS FOR CHINA.

Cornell Man's Name Under Consideration for Peking Mission.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The latest name under consideration as a possible successor to Mr. Rockhill as American Minister to China is that of Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks of Cornell University.

President Taft is well acquainted with the work of Prof. Jenks in the Philippines and China in connection with the study of economic and financial conditions in the Far East as a Commissioner and agent of the United States Government, and some inquiries have been made to learn the disposition of the Senate in case his nomination as Minister to China should be sent to that body.

WET VICTORY IN VIRGINIA.

Minister's Face Slapped at Polls by Petersburg Councilman.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 27.—After the bitterest and the hardest fought local-option campaign in the history of this old city, Petersburg voted "wet" to-day by a majority of 578 in a total of 1,792.

The result was a decisive defeat for the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia, which made a most aggressive fight, and imported speakers for the temperance cause. The Business Men's Association lined up strongly with the "wets."

Women and children remained about the polls all day, singing and praying. When Wesley G. Andrews, a merchant and City Councilman, challenged the vote of the Rev. Sidney Peters, Secretary of the League, a quarrel ensued, and the former slapped the minister's face. Both were haled to the police court.

TWO INDIANA COUNTIES WET.

Laporte and Floyd Vote That Way—Harrison Goes Dry.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 27.—Laporte and Floyd Counties voted wet and Harrison County voted dry in local option elections to-day. The majority for the wets in Laporte County was about 3,000. Floyd County voted wet by a majority of about 2,000. The dry majority in Harrison County is 169.

AGAINST DEATH PENALTY.

Illinois House Votes to Abolish Capital Punishment.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 27.—Capital punishment will become a thing of the past in Illinois if a bill to abolish it, which passed the House to-day, succeeds in getting through the Senate and Gov. Deneen does not veto it. The vote in the House was 81 ayes to 43 nays. The bill substitutes life imprisonment for the death penalty.

In urging the passage of the measure Representative Chiperfield referred to the memorable Billik case in Chicago, and the boy who almost at the last minute admitted that he had perjured himself in giving the testimony which caused the death penalty to be imposed.

"In my opinion," said Chiperfield, "Billik would to-day be sleeping in the unknown if a Catholic priest had not followed him into the shadow of the gallows and saved him."

LEAVES $240,000 TO PUBLIC.

Will of W. B. Rice Provides for Charitable Institution or Training School.

DEDHAM, Mass., May 27.—Public bequests amounting to $240,000 are provided in the will of the late William B. Rice of Quincy, a wealthy shoe manufacturer, which was filed for probate here to-day. The principal bequest is of $200,000 for the establishment of some charitable institution bearing his name, the character of it left to the executors and trustees, although the testator suggests a home for aged or the unfortunate, or a school at which men and women can learn some trade.

The town of Hudson receives $20,000 to be used to establish either a manual training school, a hospital, or a home for district nurses, and $20,000 goes to the Quincy City Hospital, which Mr. Rice established some years ago.

AGAINST TELEPHONE RIVALRY.

City Club Committee Favors Retaining Only One Company.

The trustees of the club have adopted a report submitted by a special committee appointed to consider the Atlantic Telephone Company's application to the city for a franchise in which it is recommended that while the establishment of an opposition company in the city would be advisable, the request should not be granted.

"The advantages to the city of one company are too obvious to need enumeration," says the report.

SENATOR BAILEY ASSAULTS REPORTER

Angered by Article in New York Times, Throttles Man Who Did Not Write It.

IN CORRIDOR OF CAPITOL

Makes a Second Assault, and Is Restrained from a Third by Senator Clapp.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Senator Bailey of Texas took occasion this afternoon to emphasize his dislike of what was said of his attitude on the income tax in these dispatches on Sunday morning by assaulting in a corridor of the Senate wing of the Capitol W. S. Manning, one of the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES's bureau here. The assault followed a speech delivered by Mr. Bailey in the Senate earlier in the afternoon, in which he had denounced the reference to him in the dispatch printed on Sunday and had called its author "an infamous liar." That dispatch was not written by Mr. Manning.

There was an executive session of the Senate on adjournment, and after executive business was disposed of Mr. Manning entered the Chamber looking for members of the Finance Committee, from whom he was seeking information on the tariff. Leaving the Chamber he saw Mr. Bailey ahead in the corridor and joined him.

"Senator," he said, "I am with THE NEW YORK TIMES. I did not write that story, but I—"

"Who did write it, the ——?" interrupted the Senator.

"Wait a minute," said the reporter. "In your speech you referred to the possible inspiration of THE TIMES's article by the Republican Senators. I want to tell you it was not inspired by the Republicans, but by just such incidents as that of this afternoon, when you split the vote of the income taxers."

"That can't be," said Mr. Bailey with apparent equanimity, "because there was not any split before. It was all a damned lie."

"I did not have the honor of writing the story," replied the reporter. "But its inspiration did not come from the Republican Senators. It came from just such behavior as yours this afternoon when you split the vote of the supporters of the tax."

Bailey Assaults Reporter.

By this time the two men were turning the corner in front of the Finance Committee room, walking side by side.

"Look here, you," exclaimed Mr. Bailey, drawing back his right arm, and without more ado he reached up and caught the reporter by the throat with both hands, clinching so close that even had the reporter desired to use the umbrella which he carried in his left hand he could not have done so.

Mr. Manning hit back as well as the close quarters permitted, and Capitol attendants rushed up to part the combatants. In drawing apart Mr. Bailey held on to the reporter's umbrella, of which he had caught hold in the scuffle, and waving it aloft, again prepared for hostilities. Mr. Bailey struck out with the umbrella, but it is Mr. Manning's opinion that the blow fell on a peacemaker who rushed between them.

This time the men were definitely separated, and Mr. Bailey dropped the umbrella, which he had badly bent. Mr. Manning picked it up.

"You see," he said, "in using this weapon against an unarmed man you have spoiled a very good umbrella."

"You —," roared the Texan, and again he rushed at the reporter.

Blows Exchanged and a Clinch.

This time there was more room and blows were exchanged. Mr. Bailey again clinched, however, thus impeding the action of his arms. Underneath, however, the reporter punched away at Mr. Bailey's heavy chin, and as the Texan stooped lower and lower in his effort to throttle again, a few half-arm blows were landed on his head.

When the combatants were again separated a Capitol policeman asked Mr. Bailey if he wanted his antagonist held, and he replied that he did not. Mr. Bailey and his opponent then left the ground. Among the bystanders who rushed in to stop the fight was Senator Clapp of Minnesota, who stepped out of an elevator just as the fracas began. He laid hold of Senator Bailey at the last and prevented his starting hostilities for the third time. At the end of the fight Mr. Bailey showed no signs of damage.

The Reference to Mr. Bailey.

The dispatch to which Mr. Bailey objected described the attitude of the different Senators on the tariff. It spoke of the differences among the Republicans, and then said:

> Among the Democrats there are similar differences. It probably will provoke a storm of indignation to say it, but there have been numerous indications that here, too, Senator Aldrich has a number of followers, who may faithfully be set down under the classification of "Aldrich's men." They are headed by that distinguished son of Texas, Joseph Weldon Bailey. Again and again Bailey has taken a position on one fight or another in the Senate that has played directly into Aldrich's hand. His action on the income tax amendments now pending is the latest demonstration of his willingness to help his Rhode Island leader out of a difficult situation. He has manoeuvred so as to divide the adherents of the income tax proposition, while apparently favoring it and himself introducing an amendment providing for such a tax. The result, despite the efforts of the real friends of an income tax to effect a compromise, will no doubt be to defeat the proposition, which Aldrich has been vigorously opposing.

Mr. Bailey's Attack on Writer.

In the course of a denunciation of this description of his attitude, Mr. Bailey intimated in the Senate this afternoon that it had been inspired by some political and Republican source.

"Before I resume my seat," said Mr. Bailey, who had been speaking on the income tax amendments, "I want to refer to a deliberate attempt to misrepresent the attitude of the Democrats on the tariff. It is a statement that the income tax amendment is being pushed by me for the purpose of aiding the Senator from Rhode Island. The man who wrote it is an infamous liar, and I am surprised that such a paper as THE NEW YORK TIMES should have printed it.

"The miserable man who wrote it did not try to explain it. He knew his statement was unfounded and could not be explained, but he wrote it in the hope that one man in twenty would be deceived by it. He forgets that for twelve years I have been advocating an income tax. Without explaining those things the article is an attempt to muddy the water in behalf of those in charge of the bill.

"If the Cummins amendment had been introduced first and I had insisted on introducing mine, an ignorant man might have thought I was trying to alienate the Republican and Democratic supporters of the tax. If my amendment carried the Cummins graduated feature, such a paper would have sworn that I was trying to do something new. It is a deliberate, sedate, and studied policy to misrepresent the Democrats.

"I do not believe the story was inspired by Republican Senators. Those men are above such acts. I do say that the man who wrote this article is not fit to associate with the Senators on the other side. A venal, traitorous, and lying paper is the worst enemy to the Republic."

ALDRICH PUTS OFF A VOTE.

Income Tax Amendments Must Wait Till After June 10.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Following discussion of the sugar schedule, continued to-day in the Senate and ending with the defeat of the Bristow amendment, the present rates of 1.90 on refined sugar being retained, Senator Bailey sent up his income tax proposition, which he offered as an amendment to the paragraph under consideration.

While the reading of the amendment was proceeding there were many hurried conferences on the floor. Mr. Cummins, author of an income tax amendment which, it is believed, has the support of Republican advocates of such a tax, talked with Senators Borah, Dixon, Beveridge, and other supporters of his plan. Mr. Hale conversed with Mr. Bailey and learned that the latter intended to demand that a vote be taken now, or that a time be fixed for the taking of a vote.

Senator Aldrich then moved to postpone consideration of the amendment until June 10. In reply Senator Bailey referred to the fact that Senator Aldrich had tried to get a vote on the whole bill for June 2, and said that it was strange he would not agree to a vote on a part of the measure before that time. He appealed to the progressive Republicans to force a vote before the time suitable to the Finance Committee. He told them it would make possible the placing of many things on the free list. The adoption of an income tax amendment producing $89,000,000 would necessitate the rearrangement of the schedule, he said, and it would be better to adopt the amendment now than after the whole bill had been agreed to.

Agreement Proposed.

Mr. Bailey then asked unanimous consent to take up the income tax amendments after the schedules were disposed of, on an agreement that there should be no motion to further postpone or to refer the amendment to a committee. That request, said Mr. Cummins, was impossible, and Senator Aldrich added that he could not bind the Senators to something the vote of the Senate must decide. Request was then made for unanimous consent to take up the amendments at the time indicated, but Mr. Bailey objected unless his conditions were granted.

"But I don't want to see the Senator from Iowa (Cummins) and the Senator from Rhode Island (Aldrich) get together," he added after further colloquy, "and I withdraw my objection."

Soon, however, he renewed it, and Senator Newlands announced that he would have objected otherwise.

"The Senator from Texas," said Mr. Cummins, "takes a narrow-minded view of unanimous consent. It means, as I have asked it, that the amendment will be taken up and the advantage will be that there will be no further move to postpone. I have no quarrel with the Senator from Texas; I want to preserve our strength for the income tax struggle."

"The consent asked," replied Mr. Bailey, "would give no advantage whatever, and Mr. Aldrich would laugh at us in his committee room the moment we accepted it."

Aldrich Stands Ground.

"I seem to be the only man getting the blame," said Mr. Aldrich. "The Senator from Iowa made the suggestion, the Senator of Texas accepted it, and I accepted it, and then he turns on me."

"Because I saw you had the advantage," retorted Mr. Bailey, amid laughter.

"I feel that I can take care of myself," put in Mr. Cummins, "and I am sure the Senator from Texas can take care of himself. So I withdraw the reference to his amendment and ask unanimous consent for my own."

"I don't want to separate them," said Mr. Bailey, resuming his seat.

Mr. Aldrich declined to entertain any proposition for an arrangement to vote in any particular way upon the income tax amendment. He agreed to a suggestion by Mr. Cummins that the income tax amendments should be disposed of immediately upon the disposition of the tariff schedules. He further explained that he had no disposition to prevent consideration of such amendments.

Mr. Bailey, fearing that under this agreement he could not get a direct vote on his amendment, declined to accept it.

An extended discussion followed concerning just what the parliamentary status of these amendments would be.

Mr. Bailey then read from the rules the list of motions Mr. Aldrich could offer to dispose indirectly of the amendments under the unanimous consent asked.

"Under this agreement," said Mr. Hale, "if the Senator has a majority with him he will vote down the motion to refer the amendment to the committee."

"I don't think I will have a majority then," said Mr. Bailey, "and that is why I want a vote now. This concession only abridges our right to offer the amendments when we please."

"Surely," said Senator Cummins, "the Senator does not mean to callenge the sincerity of the progressives."

"Only their wisdom," said Mr. Bailey, while Senator Aldrich watched the increasing heat of the colloquy between the income taxers with a smile.

"I have not voted with the committee," retorted Cummins warmly, "as often as the Senator from Texas. The Republicans are stronger for this measure now than they were three weeks ago."

"Then you can pass it to-day," replied Bailey.

Senator Borah Interposes.

Senator Borah, who has been an ardent supporter of the income tax plan, stated that while he was ready for a vote at any time, he felt that the Finance Committee should be allowed to handle its own bill. He said the Senate owed it to the country to dispose of the pending paragraphs before going into the question of the income tax. Still Mr. Bailey refused to assent to the request of his Republican allies, though Mr. Borah and Mr. Cummins both voted later with the Democrats against the Aldrich motion to postpone consideration.

The strongest indication of the alienation Mr. Bailey's policy has occasioned between the insurgent Republicans and the Democrats came just before adjournment, amid the laughter of the Senate and galleries.

"In view of the chance of interference from the Supreme Court," said Mr. Nelson, "I think we ought to proceed with the schedule of the bill first before basing our calculations on the receipts from this proposed tax. I was once very warm for the income tax, but since the vote on lumber I doubt whether there will be any need for the additional revenue."

By the aid of Mr. Bailey and seventeen other Democrats, Mr. Aldrich had succeeded on Monday in defeating an amendment putting lumber on the free list. Mr. Bailey did not crac ka smile at Mr. Nelson's sally.

The vote on the Aldrich motion was then taken, and consideration of the income tax was postponed until June 10 by a vote of 50 to 32. Only six of the sixteen Republicans claimed outright for the movement three weeks ago, according to Mr. Bailey's own statement, followed the Texan in his manoeuvre to-day. These were Borah, Bristow, Clapp, Cummins, Dolliver, and La Follette. The other ten either voted with the organization or were not present.

HOUSE RESUMES BUSINESS.

Porto Rican Assembly's Position Described as Revolution.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—When the House of Representatives was called to order to-day there was an unusually large attendance and a general disposition to proceed with the transaction of business. After disposing of some routine matters, consideration of the Porto Rican bill was resumed.

Mr. Douglass (Ohio) arraigned the House of Delegates of Porto Rico for making it a condition precedent, as he charged, to its assent to appropriations that the Executive Council or upper body agree to certain legislation. "It amounts to revolution—nothing else," he exclaimed.

Mr. Larrinaga, Porto Rico Delegate, declared that Porto Rico would be willing to surrender her customs duties and much more in exchange for rights and privileges enjoyed by the States. "Give us some of those," he exclaimed, "and you will hear here in Washington a hurrah from Porto Rico blessing this Government."

Consideration of the bill will be resumed to-morrow.

Speaker Cannon and several members of the House left here this afternoon for a three-day automobile trip into Pennsylvania.

BINGHAM DISCUSSES HIS JOB.

Says He Would Only Take It Again If He Felt Everybody Wanted Him.

When asked yesterday morning about the report that a story which appeared in a magazine was written to boom his candidacy for Mayor, Police Commissioner Bingham discussed the position of Mayor and also the chances of his accepting the appointment to his present place again. When asked about the article in the magazine, he said:

"I never knew the article was written or printed until somebody called my attention to it recently."

"Would you take the job of Police Commissioner again?" the Commissioner was asked.

"I don't think I would. The condition which would make me take this job over again could hardly be brought about. I will say this. If it were put up strongly to me and I felt that the whole community wanted me and was satisfied with me I would give it very serious consideration, but I would not take this job again unless circumstances and conditions of the position were changed to meet my views. I am not eager for it, am not fishing for it. My plans are made with a view to winding up this position on Dec. 31. Oh, a hundred men could fill my job and keep it up on my lines, or perhaps better lines. I am not such a fool as to think others could not fill the job."

TO RUN MAIL TRAINS WITH NEGRO FIREMEN

MAIL CLERKS ALL NEGROES

Terminal Company to Act with Gov. Smith and Commissioner Neill in Effort to Settle Strike.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 27.—The Georgia Railroad will start twelve mail trains to-morrow morning. A dispatch from Augusta to-night says that the crews that will go out from there will be about half of negro firemen and half of white firemen, not members of the brotherhood. The mail clerks will all be negroes. The gravest concern in this breaking of the ice by the first train run in five days in a community which has supported the racial contention of the strikers is felt here to-night among the men, who for forty-eight hours have been continuously working for some solution of the difficulty.

Post Office Inspectors will accompany each of the trains to be sent out to-morrow. This announcement was made to-night following a conference between George M. Sutton, Inspector in charge of the Atlanta Division, and United States District Attorney Tate.

Mr. Sutton said it was deemed wise to have experienced Inspectors accompany each of the trains for the purpose of making observations, ascertaining the sentiment of the people along the line.

General Manager Scott in announcing the resumption of mail service refused to answer questions about the personnel of the engine crews. "I consider this a great concession for the road to make," was his only comment.

He would not say whether the road would accept the service of the brotherhood firemen as proffered indirectly yesterday by Vice President Ball. Assistant Grand Chief Burgess of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers said he told Mr. Scott to-night that he understood that the Government assured adequate protection for the engineers.

Reports to-day from the strike districts showed that where three days ago communities were sending out appeals for necessities of life, there now exists a wagon and automobile service so well developed that the last vestige of want has disappeared.

At Thompson, Ga., to-day, every merchant was running a line of wagons to Augusta, thirty-seven miles away, and a traction engine and car were working under lease at the rate of $25 a day. By carriage and by automobile the round trip to Augusta was from $3.50 to $7 per head, according to class. A carload of provisions opened at Camak, near by, became exhausted to-day, and the price of provisions advanced. However, enough eggs and vegetables were to be had to keep the people from suffering.

Costington, which is on the line of another road, had plenty of provisions and an opportunity to sell to less fortunate neighbors. Automobile fares from there to Atlanta were $5 to $10 for forty miles. This fare was about the highest rate in the strike district.

Another crisis is the fate of arbitration. By noon to-morrow it may be known. No official announcements have been made, but the assertion that United States Commissioner of Labor Neill has notified General Manager Scott of the railroad that he must make final decision whether he will accept arbitration has been repeatedly made in authoritative sources throughout the day. It is significant that to-morrow morning for the first time a complete conference on arbitration will be possible.

The Georgia Joint Terminal Company controls the tracks on which the Georgia Railroad enters Atlanta, and the switchmen insist that any agreement to arbitrate must include the terminal company. Three Directors control this company, and up to to-day there has not been a majority of them present in Atlanta to act in concurrence with the Georgia Railroad.

AUGUSTA, May 27.—A mail train will be started out of Augusta on the Georgia Railroad to-morrow morning at 7:55, for Atlanta. A mail train which will start from Atlanta is due to reach here at 2:25 P. M.

There will be twelve crews handling ten trains to-morrow. Ten of the firemen marked up for the trips are negroes. The other two are white men not members of the Firemen's Brotherhood.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Upon his return to-day from Indianapolis, where he attended the Indiana Postmasters' Convention, Second Assistant Postmaster General Stewart found a dispatch from Vice President Ball of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, who is conducting the strike.

"It is currently reported," he telegraphed, "that an effort is being made to charge the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen with responsibility for interference with the United States mails on the Georgia Railroad. So far from this being true, we stand prepared to aid you in getting the mails through. I should be glad to confer with any representative of the Post Office Department designated by you (the Postmaster General) to aid in accomplishing this result."

TO OUST PORTO RICO LOTTERY

Secret Service Men Sent There to Stamp Out the Evil.

According to dispatches received in Washington the lottery frauds in Porto Rico are still being conducted there and the Government has determined to take active steps in the matter. In a few days two Secret Service men, accompanied by a Santo Domingan, conversant with the methods of operating the frauds, will leave this country for Porto Rico, where they will make a thorough investigation and will make arrests if necessary.

According to a man well versed in the affairs of the lottery the Porto Rican agent who distributes the tickets is still making his regular monthly trips from Santo Domingo to Porto Rico, and the illegal traffic is still being vigorously pushed throughout this island territory of the United States.

The present revolutionary tangle in Santo Domingo has made money very scarce throughout the island, and this has made the lottery owners more bold in their efforts both at home and in Porto Rico to inveigle the public into the scheme.

La Republica, a newspaper published in San Pedro de Macoris, one of the principal towns of Santo Domingo, says in an editorial of recent date, headed "Lottery Tickets":

"In past editions we have spoken of the tickets for the $10,000 prize lottery which are sold here at scandalous prices, and are practically controlled by one man in Santo Domingo. In Porto Rico these tickets are sold at $2.25 and $2.50, as many Santo Domingans have found to be true. Even in our own capital as much as $2.80 a ticket has been paid for them, whereas their nominal price is $2. Say what you will this is a bare-faced robbery, especially when our country is now passing through a stage of hunger and misery."

men. The decision of the committee centred about a point raised by Frank Hedley, General Manager of the Interborough, to the effect that the franchise granted to the McAdoo company by the Public Service Commission allows it to occupy any part of Forty-second Street that it pleases for its stations, thereby interfering with any future extension of the present Subway. Mr. Hedley referred repeatedly to "the city's Subway system" when speaking of the present tubes.

The whole contention sifted down to the exact specifications for the location of the proposed station at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue. Mr. Hedley contended, and was supported by Controller Metz, that while the franchise prohibits the McAdoo company from extending its tunnels north of the medial line of Forty-second Street there is no such restriction for stations. Mr. Metz declared that the point was vital, and that if it is not straightened out he would vote against the confirmation of the franchise.

Borough President Ahearn and Alderman Timothy P. Sullivan, who sat on the committee in the place of President McGowan of the Aldermen, seemed to agree with the Controller and the hearing was adjourned until next Wednesday to give the McAdoo people time to apply to the commission for a more definite resolution in regard to the location of the station.

Others at the hearing, besides the members of the committee, were George Kunz of Tiffany & Co., Gustav Schwab, ex-Controller Grout, and Chief Engineer Lewis of the Board of Estimate.

After Mr. Hedley had presented his objections to the plans for the McAdoo extension as drawn, Mr. Stern inquired:

"Your company is not the only privileged party, is it, which can bid on this subway?"

Mr. Hedley replied that he recognized that fact, and Mr. Stern continued:

"With all respect to you, what does the Interborough intend to do in the way of extensions?"

Mr. Hedley replied that the Interborough has several plans under consideration.

Mr. McAdoo then asked if it would not be possible for the present subway to go through Fortieth or Forty-first Street, from Park Avenue to Lexington, "with equal advantage and with the expenditure of less money," in order to connect with the proposed east side subway.

Mr. Hedley replied that no such plan had been laid out, and Mr. McAdoo continued:

"But it could be done, couldn't it? There is no engineering difficulty?"

The Interborough General Manager admitted that this was true.

"As I understand it," said the Controller, "the original Subway plans drawn by the old Rapid Transit Commission called for two complete systems of Subways, one on the west side and one on the east, running into the Bronx, and if there is anything in this franchise that will interfere with this, I, for one, want to block it."

"Can this be decided by the Public Service Commission?" asked Mr. Stern.

Metz Criticises Utilities Board.

"I don't know what they will do," replied the Controller. "It is possible that they are on the level in this matter. But look what they did with the Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn. They were ready to turn all the money the city had into this project, and now they are backing down and putting the thing up to the Board of Estimate. I have been up against the Public Service Commission twice and I don't like the way those gentlemen play politics."

"If the thing can be legally drawn," stated Mr. McAdoo, "I am willing to enter into a gentlemen's agreement with the Interborough and the city not to interfere with our stations."

"I have heard of those things before," replied the Controller.

William H. Cooper, Vice President of the Siegel, Cooper Company; Mr. Stern, and Frank R. Chambers of Rogers, Peet & Co. then spoke in favor of the confirmation of the franchise.

"It seems to me," said Mr. Stern, "that the only opposition to this comes from one corporation, the Interborough, while the whole west side wants to see this subway built. The question of the station at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue is an A B C matter which can be easily settled by the Public Service Commission. If you hold this whole thing up now on account of this, a great deal of delay will be caused, when the whole project should be pushed forward as fast as it can."

Chandler Withington, Chief Engineer of the Department of Finance, submitted a report in which he opposed the granting of the franchise for several reasons. He criticised the section system of construction of the McAdoo tunnels.

CHANCE FOR BROOKLYN SUBWAY

Could be Easily Built, Says the Mayor, by Assessing Property There.

Mayor McClellan offered what he believes should be a most satisfactory solution of the Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, subway wrangle yesterday in commenting on the final approval of the Travis-Robinson Subway bill by the Governor. One of the bill's most important features, which, the Mayor says he and Public Service Commissioner Bassett drew in collaboration, is a provision for assessing the purchase price of privately constructed subways on the property benefited by them.

"As a general proposition," said the Mayor, "I believe in this assessment principle. If the property owners of any particular district are willing to pay for a subway I do not see why the city should not build there. If the provisions of the Travis-Robinson bill are applied to the Fourth Avenue Subway it will settle the whole discussion. If the property owners down there are willing to be assessed on the subway I can see no reason why the city should not allow the route to be constructed."

The Mayor expressed satisfaction at the vetoing of the Automobile bill by the Governor. He declared that under it all the parkways and parks of the city would have been opened to vehicular traffic.

WOMAN'S SUICIDE LEADS TO ANOTHER

Capt. McCue of the Fire Department Hears of Neighbor's Act and Plunges to Death.

NEWS A SHOCK TO HIM

Physician Thinks There Was Hypnotic Suggestion in the Fireman's Suicide.

News of the suicide of a neighbor, a young woman who had killed herself that morning by jumping out of a fourth-story window, told to him as he was going home to dinner last night, so unnerved Capt. Thomas J. McCue of Engine Company 140, Brooklyn, that he ended his life two hours later by jumping off the roof of a six-story apartment house at 116 Wallabout Street. He fell on his head in an alleyway and died in a few seconds.

Capt. McCue, who was 48 years old, had served twenty-five years in the Fire Department, and lived happily with his family, consisting of his wife and 18-year-old daughter, Marguerite, at 131 Keap Street. He had applied to be retired on June 1 on account of nervousness, brought on, it was said, through excessive smoking.

The Captain was an abstemious man in his habts as regards liquor, but he smoked twenty-five cigars a day. He had been acting queerly in the last few weeks, his friends said last night, but he seemed to be in good spirits yesterday when he left the engine house, which is at Prospect Street and Greenwood Avenue, Flatbush, to go home to dinner at 4 o'clock.

At Bedford Avenue and Keap Street Capt. McCue saw a crowd of people standing outside 583 Bedford Avenue, a four-story brownstone house, less than a stone's throw from his own home. When he inquired what the trouble was, a man told him that Mrs. Ella Friedman, wife of Henry Friedman, Principal of Public School 32, in Sheriff Street, Manhattan, the mother of five children, had jumped out of the fourth-story window at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and killed herself.

The fire Captain turned pale and staggered. He placed his hand to his head and muttered:

"Poor woman! I saw her alive and well as I went to work this morning."

He was then apparently eager for further details, and was informed that Mrs. Friedman had been afflicted with nervousness since the birth of her youngest baby, a month ago. A nurse named May Frankel had been engaged to act as her maid and keep a close watch on her.

Mrs. Friedman seemed more rational yesterday than she had been recently, and after sending her four youngest children into a playroom she went to the third floor front room to her baby. Just before 3 o'clock she called the maid into the room and handing her the baby asked if she would care for it. The mother kissed the baby as it lay in Miss Frankel's arms and then said: "May, if anything should happen to me, take good care of my little one."

Mrs. Friedman went out into the hall, and the maid soon followed her to see where she was going. It was too late. Her mistress had gone deliberately up to the fourth floor. There she climbed out of the rear window and crawled along the ledge, and after standing on her feet for a few moments to poise herself for the spring, she plunged down on the stone flags of the courtyard.

Capt. McCue talked of nothing else while he sat at dinner with his family. Presently he said, "Well, I'm going to leave you now." He kissed his wife and daughter and left, supposedly to go back to the engine house.

He walked to White Avenue and took a Franklin Avenue car as far as Wallabout Street, where he got off and entered the hallway of 116. As he was in his uniform, Eva Clautzman, a twelve-year-old girl, sitting on the stoop, asked where he was going. Patting the child on the head, Capt. McCue replied:

"I'm going on the roof, little one."

He went up on the roof and crossed to that of No. 120, where a little girl was nursing her baby brother. Returning to the roof of No. 116, he stood for a moment on the coping at the side of the alleyway, then plunged off.

His shadow as he fell past the windows was seen by the tenants in their apartments, and they gave the alarm. A doctor, who was called immediately after the accident, said that the man had probably jumped off the roof as the result of hypnotic suggestion created by the suicide of Mrs. Friedman, and also partly on account of nervous melancholia induced by excessive smoking.

BURGLARY INSURANCE BOARD.

New York Underwriters Form One Based on National Association.

The managers of the various New York offices of burglary insurance companies met yesterday and organized a New York Board of Burglary Underwriters, adopting the constitution and by-laws of the National Association of Burglary Underwriters. About one-third of the $2,500,000 of premiums written annually in the United States is on New York City business. The National association has been in existence for about eight years.

The following officers of the new organization were elected for the ensuing year: Edwin L. Quackenbush, Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corporation, President; Norman Moray, American Bonding Company, Vice President; Nelson D. Sterling, Aetna Indemnity Company, Secretary, and W. C. Mulvey, Maryland Casualty Company, Treasurer. The Executive Committee is made up as follows: William H. Pomeroy, Fidelity and Casualty Company; E. J. Miller, National Surety Company, Frederick R. Shepherd, London Guarantee and Accident Company, and R. P. Luckett, United States Casualty Company.

Jackson thereupon entered into negotiations looking either to the purchase of The London Times by them, or its control by those whose management of the property would not impair the value of their existing contract.

The bill states that services in connection with the sale of the newspaper were given by Mr. Hooper and Mr. Jackson, as a result of which it was purchased in March, 1908, by a company organized through the negotiations of the partners. For the personal service thus given, Mr Jackson says, an offer had been made by the proposed purchasers to pay them 10 per cent. of the purchase price, which was $1,600,000. The new proprietors of The Times entered into a further contract with Hooper and Jackson individually giving them the right to publish and sell exclusively such subscription books as might be mutually agreed upon in the name of The London Times and through its influence.

The break between Mr. Hooper and Mr. Jackson, according to the bill, was about last July, when they had a disagreement as to the general policy to be pursued in relation to their joint undertakings. Mr. Hooper desired to organize a large corporation to acquire The Times and amalgamate it with their business and sell certain of its securities to the public. To this Mr. Jackson objected as a scheme hazardous and likely to result in a loss. Mr. Hooper then proposed to raise $1,500,000 upon their joint assets, to be used in bringing out the eleventh edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica on an elaborate scale, with great expenditures for advertising in practically all parts of the world simultaneously. To this scheme Mr. Jackson would not give his assent. Mr. Hooper thereupon proposed liquidation of their joint concerns, and asked Mr. Jackson to act as liquidator in the sale of their assets. In a letter to Mr. Jackson he stated that he was willing to close up his whole business and expressed the belief that Mr. Jackson should assume entire responsibility for two or three years, in order that Mr. Hooper might have a needed rest.

Mr. Jackson says he consented to this plan, and last October negotiations were pending, with the approval of Mr. Hooper, for the sale of the going business as a whole. The partners met in New York in November, when Mr. Hooper proposed that Mr. Jackson should purchase his interest in the business for $2,000,000. Mr. Jackson declined this offer, and Mr. Hooper then proposed that he (Hooper) should be given sole charge and have a large salary for his services. Mr. Jackson also declined to concur in this proposition. Mr. Jackson alleges that Mr. Hooper thereupon declared that through his control of the dummy Directors of the Encyclopaedia Britannica Company and the alleged indebtedness of Hooper & Jackson, Limited, to that corporation he would assume full control of all their business and affairs, exclude Mr. Jackson from participation therein, and no longer be bound by the agreement as to equal authority and control in management.

Mr. Jackson charges that in furtherance of this scheme Mr. Hooper has disregarded the original partnership agreement, and through the nominal Directors of the Encyclopaedia Britannica Company has placed himself in a position in which he can control the affairs of the corporation.

A Prediction and How it is Likely to Be Realized in the Weber Grand Pianola Piano
A recent writer on musical subjects made the following prediction:
Judging from present indications it seems altogether likely that the Baby Grand Piano and the PIANOLA PIANO will soon monopolize the attention of the piano buying public.
In view of the unmistakable tendency of piano buyers towards one or the other of these two instruments, the timeliness of the new GRAND PIANOLA PIANO recently announced by the Aeolian Co. is apparent.
The person must be cold indeed whose imagination is not fired by the idea of so superb a musical instrument as the Weber Small Grand made available to every music lover by its combination with the Standard Piano-player of the World.
The success of the UPRIGHT PIANOLA PIANO, (which was so great as to cause imitation by practically all other piano makers,) indicates what may be expected from the new Weber GRAND PIANOLA PIANO.
The Weber Grand PIANOLA PIANO is Unquestionably Destined to be One of the Chief Musical Instruments of the Future
Informal Demonstrations of the Weber Grand PIANOLA PIANO to which the public is invited are given daily between 10 and 12 A. M.
The PIANOLA is a trade-mark name applying only to the Piano-player made by the Aeolian Co. Whether as a separate attachment or as an integral part of a piano, the Pianola offers advantages found in no other instrument of its type, chief among which are the Metrostyle and the Themodist.

LEADERS DIVIDED ON JEROME'S SHOWING

Murphy Silent, but His Emissaries Were in Cooper Union to Watch the Effect on the Crowd.

GOFF'S ICE TRUST DECISION

Was Handed Down on May 5—Coler Accuses Jerome of Deliberate Falsehood in Stock Deal Charge.

Jerome stock was not the most bullish feature on the political mart yesterday. The leaders who, with a municipal campaign at hand, are looking for only safe investments, showed the greatest caution. Neither in the Democratic nor the Republican camp was any eagerness displayed to claim the District Attorney as a political asset in the Fall elections on the strength of his performance at the Cooper Union meeting. Their attitude is one of waiting for further developments, not committing themselves meanwhile.

Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy, when asked at Tammany Hall yesterday for his opinion about the showing made by District Attorney Jerome in defending his administration and on whether Mr. Jerome had thereby advanced his political prospects, merely shook his head and declared he had nothing to say.

None of the leaders who gathered at the Wigwam was willing to make any statement for publication regarding the Jerome "heckle," or to express an opinion as to whether he had acquitted himself creditably.

In discussing the meeting with their friends, they spoke with more freedom. Half a dozen leaders who were interviewed were about equally divided in opinion. Three thought Mr. Jerome had "made good." The three others, who had read about the meeting in the morning papers, said the stories had led them to the conclusion that the Cooper Union audience was more friendly toward the District Attorney before he began to speak than after he had finished.

Tammany Leader Murphy had half a dozen emissaries in the audience at Cooper Union to watch the effect of Mr. Jerome's answers. According to a report current yesterday, Senator Thomas F. Grady occupied a seat in a secluded nook of the hall, where he could hear and see all that was going on without being much observed himself. Mr. Murphy has had his eye on District Attorney Jerome for many months, and knew, of course, that his value as a candidate would depend greatly on the manner in which he acquitted himself at the meeting.

There are some leaders in Tammany Hall who have urged on Mr. Murphy the advisability of nominating Mr. Jerome for Mayor. This idea was knocked in the head when Mr. Jerome formally announced that, under no circumstances, would he be a candidate for that office. Since then Mr. Murphy and some of the other leaders have been considering whether or not to put his name on the Tammany ticket for re-election to the office he now occupies. Whether the developments at the meeting at Cooper Union on Wednesday night affected his chances favorably or unfavorably could not be predicted from any hint that either Mr. Murphy or the leaders to whose advice he listens most were willing to say yesterday.

But there are some leaders in Tammany Hall who are very favorably disposed toward Mr. Jerome and will stick to him through thick and thin. These are among the most influential in the organization, too. Among them are mentioned Sheriff Thomas Foley, Fire Commissioner Nicholas J. Hayes, the Sullivans, big and small, and their following in the Executive Committee: Senator James J. Frawley, Maurice Featherson, James V. Coggey, George F. Scannell, and Thomas E. Rush.

President Herbert Parsons of the Republican County Committee was out of town yesterday. He also had scouts out to watch the effect of District Attorney Jerome's oratory on the Cooper Union audience. One Republican prominent in the organization said yesterday that, judging from the newspaper reports, he thought District Attorney Jerome had a little the better of it at the meeting.

The Republicans are not losing sight of District Attorney Jerome any more than is Tammany. In connection with this there has been current a report that Theodore Roosevelt, as a last admonition to local Republicans before he sailed away for Africa, advised the leaders that an independent Democrat, either at the head of the ticket or in some other conspicuous place, would add strength which could never be attained by a straight Republican ticket. There are some men prominent in the organization who believe that the former President had Mr. Jerome in mind when he gave this advice.

A friend speaking for Justice Goff yesterday replied to the assertion made by District Attorney Jerome in his Cooper Union speech that the failure to bring the Ice Trust to trial on four indictments found against that corporation for violation of the anti-trust law was due to the fact that Justice Goff had held up for ten months his decision on demurrers filed to the indictments. Mr. Jerome declared Justice Goff lacked courage to render a decision, because in instructing the Grand Jury to indict he had virtually overruled a decision of the Court of Appeals bearing on the matter.

Yesterday it developed that Justice Goff had handed down his decision on May 5 denying the motions, so that the cases now must come to trial. When Mr. Jerome learned this he said he was not aware of it, that he had intended no attack on Justice Goff, but that even if he had been aware that the decisions had been made he would have felt justified in saying that Justice Goff had held up the decisions for ten months.

Borough President Coler of Brooklyn also came back at Mr. Jerome. Mr. Coler's retort was based on District Attorney Jerome's assertion that "Mr. Coler lacked the courage of a man to preserve intact the confidence of his clients in order to placate Thomas F. Ryan." The assertion was made in connection with Mr. Jerome's charge that Pomeroy Burton, city editor of The World in 1903, and Joseph Eakins of the same paper, went short of Metropolitan stock in Coler's office at the time of Mr. Jerome's first investigation of the company.

"When Mr. Jerome said that he lied, and he knew it," said Mr. Coler yesterday, "I have never dealt in Metropolitan traction stocks. Burton never was a client of mine. I did receive a letter from him informing me that the paper he was with would make an attack on the Metropolitan Street Railway and advising me to sell the stock short. I sent this letter to Mr. Ryan. I would have done the same if the attack had been directed against Controller Metz or Senator McCarren, who are my enemies. If Jerome knew of it why didn't he prosecute me?"

Charles Sprague Smith, Director of the People's Institute, under whose auspices the Cooper Union meeting was held, said that his connection with it precluded any comment on his part.

"Mr. Jerome did set a valuable precedent, which I believe other elective officials should be and will be compelled to follow in the near future," said Mr. Smith.

Col. Robert Grier Monroe, who was active in both of Mr. Jerome's campaigns, occupied a seat on the platform at the Cooper Union meeting. He said he thought the District Attorney had made a good showing.

"On the whole, I think Mr. Jerome ought to feel that he met his questioners fairly and successfully," said Col. Monroe. "Of course, many questions were too technical to permit of explanations which an audience like the one which gathered in Cooper Union could understand, and the Chairman's rule that only one question could be put forward by each interrogator did not give either Mr. Jerome or those who questioned him much opportunity to come to an understanding."

SCHUETZENBUND SAILS AWAY

Two Hundred Members Leave for Germany to Join in a Shooting Festival.

The German-American National Schuetzenbund, 200 strong, sailed yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Main, to take part in the international shooting festival to be held at Hamburg from July 10 to 19.

The New York delegation, the New York Schuetzen Corps, the Central Schuetzen Corps, and the City Schuetzen Corps, accompanied by their wives and families, arrived in Hoboken in the morning. They were met at the ferry and escorted to the pier by hundreds of members of marksmen organizations in Hudson County and two companies of the Ninth Regiment, N. G. N. Y., under Capt. Tompkins. They marched past the City Hall, where they were reviewed by the city officials.

On the march to Odd Fellows' Hall the paraders dipped their colors and cheered in front of the home of Capt. Emil Berckmann, President of the National Schuetzen Bund, at 332 Garden Street. The Captain was hurt in a runaway accident three days ago. All along the line of march the houses were decorated with bunting.

At the Odd Fellows' Hall the departing marksmen were met by hundreds of children of the Hoboken Turn Verein, who scattered flowers before them as they marched past. Vice President A. J. Volk of the National organization presented to them a large American flag, the centre of each star being a half-eagle gold piece.

A letter of regret from Gov. Fort was read. Speeches followed, and after a luncheon, the marksmen marched to the North German Lloyd pier. As the Main pulled out into the river, at noon, a great crowd gathered on every pier head, waved and shouted their farewells to the departing marksmen and their families. The vessel was chartered for the trip at an expense, it is said, of $10,000.

A SHIPLOAD OF DYNAMITE.

Ten Million Pounds of Explosive to Go to Panama Canal.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Some time in July there will steam out from a port on the North Atlantic coast a vessel which may carry ten million pounds of dynamite for the Panama Canal, or may have in its hold an equal amount of Trojan powder. In any event, it will be loaded with sufficient explosive to blow it up so completely that not a vestige of its wreckage or its crew might remain.

The Isthmian Canal Commission is about to purchase the explosives for use in digging the Canal. Bids will be opened here June 7, for a supply sufficient to continue work during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1909. If dynamite is lower in price than the powder, it will be molded into sticks eight inches long, and be packed in boxes each containing fifty pounds. As the Commission is desirous of landing the explosive on the Isthmus at as early a date as possible the award will be made shortly after the bids are opened.

It is the hope of the Commissioners that the dynamite can be put ashore at either La Boca or Colon by the 1st of August. The permission to allow Trojan powder manufacturers to compete this year is a departure, but the work on the Isthmus is so far advanced that powder now will do equally as good work as dynamite.

So far advanced is the work that Lieut. Col. David D. Gaillard believes that ships will be passing through the Canal before January 1, 1915, the date set by Col. Goethals, Chief Engineer. Col. Gaillard, who is Chief Engineer Goethal's assistant on the Isthmus, is in Washington.

TRACY & CO. OWE $689,843.

Assets of New York Branch but $292,631—Members Out of Town.

Accountants who have been at work on the books of Tracy & Co., the stock brokerage firm which failed on May 17, made a report yesterday showing the firm's liabilities to be $689,843 and nominal assets of $292,631. These figures apply only to the firm's New York office, no report having yet been received from the Chicago branch, which was the clearing house for all the brokerage firm's branches. It was through the Chicago office that most of the grain business was transacted.

E. G. Benedict, New York receiver for Tracy & Co., said yesterday that the actual assets of the New York office will not be much above $100,000.

A great many patrons of Tracy & Co. have called on the receiver demanding stock which they told him they owned outright and which had been in the possession of the firm at the time of the failure.

It was learned yesterday that all the members of Tracy & Co. are out of the city. It was stated at the Wall Street office that William W. Tracy is in the West, that Frederick W. Parker, the Stock Exchange member, is in Europe, and that R. D. Covington had been away for several days.

HARD TO CUT WAR BUDGET.

Taft's Order to Save $10,000,000 Puzzles Secretary Dickinson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Secretary Dickinson is having a difficult time cutting down the estimates for the army to the figure required by President Taft. The President issued an order to both the War and Navy Departments that their estimates must be $20,000,000 below those of last year. Secretary Meyer lopped off his half of the $20,000,000 by cutting deeply into the figures for the maintenance of the navy yards and the operation of the various bureaus, but the only way in which the Secretary of War can effect the necessary economies is by practically eliminating the items intended for the construction of additional buildings at army posts.

No cuts can be made in the Subsistence Department, and the estimates for new equipment have been kept down to their lowest point.

MURRAY'S RESIGNATION READY

But Immigration Commissioner Williams Will Not Take Office Yet.

William Williams, who succeeds Robert Watchorn as Commissioner of Immigration at this port, did not take office yesterday, as he had planned. Mr. Williams has been busy settling up some private business, and it was said yesterday that he would not take charge of affairs on Ellis Island until the first of the month.

Mr. Williams has refused to retain in office Joseph Murray, the present Assistant Commissioner of Immigration, with whom he had trouble while serving as Commissioner some years ago. One of the reasons for Mr. Williams's resignation at that time was concerned with a difference with Mr. Murray, and since his appointment by President Taft, the new Commissioner has stated that Mr. Murray was slated to go.

It is understood that Mr. Murray has his resignation ready to hand in as soon as Mr. Watchorn's successor assumes office.

Forgery Charged in Suit Against Bank.

In a suit it has brought against the Union Bank of Brooklyn to recover $2,200 alleged to have been paid out by the bank on forged checks, the Scranton & Lehigh Coal Company asked Supreme Court Justice Jaycox, in Brooklyn yesterday, for permission to examine the bank's books. Decision was reserved. The coal company alleges that the bank paid out the money from the plaintiff's account on checks forged by a former employe of the company. This man is said to have fled when his peculations were discovered.

$100,000 Fire in Norton, Mass.

NORTON, Mass., May 27.—Three wool storehouses, connected with the George A. Talbot & Sons mill here, were burned to the ground to-day, causing a loss of $100,000. Each storehouse was afire when the flames were discovered, and this fact leads the police to believe that the blaze was of incendiary origin. The wool burned was owned by twenty firms, located in all parts of the country. The

LAFAYETTE-SAVAY ASKED TO EXPLAIN

Count de Lafayette Says He Can't Trace This Great Grandson's Relation to the General.

IS CIVIC ALLIANCE ORGANIZER

Hasn't Replied So Far to a Letter from the Count Asking That His Doubts Be Cleared.

If Nobert Lafayette-Savay, organizer of the American Civic Alliance, will prove that he is a lineal descendant of Gen. Lafayette, who took part in our war of the revolution, Count de Lafayette, a great grandson of the French General, says he will be obliged to Mr. Lafayette-Savay.

Count de Lafayette has seen in this city from his home in France since last November, and it has not pleased him to hear that Nobert Lafayette-Savay has been going into society as Gen. Lafayette's great grandson. Count de Lafayette insists that there is nothing in the Lafayette family tree to indicate that Nobert Lafayette-Savay is a member of the distinguished line.

So positive is Count de Lafayette of this that he has sent a letter from his office, 115 Broadway, to Mr. Lafayette-Savay insisting that he shall tell how he is related to the General.

Nobert Lafayette-Savay has become well known since he has been in New York, particularly in connection with the American Civic Alliance, which he organized some months ago. He became acquainted, soon after his arrival in this city, some two years ago, with men of prominence, among them Henry Clews, the banker; Bradley Martin, the cotillion leader, and many literary and professional folks.

Lafayette-Savay allowed himself to be known as Gen. Lafayette's great-grandson wherever he went, and, owing to his striking likeness to the General, no one doubted that it was all true. He became acquainted, in the course of time, with Mrs. Donald MacLean, then President of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and he was asked to meet the Revolutionary Daughters in this city at a gathering last January in a Fifth Avenue home. Every one was much pleased with him. He spoke feelingly of Gen. Lafayette, who, he said, was his great-grandfather.

Soon after this came the announcement of Mr. Lafayette-Savay's plan for the American Civic Alliance. He proposed to have an organization that would act as an adjunct to the Federal Government at Washington. It would be composed of men of prominence and thought all over the country. They would sit as an advisory group to the Government's Executives and point the way for the country's destiny.

Mr. Lafayette-Savay issued letters of invitation to join the movement to prominent men of this city, thinking that it would be best to start the plan here, and then expand as its efficiency was made plain. Headquarters were established at 507 Fifth Avenue, and Mr. Lafayette-Savay had stationery printed with the names of many well-known New Yorkers as sponsors. Among these were Dr. James B. Wasson of St. Thomas's Church, who was made Treasurer; Admiral W. S. Schley, Rabbi Joseph Silverman, Bishop David H. Greer, George Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly; Bishop Frederick Burgess of Long Island, and Isaac L. Rice, whose wife has been engaged in the anti-noise crusade. These men were all made Vice Presidents of the Alliance. They implicitly believed in Mr. Lafayette-Savay, and they still do.

The Alliance grew in numbers from its inception, and soon Mr. Lafayette-Savay, as its President, announced that it had obtained a membership of 600. The Alliance gave a dinner at the Hotel Astor a few weeks ago, but Mr. Lafayette-Savay's exploitation of his plan as elaborated in a speech that night did not seem to arouse

The Count de Lafayette sent word to Mr. Lafayette-Savay, asking that he meet him some day and talk over the supposed relationship. When no answer came the Count, on May 8, sent this letter:

> Dear Sir: During the last few weeks I have been asked many questions concerning your relationship with the family of Gen. de Lafayette, also my connection with the American Civic Alliance, of which many people imagine I am the organizer. The questions are not surprising if one considers the statement published in the last issue of Who's Who, that you are a great-grandson of Gen. de Lafayette; also the facts that on Jan. 6, at a meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, you were introduced as his great-grandson, and that on other occasions you claimed that relationship in conversation with a number of persons.
> With a genealogy of my family before my eyes, however, I cannot explain your claim. You will oblige me by making these things clear at your early convenience in order to permit me to answer my friends.

Count Lafayette is still waiting for an answer to the letter. He said yesterday that he was aggravated because people in the city were beginning to think he, the Count, had organized the American Civic Alliance.

"My family tree fails to disclose a Lafayette-Savay," he said. "I wish Mr. Lafayette-Savay would straighten this matter out."

FERRY TO STAPLETON NOW.

Municipal Boats Turned Over by the Mayor—Staten Island Celebrates.

That part of Staten Island surrounding Stapleton was aflutter with flags and bunting yesterday and the sound of bands filled the air. The occasion was the opening of the new Municipal Ferry service between the foot of Whitehall Street, Manhattan, and Stapleton. The climax of civic joy came when the ferryboat Richmond, with the Mayor, Borough President Ahearn, Dock Commissioner Spooner, and other city officials arrived at Stapleton about 3:45 o'clock. Her arrival was heralded by 1,000 school children singing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The Mayor in a ten-minute speech said that he was glad to be the one to restore the ferry service to Stapleton which had been dispensed with six years ago. Before long, he said, he hoped to see Staten Island joined to the city by tunnels.

Borough President Cromwell accepted the ferry in behalf of Richmond. After the addresses the party went in automobiles to the Country Club at Dongan Hills, where luncheon was served. There was also a business men's parade. The celebration was carried on until late into the night. On the hill top, back of the town, a monster bonfire was lighted.

The new line boats will run from 4 A. M. until 8 o'clock in the evening. They will make trips every hour and a half, except on Sunday.

AUTO HITS A POLE; 3 HURT.

Bridge Inspecting Party the Victims—One Has Collarbone Broken.

Special to The New York Times.

QUOGUE, L. I., May 27.—A party of officials on their way to inspect a bridge at Sag Harbor suffered in an automobile smashup near here this morning. The steering gear became unmanageable, and the car rammed a telephone pole. In the party were J. Irving Edwards of Riverhead, owner of the automobile; Supervisor Erward Daily of Babylon, County Engineer Albert Smith, Spencer J. Stewart of Poughkeepsie, Division Engineer of the State Highways Commission, and Fred J. Bryant, who represented the Canton Bridge Company.

Mr. Bryant was hurled from his seat and his back was injured and his collarbone broken. Supervisor Daily fell upon him, and he sustained nothing more serious than some bruises and a general shake-up. Mr. Stewart, who had been tossed about in the body of the car, had his right knee sprained and a rib broken. Mr. Edwards was but slightly hurt.

There was a house near by and Mr. Daily and Mr. Edwards assisted their injured companions to it. A telephone message was sent to Dr. Benjamin of Riverhead to wait for them in his office, and another car was obtained, in which they motored to Riverhead.

NEGRO BOLT FROM TAFT.

Protective League Condemns His Policy and Republican Party.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 27.—A public appeal to the negroes of the Nation, issued to-night by the National Negro American Protective League, advocates a bolt from the Republican Party and condemns the negro policy of President Taft.

The appeal was read at the John Brown memorial meeting at the Dunbar Theatre. Jason Brown, aged 86, of Akron, Ohio, son of the famous John Brown, and W. F. C. Cook of Baltimore, son of J. E. Cook, who was hanged with John Brown, made addresses.

It was declared to-day that the league would express the anti-Taft and anti-Republican sentiment by electing as President Bishop Alexander Walter of New York, who was one of the leaders in the ante-election Bryan movement among the negroes.

RAILROAD Y. M. C. A. MEETS.

Several Railroad Presidents Among the Speakers at Banquet.

ST. LOUIS, May 27.—A banquet attended by 1,500 railroad men, executive officers, and workmen at the First Regiment Armory to-night, was one of the entertainment features of the thirteenth international conference of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. The conference, which began to-day, will continue until Sunday night.

John J. McCook of New York presided at the opening of the conference and at the banquet to-night. The speakers at the banquet included Presidents Brown of the New York Central, Delano of the Wabash, Stevens of the Chesapeake & Ohio, and W. S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

SURRENDERS AS A BANDIT.

Robinson Says He Belonged to the Jesse James Gang.

SANDUSKY, May 27.—Harry Robinson, claiming to have been identified with the Jesse James gang, and saying he is wanted in Chicago for bank robbery and burglary, surrendered himself here to-day.

Robinson gave the Sheriff no details of his crimes. He declared that former criminal associates of his would seek his life if he talked here, and asked to be taken to Chicago. The authorities are investigating.

MASON & HAMLIN Company, makers of fine pianos

We want this store to be different from other piano stores. We want to eliminate, so far as practical, the commercial atmosphere which so often prevails.

Goethe said: "All art rests on a spirit of deep invulnerable earnestness." This is the spirit in which every Mason & Hamlin piano is made. In this spirit they are offered to the public.

We ask you to examine them in the same spirit, critically, as you would the work of any artist, with eye and ear open to those subtle qualities which are the distinctive products of real genius.

Blue Serge Suits for Men
Distinctive Models, at $15 to $33

The cleverness of the designer meets no stronger test than that which is afforded by the suit of blue serge.

Plain blue is—just plain blue. No special help to distinction, therefore, may be expected from the material—except, of course, the distinction of quality, for there are blue serges of both high and low degree.

The fact remains, however, that, to the casual observer, blue is blue; the skill of the tailorman must prove the sequel.

Saks Suits of blue serge provide a remarkable demonstration of the possibilities of distinction in garments fashioned of this familiar material.

One must have at least a single suit of serge—it is little short of a necessity. But choice should settle upon a suit that is distinctively elegant in outline and finish—and particularly a suit that will retain its shape. Ours will.

SUGAR TRUST'S LOAN SHUT RIVAL PLANT

Evidence in the Pennsylvania Company's Suit Shows Why It Never Opened.

DUMMIES FOR DIRECTORS

President of the Concern Admits That He Was Nothing More Than a Figurehead.

Yesterday's session of the $30,000,000 suit brought against the American Sugar Refining Company by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company to recover under the Sherman anti-trust act three times a $10,000,000 loss alleged to have been suffered as the result of a conspiracy on the part of the defendants served to bring out documentary evidence that the loan which resulted in putting the Pennsylvania company permanently out of business was discussed in the Executive Commitee of the American Sugar Refining Company and its terms dictated by John E. Parsons, counsel for and a Director of the Sugar Trust.

Mr. Parsons is one of the individual defendants named in the action. The others are Gustav Kissell, the broker through whom the loan was made, and three dummy Directors that the Sugar Trust put in charge of the Pennsylvania company after it took possession.

These defendants are so young that in one instance the attorneys for the plaintiff suggested that they would be willing to accept a plea of infantile irresponsibility so far as the dummy in question was concerned. It appears, however, that they sat tight on the lid of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, for from the time that Kissell got the voting power on the majority of its stock, in connection with the loan of $1,250,000 to Adolph Segal, its dominating interest, the plant has remained closed.

Ex-Gov. Frank S. Black, who is trying the case for the plaintiff, produced the minute books of the Executive Committee of the American Sugar Refining Company, and therein got trace of a resolution authorizing the President, Henry O. Havemeyer, to make a contract with Mr. Kissell, as approved by Mr. Parsons, for the loan in question. That was in December, 1903, and in January, 1904, there was an entry showing that Mr. Parsons reported on the making of the loan to the committee.

Mr. Black read a paper entitled "Mem. re. Segal loan," which had been made in the offices of the American Sugar Refining Company, and bore notations in the handwriting of Mr. Parsons. The memorandum contained a suggestion for the resolutions to be passed by the Directors of the Pennsylvania Company after its reorganization with Kissell and the others as dummy Directors. One of them read:

> Whereas, to start the refinery would involve great expense; therefore be it
> Resolved, That the refinery do not run and that no proceedings be taken in reference to it without further action of this board.

The cross-examination of W. H. Ramsay, who was President of the Pennsylvania company in 1903, brought out another feature of interest. John G. Milburn asked him what he knew about the business of the Pensylvania company.

"I was just a mere figure head," Mr. Ramsay admitted.

"You didn't know even whether the company had any books or papers?" queried the attorney.

"I didn't know even whether it had any refinery or not," said Mr. Ramsay.

"The company was just Segal, then?"

"That's about the size of it."

It was learned that the defense will undertake to establish that the Pennsylvania company if left alone could not possibly have opened its doors to do business because it had no working capital at the time the loan was made; that it never had been engaged in inter-State commerce prior to the reorganization.

Another point for which the defense will contend is that the Pennsylvania company's plant never cost more than $1,250,000, which was more than covered by $3,000,000 bonds issued in the reorganization to Segal's construction company, which built the new plant. Hence, the defense will argue, the $5,000,000 stock similarly issued, a majority of which went up to secure the loan, was issued without consideration, was void and could not be made the basis of such a suit as is now being tried.

The number of lawyers in the case is growing every day. Up to yesterday the defense was in charge of only John G. Milburn, Henry W. Taft, John G. Johnson, and H. B. Closson. At yesterday's session William D. Guthrie appeared to lend his aid to this company of talent.

The case will go on this morning.

PREVOST IN THE ACADEMY.

Writer on Women Takes Place of Late Victorien Sardou.

PARIS, May 27.—Marcel Prévost has been elected a member of the Academy, in succession to the late Victorien Sardou.

Eugène Marcel Prévost was born in Paris in 1862, and entered the literary field in 1891. Four years earlier, however, he had published a book attacking the Jesuit educational system, of which he was a graduate.

His first work to attract public attention was "Lettres de femmes," published in 1891. It was succeeded by two more series of letters, which, according to public sentiment, were gracefully written, witty, and ironical.

In a series of volumes published between 1900 and 1901, Prévost dealt with the education and life of young girls.

CHMISTRY CONGRESS OPENS.

Prince of Wales Welcomes the 3,000 Delegates in London.

LONDON, May 27.—Upward of 3,000 scholars of international repute are here to attend the seventh International Congress of Applied Chemistry, which was formally opened this afternoon in Albert Hall. The Prince of Wales welcomed the polyglot assembly in the name of King Edward. He was accompanied by the Princess, and was escorted to the platform by Whitelaw Reid and other members of the Diplomatic Corps.

The Prince spoke enthusiastically of the important part chemistry had played in almost every branch of modern industry.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington replied for the United States, laying especial emphasis on the importance of chemistry in agriculture.

The real work of the conference will begin to-morrow. The delegates will be divided into seventeen main sections, which will meet at various scientific centres under the chairmanship of American and European specialists for the discussion of various scientific subjects.

An invitation sent by America through Dr. Wylie to hold the next congress at Washington appears certain of acceptance.

ROOSEVELT TO BE BANQUETED

Accepts Invitation to Public Dinner at Nairobi on Aug. 3.

NAIROBI, May 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, who is at present the guest of Acting Governor Jackson at Nairobi, has accepted an invitation to a public banquet to be given here in his honor on Aug. 3.

The results of the expedition's hunting trips have been assembled. Mr. Roosevelt has secured eighty-six speciments of game of twenty-two different varieties. With the exception of six specimens, they are all for the National Museum at Washington.

The naturalists of the party have obtained about 1,000 specimens of birds, mammals, and snakes.

CASTELLANE GAINS A POINT.

Superior Court Gives Him Right to Control Children's Education.

PARIS, May 27.—The decision of the Superior Court in Count Boni de Castellane's appeal of the case brought by him for the custody of his children was handed down to-day and is a partial victory for the Count.

It confirmed the decision of the lower court giving the mother the custody of the children, but emphasizes the right of the Count to control their education. He may name the instructor of the youngest and pass upon the choice of an institution for the education of the two elder. If the parents cannot agree on a school for these two within a fortnight they are to be sent to the Lycée of Janson, where only the mother, the grandmother, and George Gould may visit them.

Prince Hélie de Sagan is specifically excluded from the list of persons authorized to visit the children, and the Count's contention that the influence of the Prince is pernicious is thus in effect sustained. The decision sets forth, however, that "whatever the character and past of the Prince de Sagan, it is not true that the Princess imposed upon her children the influence of her new husband to prejudice their affection for their father."

The costs of the appeal are divided.

FRENCH STRIKE EXTENDS.

Merchant Marine Tied Up and Passengers Are Delayed.

PARIS, May 27.—The strike of the sailors, stokers, and stewards of the merchant marine is extending. The tie-up is complete at Marseilles, where fifty vessels are unable to move, and it is partial at Havre, Dunkirk, St. Mazaire, Toulon, and Bordeaux. Passengers at all these ports are delayed.

Torpedo boats are being employed for the conveyance of the mails to Algeria and Corsica.

DOWIEITES FOR CANADA.

Representatives Completing Deal for Lands Near Calgary.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, May 27.—Three representatives of the Dowie colony at Zion City, near Chicago, are in Edmonton completing a deal with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for townships of land in the irrigated district about forty miles east of Calgary. The entire colony, it is said, will migrate to the new land this Summer.

CHICAGO, May 27.—H L. Carey, Secretary of the Dowie colony at Zion City, to-day stated, when shown the Winnipeg special declaring that the colony is to migrate to Canada, that there was no intention of leaving Zion City.

"It is just possible that land may have been purchased near Calgary by former members of the Church," said Mr. Carey, "but not for the Church."

The Christian Catholic Church in Zion, founded by the late John Alexander Dowie, has been split into two factions since Dowie's death, and it is not impossible that one or the other faction is secretly preparing to found a new settlement. Wilbur Glen Voliva, leader of one faction, made such a threat at the height of the political campaign which recently went against him.

TURKEY ASKS JEWS TO COME.

Offers to Confer Full Citizenship Upon Immigrants on Arrival.

The Jewish Morning Journal gave out last night a special cable dispatch from Constantinople saying that the Turkish Government had invited the Jews of Russia and Roumania to settle in Turkey, agreeing to remove all restrictions and to grant full citizenship to them. Here is the text of the cablegram:

> Constantinople, May 27.
> Ahmed Riza, President of the Chamber of Deputies, visited to-day Hahm Pasha, the ritual head of the Jews in Turkey, and on behalf of the Turkish Government extended an invitation to the Jews of Russia and Roumania to migrate to Turkey. As proof of the good faith of the Turkish Government Ahmed Riza informed Hahm Pasha that the Government would abolish all restrictions against Jewish immigration and, what is still more significant, "will confer full citizenship on Jewish immigrants immediately on their arrival in Turkey."

Spreckels Denies Engagement.

PARIS, May 27.—Claus Spreckels of San Francisco, who has been studying music in Paris, denied to-night a report that he was to marry Miss Mary A. Case of Portland, Ore. Miss Case has given several concerts in England with Harold Bauer, the pianist.

HAMN AUTO BILL KILLED BY HUGHES

Governor Objects to Measure That Removes Speed Restrictions and Lessens Penalties.

$500,000 A YEAR IN FEES

But Law Would Take Traffic Control from New York City Authorities—To Punish "Joy Riding."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 27.—The Hamn Automobile bill, the provisions of which abolished the speed limit and established an annual automobile registration tax, was vetoed to-day by Gov. Hughes. The Governor's chief objection to the measure is the removal of speed restrictions.

"It is still an open question," says the Governor in a memorandum filed with the veto, "whether at this stage in our progress toward the wider use of these vehicles of pleasure and convenience it is safe to rely simply upon a requirement of care and prudence with all the difficulties that attend actual proof of want of care."

The Governor objected also to the provision which takes away from the cities the right to make reasonable traffic regulations.

"About one-half of the population of this State is within the City of New York, and the Mayor of that city has sent me a vigorous protest against the provisions of the bill. And whatever else may be said of it, it should not become a law if it takes away from the authorities of New York City that reasonable traffic control without which conditions in the metropolis would be intolerable."

Gov. Hughes calls attention to the provision in the New York charter which gives the Police Department power to regulate and control the movement of teams, automobiles, and all other vehicles in the streets and parks to facilitate traffic and protect the public.

"The present bill," says the Governor, "takes away from the local authorities the power to pass, enforce, or maintain any ordinance, rule, or regulation excluding any such owner or chauffeur 'from the free use of such public highways, or in any other way respecting motor vehicles or their speed upon or use of the public highways.' It expressly provides that any ordinance, rule, or regulation 'now in force or hereafter enacted,' which is 'in any wise inconsistent' with the provisions of the act, shall have no effect. The only exceptions are the powers (1) to regulate vehicles offered to the public for hire, (2) to regulate processions, assemblages, or parades in the streets or public place, (3) to set aside a specified public highway for speed contests or races, and (4) to exclude motor vehicles from cemeteries."

In his veto the Governor says:

> In short, it would practically abolish municipal traffic regulations as to private motor cars. Any one acquainted with conditions in New York City knows how much of the public convenience and safety is due to the maintenance of proper traffic regulations, and must recognize the impropriety of making such regulations impossible in the interest of the free passage of motor cars.
>
> It would also appear that under this bill there would be no power vested in the local authorities to exclude motor trucks or motor vehicles used for commercial purposes from the parks of the city, which are included in the "public highways" as defined in the bill. It would deprive the local authorities of any power they now possess for this purpose.
>
> These defects are grave enough to compel the disapproval of this bill.
>
> But, it may be added, with regard to the general application of the bill, that the abolition of specific speed limitations and the substitution merely of the rule of due care should carry with it stringent penalties in case of negligent driving. It would seem that the penalties for actually proved negligence should be heavier than those imposed for merely exceeding an arbitrary speed limit.
>
> The penalties provided for in this bill, with respect to violations of speed requirements, are less stringent than those of the present law.
>
> A comparison shows the following results:
>
> For a first offense: Under the present law, a fine not exceeding $100; under the proposed law, a fine not exceeding $50.
>
> For a second offense: Under the present law, a fine not less than $50 nor more than $100, or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days, or both; under the proposed law, a fine not exceeding $50, or imprisonment for not exceeding 30 days, or both.
>
> For a third or subsequent offense: Under the present law, a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $250, and imprisonment not exceeding 30 days; under the proposed law, a fine of not exceeding $50, and imprisonment not exceeding 30 days.
>
> It is true that the provisions of the proposed law for maintaining records and distributing information of prior convictions are very useful. But these advantages are more than offset by the inadequacy of other provisions.
>
> The deterrent feature, which is relied upon to secure obedience to the law, is the requirement of an actual imprisonment upon conviction for a third offense. And the importance of maintaining records of prior convictions is to pave the way for this punishment of the confirmed violator of the law. But the present bill limits the amount of bail which may be taken to $100. It provides that where the Magistrate is without jurisdiction to try the offense, and the defendant "charged with the violation of any provision" of the act is held to answer, the Magistrate must admit the defendant to bail upon his giving a surety company bond, or an undertaking, in the sum of $100, or upon his deposit of a like amount in cash. If records were maintained so that imprisonment were the inevitable consequence of conviction for a third or subsequent offense, such bail, in many cases, might be wholly inadequate.
> It is apparent that careful drivers of motor cars, who have no desire to violate the law, are now held within what they believe to be unjust restrictions and are frequently made the victims of an abuse of legal process. But the remedy for any existing injustice must carry with it appropriate safeguards, and the more that is left to the judgment of the driver, the more important it is that recklessness should be heavily penalized.
> The bill contains restrictions upon the use of cars without the consent of their owners, a frequent source of accident. But such a restriction is also contained in a separate bill amending the Penal Law, and will not be lost by the disapproval of this bill. It would also seem advisable that better means should be provided, with respect to the issuing of licenses, for insuring the competency of chauffeurs. One of the imperfections of this bill is that the useful provision for the suspension of licenses does not apply to violation of the requirements as to safe speed.

The measure was advocated by the New York State Automobile Association, and it had been estimated that if enacted into law the registration and license fees imposed would have yielded an annual revenue of $500,000 for the repair of improved highways.

Gov. Hughes to-day signed the so-called "joy-riding" automobile bill of Senator Hill. It provides that "any chauffeur or other person who without the consent of the owner shall take, or cause to be taken, from a garage, stable, or other building or place an automobile or motor vehicle and operate or drive, or cause the same to be operated or driven, for his own profit, use, or purpose, steals the same and is guilty of larceny, and shall be punishable accordingly."

The act takes effect Sept. 1 next.

COUNSEL ADMITS DARRAGH LIED

Says Slayer of Trimble Boy Swore Falsely to the Coroner.

William Darragh, the chauffeur now on trial before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions charged with murder in the first degree for running down and killing 13-year-old Ingevaard Trimble in Morningside Avenue, near 118th Street, on March 27, took the stand yesterday in his own defense. Before putting his client on the stand Edward R. Flammer, counsel for the defense, said that he wished the jury to know that Darragh was not telling the truth when he swore before the Coroner that he did not know Harry A. Brown of 137 West 100th Street, his companion in the machine when the accident occurred.

Darragh on the stand admitted that he had been arrested twice for speeding—once in Yonkers for going twenty-seven miles an hour, and once in New York for making seventeen miles an hour.

Darragh then described the accident. At 116th Street, he said, the speed of the car was not over 16 miles an hour. At 117th Street he diminished this somewhat, as he saw a number of boys playing in the street ahead. He blew his horn, but he could not attract their attention, so, to give further warning, he cut out the muffler. The Trimble boy, he said, darted in front of his car and was run down before the brakes could be applied.

Darragh said that after striking the boy, his first inclination was to stop the car. But the cries of those behind him and the fear of arrest made him put on full speed and run away. He said that he had no idea that the body of the boy was wedged between the lamp and mudguard.

Charles E. Force of 471 Park Avenue, owner of the automobile, testified that he had employed Darragh about ten days before the accident. He said that the chauffeur had reported some changes and repairs in the machine which made it possible to get a speed of 60 miles an hour. A number of young Trimble's playmates also testified. The trial will continue to-day.

Greatest array of used Automobiles ever offered to the public will be found in next Sunday's New York Times. Avoid vexatious delay and waste of time by looking over the offers. You will find the car you are after.—Adv.

CHICAGO MAN A BIGAMIST.

Marries Woman, Engaged to Another He Met on Way to Honolulu.

HONOLULU, May 27.—R. M. Baker, who was arrested here last Monday on a charge of bigamy on cabled instructions from the United States Marshal at Chicago, confessed his guilt to-day. His latest wife, however, whom he married here on May 11, and whose name at the time was Mrs. Eva B. Wallace, remains steadfast, declaring that her faith in Baker is unshaken.

Baker says he is the son of Charles W. Baker, Secretary of the Chicago Live Stock Exchange. He arrived at Honolulu from San Francisco about May 1 on the steamship Alameda. One of his fellow-travelers on the Alameda was Mrs. Wallace, a San Francisco woman, en route to Honolulu to marry Charles Howard, a former San Francisco man, now resident here. Before the ship arrived at Honolulu Mrs. Wallace had transferred her affections to Baker.

Baker admits he has a wife and child in Chicago.

Mrs. Sage Commends the Restoration Made Possible by Her Gift.

After being closed for eight months, during which time it has been redecorated and restored as nearly as possible to its original state, the Governor's Room in the City Hall was opened yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock with an informal reception to which many artists and city officials were invited.

The work of restoration was carried out mainly through the donation of $25,000 by Mrs. Russell Sage. The new coloring of the room, which is divided into three sections, is white and brown, with Washington's mahogany writing desk in the centre. The cornices, door heads, mantels and chandelier are all new and were designed from sketches made by artists of the past and present. Venetian blinds and curtains of an artistic design and a new inlaid floor, combined with the paintings on the walls, have made the room one of the finest in any public building in the United States.

Among those who attended the reception were Mrs. Sage, who admired the alterations, and said that she hoped New York would go on growing more beautiful day by day; Mrs. Walter Cook, John B. Pine, Charles H. Russell, Loyale Farragut, Fred D. Millett, Arnold W. Brunner, Mrs. Edward Hagaman Hall, Robert De Forrest, Miss Helen Gould, Dr. J. R. Barstow, Albert Herter, Mrs. Rolfe, and Mrs. Charles Atterbury.

STILL THE GRAND SACHEM.

Tammany Lets Cohalan Hold Over—Prepare for the Fourth.

There was a special meeting of the Columbian Order (Tammany Society) at noon yesterday, which was attended by all the members. It was decided that Daniel F. Cohalan should hold over as Grand Sachem. Adrian T. Kiernan was elected Scribe.

The following members were appointed on the Building Committee: John F. Ahearn, Charles F. Murphy, Thomas F. McAvoy, John J. Scannell, and Julius Harburger. George W. Plunkitt was chosen Father of the Council and William Sohmer Grand Treasurer.

A special committee was appointed to arrange for the customary Fourth of July celebration at Tammany Hall and to select the speakers.

'Big Oak' Johnson Planting His Acorns

Joseph Johnson, Jr., the "Big Oak" of the organization, holds a $4,000 job under Controller Metz. The first meeting will be held to-night.

MOTORS SAFE NOW IN HELL'S KITCHEN

Touring Car Excursion Given for the Chauffeur's Foes Starts a Reform Wave.

NO MORE STONING OF AUTOS

"Tear-Tire Ted" and All of His Comrades Have Ceased Their Predatory Warfare.

Ever since the Big Brothers Movement took forty-five boys of Hell's Kitchen out for a practical lesson in the joys of automobiling the complaints of chauffeurs and automobile owners who had been set upon and stoned whenever their machines nosed into that district have all but ceased, and forty-five young hopefuls have changed their highest ambition from that of some day becoming Indian fighters to the more dangerous and heroic ideal of being chauffeurs. And how they had hated "them chaffeurs" before!

Ever since the automobiles and taxicabs came into Hell's Kitchen to disturb the small boys at their ball games in the streets and, incidentally, to run over and kill not a few, there had been sworn enmity between the youth of Hell's Kitchen and the chauffeurs. The boys had the enmity, and the chauffeurs did the swearing.

No sooner did an automobile show itself in Hell's Kitchen than it was greeted with a volley of stones and other missiles hurled from all sides by a mob of boys of all colors and nationalities, members of a score of gangs, but all united in this common effort of warring on the hated intruder. Chauffeurs left their cars for a few moments only on their return to ride over upturned nails and tacks, or find various parts of their machinery tampered with or removed, with never a small boy in sight.

Many complaints were made each day to the police, and finally a crusade was instituted against the small boys, with the result that about a score of them were rounded up in the Children's Court. Each was dealt with as his case seemed to merit, but once the boys were at home again they automatically reached for stones.

It was then that the Big Brothers' Movement, the association of professional and business men, decided on a plan to stop the stoning of chauffeurs by practical lessons in the Golden Rule. It was decided to give the boys of the Big Brothers' Club in the Hell's Kitchen district a free automobile ride. Ernest K. Coulter, Chief Clerk of the Children's Court, suggested it; Dr. Wilton Merle Smith took it up, and by discussing the project with six or seven friends—Frank J. Danforth, Nicholas Danforth, and Luther H. Lewis among them—succeeded in obtaining the offer of eight large touring cars for a temporary school of morals for Hell's Kitchen youth. But not a word of the moral purpose was mentioned to the boys when they piled into the cars at the next Thursday night meeting of the club in front of the headquarters at 318 West Fifty-seventh Street.

"Gee, but dis am suttingly soft!" murmured "Tanny" Hawkes, the twelve-year-old negro heavyweight of the gang, as he sank luxuriously into the seat of Dr. Smith's tonneau.

Behind him were bundled in several of the champion stone throwers of the crowd, "Matty" Welsh, "Six-fingered Jake," "Out-shoot Sam," and Achmed "the Young Turk," aged 12. "Tear-tire Ted," a little Irish chap who had gained his alliterative cognomen through various little cutting experiments performed on the tires of idle taxicabs, took a prominent seat in the next automobile. Soon all the cars were filled with an excited, clamorous, and somewhat grimy throng of youngsters, their faces tense with the excitement of the novel experience in the enemy's own chariots. A ride in the air could not have thrilled them more.

And the ride was all they could have dreamed it to be. Faster than ever a stolen ride on the back of a trolley car, faster than ever the clanging fire engines they used to run behind, faster even than the rumbling elevated or Subway cars, they presently found themselves whizzing up Broadway in the twilight, past traffic policemen who didn't seem to find their speed rate half so high as did the boys; then through Riverside Park and other driveways they had never dreamed of riding over, and through a hundred winding roadways of Central Park, past trees and lamps they sped.

At the wildest moment of their spin, just as they were shaking their fists and shouting "Get a horse!" at slow passers-by on foot, Mr. Coulter told his young fellow-passengers of the ease with which a speeding automobile is wrecked and its occupants spilled to their death.

"Some one might throw a stone," he suggested, casually.

"Matty," the prize twirler, sat up, silent and red.

"Or a tire might burst," he added, cheerfully.

"Tear-Tire" Ted began to grow dizzy.

"Tanny," the little negro boy, began to feel an itch in his superstitious bump.

"Ah done tol' yo' not to frow dem stones," he whispered to Achmed, the Young Turk. "We's bound to ketch it now!"

It seemed that after this the eight chauffeurs began to grow more and more reckless. They grazed trees and curbstones ever more and more closely. They made sharp turns that threw the boys to this side and that. Above all, they started forty-five consciences working double time.

When finally they returned to the Big Brothers' headquarters the boys slid out of the cars to common earth.

"It was great!" "Must be fine to own one!" and "Mine for a chaffer!" were the general expressions of opinions. But—

It was "Tear-tire Ted" who first made a clean breast of what was worrying all of them.

"Let's swear off," he said.

Everybody understood; and then and there the forty-five, through Ted, their spokesmen, confessed to their Big Brother hosts and solemnly pledged themselves never again to lift hand or throw stone against an auto or a taxicab.

RESCUES THREE IN TURN.

Capt. Gobel Dives and Rows to Men Who Couldn't Swim a Stroke.

Shouts for help brought Capt. James Gobel of the yacht Ondowa, anchored off the Brooklyn Yacht Club in Gravesend Bay, hurrying up on deck from below yesterday afternoon. A few hundred feet away from the yacht he saw three young men struggling in the water. An overturned rowboat floated near them. Gobel saw that none of the three could swim. Without waiting to remove his own clothing he jumped overboard and swam toward them.

At the same time Nicholas Nicholson, a member of the club, put off from the float in a rowboat. Capt. Gobel had reached one of the men and was supporting him in the water when Nicholson's boat got to them. The man, who was unconscious, was got into the rowboat with difficulty. Then Nicholson and the Captain put after the two others. Finally they were dragged into the rowboat also. Nicholson then rowed at full speed to the float.

Dr. Gould came from the Norwegian Hospital and revived the unconscious man, who was Harry Nichols of 177 Waverley Avenue, Brooklyn. He also treated the others, who were exhausted. They were Thomas Farley of 1,717 Dean Street and Charles Swanziger of 469 Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn.

The three men are employed by a department store in Brooklyn, and had gone to the club with a wagonload of furniture for the new clubhouse in the old home of Billy West, the one-time minstrel, at the foot of Bay Parkway, Bensonhurst. Finding that the member of the House Committee who would sign for the furniture was not there, and would not reach the club for an hour, the men got permission to go out in one of the club rowboats.

After taking Nichols home the others returned and put the furniture into the clubhouse.

BISHOP CALLS POPE FALLIBLE

But He's No Longer a Catholic and Hasn't Been for 13 Years.

The Right Rev. Paolo Miraglin-Gulioti, who was entered on the second cabin passenger list of the White Star liner Majestic as the Bishop of Piacenza, Italy, arrived on that vessel yesterday. He said that he was excommunicated from the Catholic Church about thirteen years ago because of his radical preaching. He is called Bishop of Piacenza by his followers. He said that he has a large following in Italy, and that despite his excommunication he is on friendly terms with many priests of the Catholic Church. He said he would call on several Catholic prelates in this country.

"A feeling of broadmindedness in religion has been gaining in Italy for many years," he said. "I do not believe in the infallibility of the Pope, and my teachings have been along that line. I have been surprised at the numbers who have flocked to my standard."

The Bishop stated that he does not believe in the confessional as it is practiced by Roman Catholics, nor in the worship of the Virgin Mary.

CONVICT PARTNERS OF FRAUD.

Contractors Fuchs and Strauss Guilty of Duping Their Creditors.

Joseph Fuchs and Edward H. Strauss, partners in what was known as the Joseph Fuchs Company, general contractors for building material, were found guilty yesterday in Special Sessions of removing property to defraud their creditors. The complainants were the members of the firm of Clarkson & Ford, at 25 Water Street, who charged the defendants with getting twenty-five barrels of linseed oil, valued at several hundred dollars, on credit. The property was afterward sold. They were remanded until Tuesday for sentence.

ARREST CHAUFFEUR WHO STRUCK WOMAN

He Tells the Police That He Had Taken Liquor for a Toothache.

AUTOIST IN TWO COURTS

La Place Was Arrested Twice on Wednesday—Dr. Janeway Among Other Alleged Speeders.

Charles E. Thomson, chauffeur for Elias Gussaroff, a builder, of 600 West 140th Street, who on Wednesday night disappeared after knocking down and severely injuring Mrs. H. T. Lockwood, wife of Henry T. Lockwood, a metal merchant, of 165 Audubon Avenue, almost outside her home, was arrested yesterday morning in a restaurant at 526 West 145th Street.

He was arraigned before Magistrate Krotel, in the Harlem Court, and held in $2,500 bail on a chage of assault and $100 bail for running the machine without a license. As bail was not forthcoming, Thomson was sent to the Tombs until Saturday, when the case will be taken up.

At the West 152d Street Police Station, to which he was taken, he explained that he had a toothache on Wednesday night and had taken some liquor to relieve the pain. Under the influence of the liquor he took out the machine and met a friend, Charles Connor, whom he took along. The latter is the owner of the hat with the initials "C. C." which was lost in the flight.

When he was asked to produce his chauffeur's license he admitted that he had none. The second charge was then entered against him.

Edward La Place, a young man living at 581 Decatur Street, Brooklyn, had the embarrassing experience of appearing before two Magistrates in two different courts yesterday on the charge of speeding his automobile. In the Harlem Court Magistrate Krotel held him in $100 bail for trial. He then hurried over to the Morrisania Court, where Magistrate Crane doubled this amount of bail.

La Place, who is the son of a dealer in antiques at 406 Fourth Avenue, accompanied by his father, was first stopped at 153d Street and Broadway on Wednesday afternoon. It was alleged he was running the machine at twenty-four miles an hour. At the West 152d Street Station, where he was taken, his father put up a $500 gold watch as bail for his son. Shortly before midnight on Wednesday La Place was again arrested. This time the police say he was going twenty-two miles an hour when stopped at Fordham Road and Concourse Street, the Bronx.

Other arrests for speeding yesterday included George Garland, Jr., President of the Overland Automobile Company. It was alleged that he was going at the rate of twenty-two miles an hour when he was arrested at Broadway and 131st Street. He was held in $100 bail for trial. William Joss of 2,049 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, was held in $200 bail for trial in the Morrisania Police Court yesterday on a charge of speeding at the rate of thirty miles an hour along Washington Avenue near Tremont Avenue.

Tully Garrett, chauffeur for Dr. Theodore C. Janeway, was arrested yesterday at Amsterdam Avenue and 110th Street, charged with reckless driving. Dr. Janeway and a friend were in the automobile at the time, and the doctor was very indignant at the arrest. He called it an "outrage" and added:

Dr. Janeway was returning from St. Luke's Hospital, where he is visiting physician. He put up the necessary bail for his chauffeur, but told the policeman who made the arrest that he would not let the matter drop.

Shirt Waist Fronts From the Philippine Islands 1st Fl.

The few Americans who have had the intrepidity to penetrate far into the interior of the Philippine Islands have brought back strange stories of the art of the natives. One traveller did more than bring back "stories." He secured a number of beautiful specimens of the needlework of the half-savage women of the wilds. They are in the form of Shirt Waist Fronts. For delicacy and beauty the hand-embroidery and drawn-thread work will surprise you. He gathered them in Bongabong, Bontoc, Cabajano, Tuguegabao, Benguet and other "clearings," and unless we told you differently you'd think the dainty pictures of flower and leaf and frost and star and flake and fern on mere films of cloth fell from the needle points of women in France.

They are here for you to see. If you wish to buy—the price is $5.89. They'd be cheap at $10.00.

BANKS WILL FIGHT HIGHER DEBT LIMIT

Savings Institutions Protest Against What They Say Will Depreciate City Bonds.

"UNDESIRABLE" ACCOUNTS

State Superintendent of Banks Urges That the Interest Rate on Deposits Be Cut.

At the annual meeting of the Savings Bank Association of the State of New York, held in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, stress was laid by several speakers on the damage to savings bank investments which may be expected from the proposed extension of the debt limit of New York City and cities of the third class in the State.

Nearly two hundred bankers representing all parts of the State and the many visiting delegates from other sections of the country appeared in hearty accord with the views expressed. Charles A. Miller, President of the Utica Savings Bank, and retiring President of the association, was the first to broach the subject.

"I feel it my duty," he said, in his opening address, "to call to the attention of the association the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State, the adoption of which will result in a considerable extension of the debt limit not only for New York City, but for cities of the third class as well. Unless vigorous opposition manifests itself this amendment will go by default.

"To my mind no class in the community is more interested in the defeat of this project than the depositors in our savings banks. We invested in New York State municipal securities with a distinct understanding of the constitutional limits placed upon the municipal debts. Those limits were already distinctly more liberal than was considered safe in cities outside of the State, as the legislation restricting our investments in foreign municipal bonds shows.

"To extend those limits further and permit a much larger debt than we counted on when we made our investments, is, to my mind, very like a breach of faith. While such a course may not, and probably will not, result in a failure to pay the principal and interest on our city bonds, it cannot but result in a depreciation in their market value which we ought not to be called on to face."

Undesirable Accounts.

President Miller also referred to the desirability of keeping the function of the savings banks to its original scope, the safeguarding of small savings. He said that he hoped that the association would devise a plan to keep out undesirable accounts.

Edgar J. Levey, President of the Title Insurance Company of New York, went into the bond subject more fully. He pointed out that the savings banks of New York own nearly $150,000,000 of New York City bonds, which constitute nearly one-tenth of their assets and represent about one-fourth of the city's debt. He showed that, while on the one hand if the market value of the city bonds should continue to decline, the savings banks would be seriously affected; on the other hand any withdrawal of the savings banks as purchasers of these securities would deprive the city of its best market for its securities and would influence its fiscal operation in no small degree.

Mr. Levey outlined the history of the city's bond issues from the time when the high-water mark was reached, in 1889, with 2½ per cent. twenty-forty-year bonds selling at 101, to the present low-water mark, being reached when 4¼ per cent. thirty-year bonds were sold at a shade above 102.

He discussed in considerable detail the influences which have brought about this "gradual but constant depreciation," and in dealing with the future went into an analysis of the city's finances.

"It is not that any holder of New York City bonds has cause to fear the loss of either principal or interest, if he holds his bonds to maturity," said Mr. Levey. "Such a possibility is entirely too remote for consideration, but ad interim marketability is a factor which influences most investors. Even when the investment is of such a permanent character as it is with savings banks the element of marketability and marketable price cannot be ignored."

After reviewing the present situation, he said that the disquieting feature was the "proof, to be found on every side, that the city's recent financial excesses have superinduced a flippant attitude of irresponsibility on the part of the public, and a large part of the public press, toward the question of the city's obligations.

City's Debt Limit.

"The constitutional amendment enlarging the city's debt limit, which is to be voted on by the people next Fall," he explained, "was opposed by the Chamber of Commerce with practical unanimity, and for reasons which appealed to the common sense of every conservative man. It subsequently passed the Assembly by a vote of 126 to 13, largely, if not manly, because of a skillful appeal to prejudice on the ground that its passage would strike a blow at the so-called 'traction interests.'

"It seems likely to be adopted next Fall by a popular vote in somewhat similar ratio, and the New York City majority for it will probably be obtained by creating a vague impression in the minds of many voters that its adoption means 'sending the traction thieves to jail,' or restoring transfer privileges on the surface railroads, or providing free rides on some new municipal subway."

This attitude of the legislators he called a result of the movement toward municipal Socialism, which he said will involve public expenditures on so large a scale as to make the budgets of the past seem insignificant in comparison.

"These gigantic expenditures," he said, "mean either a crushing burden of taxation, felt immediately by incorporation in current tax levies, or postponed in part by public borrowings. The latter is the method sure to be preferred by municipal socializers, because higher tax bills spell higher rents; and, slow as the average rent payer is to appreciate that he does pay taxes in the shape of rent, sooner or later the truth is apt to dawn upon him that there is no profit in a man's trying to lift himself by his own bootstraps.

"But in the case of public borrowings, the evil day of reckoning is postponed. The voters of New York City think very little of the loss of a million dollars a year in operating the municipal ferries, because the loss does not appear in the budgets, but is concealed in the bond transactions of the Dock Department.

"And in like manner these gentlemen who insist that our future subway construction should be undertaken solely with a view of its social consequences, such as a preplanned distribution of our congested population, and not at all from the standpoint of profitable or self-supporting operation, count upon concealing the economic effect of their social experiments by a profligate use of the city's credit."

The Interest Rate.

Clark Williams, State Superintendent of Banking, spoke at length on the question of interest rates, saying that he belived that the characteristic conservatism of the savings banks of the State is reflected in the general consideration of the reduction of interest rates to depositors.

"A knowledge of the general conditions throughout the State," he said, "compels the conclusion that the greatest offense to ecnomic principles and sound banking lies in the payment of high interest rates. This evil results, as I have frequently stated before, from improper competition and an unreasoning desire for quantity rather than quality.

"Four per cent. interest," he said, "plus the expense account, plus proper charge for the reserve, represents a cost price for money which is difficult to cover if conservative use is made of such funds. I consider it my most pressing duty to endeavor to effect a general reduction of the rate of interest in our institutions throughout the State, not only in the interest of the corporations themselves, but in the interest of those who have intrusted their funds to these depositories for safe keeping."

A resolution was adopted protesting against the proposed constitutional amendment as to the debt limit of cities.

Officers for the ensuing year elected were: President—Thomas W. Mulry; First Vice President—Walter Trible; Second Vice President—Charles B. Hanaman; Treasurer—Samuel D. Styles; Secretary—J. D. Curry.

HONOR JULIA WARD HOWE.

Shower of Letters, Telegrams, Flowers, and Gifts on Her 90th Birthday.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 27.—Her ninetieth birthday found Mrs. Julia Ward Howe much better than she has been for weeks, and able to take part in the festivities planned for the day by her relatives and intimate friends. Flowers, not only from her friends in Boston, but from all over the country, reached her, and dozens of letters so timed as to arrive on her birthday, with many telegrams, and beautiful birthday gifts.

The reception given in Mrs. Howe's honor was a comparatively small one, as Mrs. Howe is not well enough to receive many guests. Receiving with Mrs. Howe were Mrs. Henry Howe, Mrs. John Elliott, Mrs. Laura E. Richards, and Miss Rosalind and Miss Elizabeth Richards. The two latter, assisted by Miss M. Parks of Brighton, grandniece of Dr. Howe, poured tea.

Mrs. Howe was dressed entirely in white and wore no flowers. On the table back of her "throne chair" was set a huge bunch of lilies of the valley, which were sent by the children of the Asylum for the Blind, with a huge bunch of letters written by them.

At a family luncheon among Mrs. Howe's children and relatives were Prof. H. M. Howe of Columbia University and Mrs. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Richards of Marlboro Street, Mrs. John Elliott, and Mrs. D. P. Hall.

Among the telegrams received were those from the Rhode Island Women's Suffrage Association, the New Jersey Women's Suffrage Association, the National Alliance of Unitarian Women, the senior class of the Durfee High School, Fall River, the St. Matthew's Rectory, Bedford, N. Y., and the National Women's Trade Union League. Letters came from institutions all over the country. One with which Mrs. Howe was especially pleased was a message from the Church of the Disciples, to which she had belonged for many years, and whose pulpit she has occasionally filled.

CLEWS LAUDS ROOSEVELT.

Classes Him from Pulpit with Washington, Lincoln, and Grant.

Henry Clews occupied the pulpit of the Metropolitan Temple, at Fourteenth Street and Seventh Avenue, last night. The subject of his talk was "Theodore Roosevelt; a Great American," and it was delivered in connection with the dedication of the Roosevelt Administration memorial window, which was unveiled in the temple last Sunday.

Mr. Clews compared Mr. Roosevelt with Washington, Lincoln, and Grant, and said that after them he was the greatest of American Presidents, and that he was a modern St. George armed with a "Big Stick." He said that President Taft can be depended on to carry out the Roosevelt policies.

"The work of reform that he began and carried on with so much vigor and success was, I need hardly say, greatly needed in this country to correct corporate and other abuses that were shedding their blight, like the deadly upas tree," said Mr. Clews.

"For all time to come Theodore Roosevelt's work of reform and purification while he was President of the United States will continue to bear good fruit. He became the National mouthpiece of law and justice.

"No one could ever impugn the honesty of Theodore Roosevelt. He was above suspicion, and that distinction will cling to him through the ages. President Taft will never allow the loopholes of the law to be turned into channels for the escape of those Mr. Roosevelt described as 'malefactors of great wealth' if he can prevent it."

Dr. Hill announced that Senator Dick of Ohio and Max Pam of Illinois will speak in the Temple next Sunday morning.

BOY PROBATIONERS TO CAMP.

"Big Brothers" Will Provide Two Weeks in the Open Air for 150 of Them

Under the auspices of the Big Brother Movement, an organization of business and professional men, to aid boys who have been dealt with by the Children's Court, 150 boys of the city who have heretofore known the meaning of a field or a forest only through the definitions in their geographies and who have taken on credit the statement that apples grow on trees, will enjoy a two weeks' stay in the country. They will camp and have all the fishing, swimming, and mountain climbing that can be crowded into that time.

"The Summer months, with the idleness of a long vacation, are full of temptations to boys who have tried to change their course of living," said Ernest K. Coulter, clerk of the Children's Court, yesterday, "and it is to offset this tendency that the Big Brothers have decided upon taking their protégés into camp. Two large camps—the Groton School Camp in New Hampshire and the Clear Pool Camp in Putnam County, N. Y.—have so far been chosen, and several others will be added later. John Van Buren Mitchell has volunteered to take charge of a third group in a camp near Morristown, N. J. The first will start early in July, and the others at intervals of several weeks."

PHELAN WILL FIGHT ENDS.

Widow to Get $10,000 a Year Instead of $1,500—Compromise Effected.

The suit brought by Mrs. Mary Phelan, widow of James J. Phelan, former Dock Commissioner, to set aside her husband's will, was practically settled yesterday when all the parties interested appeared before Supreme Court Justice Gildersleeve and individually acquiesced in the offer of compromise made by Mrs. Phelan.

Mr. Phelan left an estate valued at about $1,500,000. Under his will his widow received $1,500 a year, a house to live in, and necessary living expenses. The residuary estate was to be divided into eight equal shares, one each going to his four sons and four daughters.

Under the terms of settlement announced yesterday, Mrs. Phelan is to get $10,000 a year for life, instead of the bequest under the will. The four sons are to receive $125,000 each outright, while the daughters get $20,000 a year, divided between them.

Leo Bamberger, counsel for Mrs. Phelan, receives $25,000 for his services, under the settlement. Morgan J. O'Brien and F. V. R. Turk were counsel for the executors of the will and estate.

SUES FOR REINSTATEMENT

Commissioner Removed Him on Charges of Entering a Saloon and General Incompetency.

Jonathan Hanson, until recently a Superintendent in the Street Cleaning Department, obtained from Supreme Court Justice Gildersleeve yesterday a writ of certiorari directing Street Cleaning Commissioner William H. Edwards to certify to the Clerk of the court all proceedings relating to the dismissal of the Superintendent from his place, and also a copy of the order and resolution ordering his dismissal.

In his petition Hanson says he had been in the employ of the department for ten years and at the time of his dismissal was Superintendent of District 2. On Feb. 24, 1909, he was charged by William Robbins, General Superintendent, at the direction of Commissioner Edwards, with having entered a liquor saloon while on duty, and was suspended without pay, pending an investigation.

On Feb. 26, 1909, the petition continues, these charges were preferred against Hanson: (1) Entering a liquor saloon on Feb. 24 in company with Foreman Robert Hicks; (2) of being off post of duty; (3) of taking Foreman Hicks off post of duty and failing to report the foreman for entering a saloon and for being off post; (4) of continuing to have Foreman Hicks accompany him in a buggy, after being repeatedly notified not to do so, and (5) of being incompetent as a District Superintendent, first, as a drinking man and a frequenter of saloons, and, second, of being unable to maintain discipline.

Similar charges were made against Hicks, who was also dismissed.

Hanson answers that he received notice to appear before Commissioner Edwards for trial. He did so at 10 in the morning, and requested an adjournment until 2 in the afternoon, for the purpose of consulting counsel and getting witnesses. This was denied. Hanson says that at the trial he was not allowed to communicate with his witnesses and that he was practically held a prisoner in one room, while a similar fate befell Hicks, who was detained in another room.

On March 10, Hanson says, he was notified that he had been dismissed. Hanson alleges his dismissal was due to prejudice and a desire to make other promotions in the department. A writ was also granted Hicks on a similar complaint.

H. W. Nichols's Estate Wins Suit Against "Spite House" Owner's Niece.

A jury in Justice Dowling's part of the Supreme Court returned a verdict yesterday for $49,670 in favor of the executors of the estate of Homer W. Nichols, a broker, in the suit brought against Miss Emily Emmett, niece of Joseph Richardson, owner of the famous "spite house" in Lexington Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, who died in 1897, leaving an estate valued at several millions. Miss Emmett lives with Mr. Richardson's daughter, Dellarifa, at 110 East Houston Street.

The action was to recover $35,000 and interest, alleged to be due Mr. Nichols for acting as the confidential adviser of the defendant, and counsel for Mr. Nichols produced a paper signed by Miss Emmett in which she agreed to pay this sum.

HOWARD GOULD SUITS TO-DAY

May Be Adjourned to June 7—Mrs. Gould the First Witness.

Supreme Court Justice Gerard, on the application of counsel for both sides, signed an order yesterday fixing to-day for the beginning of the trial of the separation suit brought by Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould against Howard Gould, and of the latter's countersuit for a divorce. The trial will take place before Justice Gerard in Part 3, Special Term, and will not be a jury trial.

Most of the testimony will be offered in the form of depositions taken by both sides. It is probable that the trial will be adjourned this morning for a few days, as yesterday counsel on both sides said that June 7 would be a convenient date. De Lancey Nicoll is counsel for Mr. Gould, with Clarence J. Shearn representing Mrs. Gould. The latter will be the first witness.

HURLS DEFIANCE AT LOBBY.

Billard Stock Incorporation Bill Not to be Reconsidered.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 27.—The resolution incorporating the John L. Billard Company was again before the House today. The "Insurgents" scored another victory in opposition to the House leaders. The motion was made to reconsider an amendment which limited the amount of the bond issue in proportion to the capital stock. Representative Bishop of New Haven then said that he opposed giving the lobby a chance to work until next week Thursday. He said that the Representatives did not want to have their telephones ringing and men coming to see them to tell them what to do. He said that the House had carefully considered these amendments yesterday, and he concluded as follows: "Let us be men and stand by it, even if the lobby does not like it."

The motion to reconsider the Billard matter was put to a vote and lost. This leaves the resolution the order of the day for next Thursday.

BOGUS COINS OF SILVER.

Connecticut Counterfeits Had the Weight and Composition of Good Coins

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 27.—Three of the five men captured at the Joseph Farelli farm house in Wilton last night in a raid made by Secret Service agents, who are charged with counterfeiting, were brought here to-day for safe keeping, an automobile being used.

The Federal agents say that a complete counterfeiting outfit was found on the place, and there was also about the house and barn an ingenious system of electric wires to give alarm of the approach of any one. A considerable quantity of silver bullion, besides the dies and other machinery, was also found there, it is said.

A lot of half dollars, said to have been similar in composition and weight to those minted in the Government mints, were also found there. It was at first supposed that there were at large in Connecticut two other men wanted by the agents, but two of the men captured in the raid were the ones wanted. These men are still at the farm house under guard.

ALBANY OFFICIAL IS SHOT.

Italian Fires Four Bullets at Isadore Wachsman.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 27.—Isadore Wachsman, clerk of the City Board of Contract and Supply, while alighting from a Pine Hills car near his home, on Pine Avenue, to-day, was shot by an Italian, who fled, but later was captured by a mounted policeman. Four shots were fired. One hit a button over Wachsman's heart and was deflected, causing only a flesh wound. Two others took effect in the shoulder and leg, and the fourth struck the car. Wachsman is expected to recover.

The assailant was recognized as an Italian who had been seen hanging around the City Hall and who is supposed to have had a grievance against Wachsman.

THE "LADY BWANO TUMBO."

She Regretfully Admits That She Has Confined Her Lion-Hunting to Zoos.

Miss Viola Meade, the young American woman who returned from South Africa on Tuesday on the Minneapolis and has been acclaimed by several newspapers as the female "Bwano Tumbo" of South Africa and a rival of Theodore Roosevelt in her lion-shooting prowess, called yesterday at her banker's in Broadway. She laughed merrily when the bank manager complimented her on the plucky manner in which she had faced the monarchs of the jungle.

"The whole thing is so funny to me," said Miss Meade, "because I have never seen a live lion in my life except in a zoo. There were no lions in the part of South Africa where I lived."

FORT HAS GONE TO THE COLBYITES

Jersey Governor Denounces Boss Rule and Praises the New Idea Doctrines.

WANTS PARTY PLEDGES KEPT

Reform Measures Before Last Legislature Were Defeated by Those Seeking Special Privileges, He Declares.

Gov. John Franklin Fort of New Jersey was heartily cheered last night at the Krueger Auditorium in Newark, where he spoke at the dollar dinner of the New Idea Republicans. The Governor voiced new idea sentiments, denouncing boss rule, and shaking off the last semblance of the Republican "regularity" that elected him a year and a half ago.

Gov. Fort's Speech.

In his address Gov. Fort said:

"The curse of modern political conditions is political bossism. We must have parties, and we must have leadership, but neither of these necessary things requires that we shall have individual domination to the overthrow of popular rights. Organizations also must exist to carry on party government successfully. No one is more strongly in favor of organized political movements than I. But there is a wrong impression abroad as to the duty of what we call political organizations. They are simply to manage the campaign, not to control the representatives elected by the people. Men elected to the Legislature should be competent to act upon legislation that is demanded by the people, without being constantly told what they should or must do. For my part, I am convinced that if they were left to legislate, as their judgment and conscience dictated, there would be no difficulty about the passage of measures which the people demand.

"Some of us have old-fashioned ideas as to what a political committee is for. We still think that it has no other function than to conduct the campaign for the election of the candidates of the party, as selected by the people, and when the election is over to rest from its labors until called into activity by another campaign. We have no idea that such a committee, or, more objectionable still, its chairman, is to tell the representatives of the people what they are to do or how they shall vote after they are elected.

"Just here lies the difference between the line of leadership and political bossism.

"We have passed the civil service law and extended the primary election law to county committees only through the defeat of these gentlemen, and by the aid of a few of the patriotic Democrats in the Legislature, who think more of the rights of the people than they do of party. Were these gentlemen regular when they approved these things, or were those regular who advocated them? Let the people decide.

"There is no future for any party that does not keep its promises. Bad faith spells defeat with the people. In our day the people are watching their representatives more closely than formerly. They are not deceived. They know whether the effort to keep the party pledges is an honest one or a mere subterfuge. The position which the Governor has taken since his election has simply been to support the Republican platform upon which he was elected, and to keep faith with the people in all the pledges which he made.

"When our party declares that it is in favor of an effective and authoritative board for the regulation of public utilities it means what it says, and he who opposes it is not a friend of the party, but is its enemy. It was frequently heard said at Trenton during the legislative session that no one was there advocating a public utilities bill. Why should the people come to Trenton to advocate such a bill? If the party promises to enact it, it would be a reflection upon the party if any one should come to Trenton suggesting that we keep our promises. Has it come to this, that it is necessary for the people to follow up the promises of the party in order to secure their fulfillment?

"Those of us who have been in favor of these things have been trying to accomplish them, but it is impossible to pass these laws unless the people take more interest in matters relating to themselves. I am now appealing to the people of the State to aid in the enactment of this legislation and insist upon it, if they believe in it, that their representatives shall support it.

"The other remaining thing is the taxation of franchises. The decision of the Supreme Court a few days ago has somewhat opened anew the problem of railway taxation. That question can never be settled until settled right. The Legislature of 1905 and 1906 providing for the method of the taxation of railway property was as near right as any method of State taxation can be without a fixed arbitrary rate. And but for the maximum tax rate act even that method would be almost as good as the fixing of an arbitrary rate."

DEGREE FOR GOV. FORT.

Jersey Executive in Return Gives Advice to New York Law Students.

Gov. John Franklin Fort of New Jersey received yesterday from New York University the honorary degree of LL. D. at special exercises before the Law School in the University Building in Washington Square. These exercises were arranged because the Governor found it impossible to attend the regular commencement exercises on June 2.

In acknowledging the degree the Governor gave the students advice in the shape of fourteen commandments to govern their conduct during a trial in court. These were:

Never, no matter what the provocation, be discourteous to the court.

Never endeavor to get the Judge to rule a question admissible which you believe inadmissible, with the hope, or for any other purpose, of securing a reversal if you lose the case.

Never try to be friendly with the jury; if you can avoid it, never look at them except when addressing them or necessarily bringing something to their attention.

Never try to get into, or allow your adversary to get you into, a quarrel, or discourteous wrangle with him.

Never show your ill-temper; avoid it as you would a pestilence. You never know how it may affect another or your client's interests.

Never testify in a cause you are conducting, except to prove some documents that are merely formal.

Never characterize any statement of a witness you are cross-examining during the examination. Conduct your case regularly and reserve all comment for the argument.

Never make a prolix examination into minute details, thereby exhausting the patience of the court or jury or both.

Never ask questions that suggest an answer.

Never browbeat a witness or yell at him.

Never be cynical, sarcastic, or offensive while examining witnesses. Reserve all that for the argument.

Never call attention to or remark upon any deformity of person in a witness, or your opponent, which is due to natural causes or misfortune. In nothing can you harm your client's case more.

Never take a moment's unnecessary time in putting your case in, or in the argument.

Never misquote the law to the court or attempt to misstate the facts to the jury.

For office use the Governor said he had but three rules:

Never mingle your client's money with your own.

Never borrow money from a client.

Never under any circumstances forget that you are a gentleman.

Chancellor Henry MacCracken of the University presented the Governor to the students, who applauded him warmly.

Hammond, Dr. Pearce Bailey, Dr. F. W. Langdon of Cincinnati, Dr. H. M. Thomas of Baltimore, and Dr. C. W. Burr of Philadelphia. The annual dinner will take place this evening at the Waldorf.

PRESBYTERIANS BAN TOBACCO

Refuse to Condemn Members Who Are Judges and Grant Saloon Licenses.

DENVER, Col., May 27.—Ministers and laymen should not use tobacco, [illegible] it is not contrary to the principles of the church for Judges who are Presbyterians to grant saloon licenses. This was decided by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church to-day in approving the report of the Temperance Committee after a long discussion.

The report commended President Taft, the Kaiser, and ex-President Eliot of Harvard for being teetotalers, and urged the ministers of the church to petition Congress to stop Inter-State shipments of liquor, to discontinue the issuance of internal revenue receipts in prohibition territory, and to prohibit the use of the mails for the distribution of advertisements of liquor.

When a resolution declaring that ministers should not use tobacco was introduced, a layman arose and declared that laymen should be included. This was done, and the resolution was adopted amid cheering. The proposed resolution that Presbyterian Judges should refuse to grant licenses for saloons, even though it were their duty under the law, was opposed with the argument that a Judge should not be criticised for his actions under the law, whereupon one speaker demanded that Judges when confronted with such a situation resign from the bench rather than grant the license.

"God grant that our Judges do not resign upon such an occasion," said one Commissioner, "for it will only pave the way for worse ones."

The resolution was defeated.

Timothy L. Woodruff Hurt at Camp.

Word was received in Brooklyn yesterday that Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff had been painfully injured while fishing at his Adirondack place, Kamp Kill Kare. The accident is said to have happened about a week ago. Mr. Woodruff was fishing from a narrow ledge overlooking an arm of Lake Kora when the earth beneath him gave way and he fell on some boulders at the water's edge. Some overhanging briers broke the force of his fall and saved him from probable serious injury. As it was, he was painfully cut and bruised about the head.

A verdict for $150 damages in favor of ten-year-old Robert O'Donnell was returned by a jury in Justice Green's part of the City Court yesterday in his suit to recover $2,000 from Mrs. Mary Slattery of the Bronx for having hit him with a stick in 1903.

They Found a New York Paper Around a Jimmy in a Looted Jersey Flat.

SO THEY CAME ACROSS

In Court They Saw a Man with a Similar Paper—Followed and Got Loot, They Say.

When detectives investigated the burglary of the flat of Mrs. Maria Clark, at 405 Summit Avenue, Jersey City, on May 7, all they found was a "jimmy," wrapped in a sheet torn from a Manhattan daily newspaper. Deciding from this, however, that the burglars had come from Manhattan, Detectives Rooney and Nugent crossed the ferry and began to try to pick up a clue in this city. Their efforts were unavailing.

Yesterday they decided to visit Part II. of General Sessions, where the trial of "Dutch" Engle was going on. While the detectives watched, a man, who said he was Walter Asser of 319 West Seventeenth Street, took the stand in Engle's defense. Rooney noticed that he had a copy of a morning paper in his pocket. He looked again and saw it was a copy of the same publication that had been around the jimmy. It was opened at the sporting page, where there was considerable racing news.

"There's just a chance that it might be the same man," said Rooney to Nugent. "Let's follow him."

The detectives were close behind when Asser left the courtroom with a woman who had been waiting for him. They went uptown to Eighteenth Street and Eighth Avenue, where they entered a pawnshop. The detectives followed them and say they saw the couple redeem two silver watches and some small pieces of jewelry for $21. When they left the place the detectives, who had pretended to look at some of the unredeemed pledges, followed again and were led to Asser's home.

Then the detectives made themselves known and insisted on following the couple into the house. According to Rooney and Nugent they found nearly all of the $250 worth of things that had been stolen from Mrs. Clark stored in the Asser home. The man, the detectives said, was wearing a watch which had belonged to Mrs. Clark's husband, now dead. It was of gold. The woman was wearing a gold watch, according to the detectives, which had been the property of Mrs. Clark. The woman said she was Asser's wife.

Detectives O'Neil, Reilly, and Kerr of Inspector McCafferty's Bureau, were called in and arrested Asser and his wife as fugitives from justice in Jersey City. They were taken to Police Headquarters and locked up there, although both protested that they were innocent and that the watches they were wearing had been come by honestly, as had the goods which the detectives said they found in their flat.

TAFT WINS AT GOLF.

He and Edwards Beat Sherman and Bourne by 1 Up.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—For the second time this week President Taft and Gen. Clarence R. Edwards won to-day in a foursome at golf from Vice President Sherman and Senator Bourne of Oregon. The game to-day was won by 1 up.

The play was on the Chevy Chase Club links.

TRIES TO CARRY OFF GIRL.

When Driver of Taxi Refuses to Start Deunzio Is Arrested.

An elderly man picked up 5-year-old Bertha Schmidt as she was playing outside of her father's grocery store at 89 Sixth Avenue at 8 o'clock last night. He ran to a taxicab driven by Charles Meyers, got in with the child, and ordered the chauffeur to drive off. Meyers had been waiting for a fare and refused.

Then Benjamin Tubakman, a newsboy, who knew Bertha, called Policeman Ward and the child's father. Then the taxicab with the policeman and the others drove to the Charles Street Station.

The man said he was George Deunzio of 19 Jones Street. He was locked up charged with attempted kidnapping. Later his son Adolph told the police that his father had been acting strangely since the death of his wife on May 11. He said he had taken him to Bellevue, but that the physicians there had thought that he was all right. Deunzio said his son had made a fortune as a chemist in Naples, but had lost it.

Record Marriage License Day.

The old familiar adage of "In the Spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" received substantial vindication yesterday with the announcement by City Clerk Scully that Wednesday was a record day in the new Marriage License Bureau in his office, 190 certificates having been issued during the day.

NEW BOWLING RECORD.

Corinthian No. 8 Five-Men Team Rolls 2898 in Tournament.

It was Corinthian night at the National Bowling Association tournament last night in Madison Square Garden and the No. 8 Corinthian five-men team of New York signalized the event by establishing a new record for this event in a National Bowling Association tournament, rolling a score of 2,898. The old record was 2,893, held by the crack Brunswick team of this city, at the National championships at Rochester last year. It was the Brunswick team which won the National championship at Atlantic City two years ago, with a score of 2,874. The performance last night of the Corinthian team is taken as an indication that they will have a secure hold on first place in the five-man event. The score of last night stands only 64 pins behind the world's record for the five-man event.

The team which made the new record was composed of William Linden, Louis Stein, Frank Reed, William Heins, and James Smith. Linden showed the best form of the five, getting three totals over the 200 mark. His first game was 231, the second 203, and the third 236. The team total for the three games was exceptionally even, there being no variance of more than four points for the three games. The first team total was 968, the second, 964, and the last, 966.

By establishing the new figures the Corinthian team took first place in the race for the money in the five-man event.

The Sunset team of Brooklyn last night rolled 2,831, thereby going into second place.

Blatz and Stout of Plainfield, N. J., continue to lead in the two-men event, and the individual honors are still held by H. J. Miller of New York, who rolled 644.

Charles V. Gilbert of Cleveland defeated Lee R. Johns of Newark by a score of 6 games to 4 in a match for the best six out of eleven games. The two men were tied at the eighth game, but Gilbert took the two following. Gilbert made an average of 192 8-10 and Johns averaged 195 2-10. The leaders in the various events are as follows:

Two-Men Teams, Three Games.—Blatz and Stout, Plainfield, N. J., 1,172; Weber and Hutchings, New York City, 1,150; Bergstrom and Thomas, Long Island City, 1,141; Baker and Grahl, New York City, 1,121; Bobbe and Buckholtz, New York City, 1,110.

Individual, Three Games.—H. Miller, New York City, 644; P. Loetze, New York City, 642; A. Lawson, Long Island City, 631; A. Bonadies, Brooklyn, 616; W. Van Kan, New York City, 609; N. Roehlman, Baltimore, 601; F. Crum, Newark, 588.

Five-Men Teams, Three Games.—Corinthian No. 8, New York, 2,898; Sunset team, Brooklyn, 2,831; Jamaica, Jamaica, L. I., 2,809; Bronx Centrals No. 2, New York, 2,804; Ravenswood, Long Island City, 2,781; Atlantic City A. C., New York, 2,741; Clymers, Brooklyn, 2,729.

CLOSE GOLF PLAY ON SOGGY LINKS

Travis, Herreshoff, Ward, and Douglas Among the Metropolitan Winners.

BROKAW BEATEN BY REID

Despite Bad Weather Many Games at Apawamis Required Extra Holes to Determine Victors.

While the weather was not the best for golf yesterday, competition in the match play rounds for the metropolitan championship went on with unabated keenness on the Apawamis Club links. Of the sixty-four men who qualified for the three trophies, the first thirty-two being in the championship division, there was only one absentee, and that in the third sixteen set. Rain fell hard enough during the morning to drench many of the players.

It was a good winning day for most of the championship eligibles. Fred Herreshoff disposed of Gilman P. Tiffany, the five times champion of the Hudson River Association, with unexpected ease in the morning, winning by 7 up and 6 to play, Tiffany being very weak in putting. In the afternoon Herreshoff had a closer match with C. A. Dunning, who had beaten A. M. Robbins in the morning, but took the game by 3 up and 2 to play. Robert C. Watson won two good matches, finding R. Webb of Englewood, one of the comparatively unknown golfers, a stiff opponent in the morning, as Watson only managed to win by 2 up and 1 to play. In the second round he beat S. D. Bowers by 6 up and 5 to play.

Walter J. Travis won both of his matches handily, beating Marshall Whitlatch by 5 up and 4 to play, and then putting W. E. Conklyn out in the afternoon by 6 up and 4 to play. In the latter match Travis was out in 38, leading by three at the turn, and after that it was easy. Their cards were:

Travis—Out	4	5	4	4	4	4	4	3	6	—38
Conklyn—Out	6	4	5	4	3	5	5	3	7	—41
Travis—In	5	5	3	3	5					—21—59
Conklyn—In	4	6	4	4	6					—24—65

At the long ninth hole Conklyn laid Travis a stymie, forcing the latter to take two puts, but the joke of it was that Conklyn missed his put and lost the hole.

Three matches in the first round for the beaten sixteen cup went to odd holes, Tiffany and McMenamy winning on the nineteenth hole, while Upton had to play twenty-one holes to beat McMurtrie. The results of the rounds were:

Championship.—First Round—Fred Herreshoff, Westbrook, beat Gilman P. Tiffany, Powelton, 7 up and 6 to play; C. A. Dunning, Nassau, beat Arden M. Robbins, Garden City, 4 up and 3 to play; C. H. Brown, Salgkill, beat T. W. McMenamy, Fox Hills, 2 up; R. D. Lapham, Apawamis, beat S. T. Graham, Fairfield, 2 up; S. D. Bowers, Brooklawn, beat W. Watson, Dunwoodie, 7 up and 6 to play; Robert C. Watson, Westbrook, beat R. Webb, Englewood, 2 up and 1 to play; Oswald Kirkby, Englewood, beat H. E. Armstrong, Fox Hills, 1 up; W. R. Thurston, Apawamis, beat F. S. Wheeler, Apawamis, 2 up and 1 to play; Walter J. Travis, Garden City, beat Marshall Whitlatch, Dyker Meadow, 5 up and 4 to play; W. E. Conklyn, Dunwoodie, beat W. H. Vanderpoel, Baltusrol, 5 up and 4 to play; John M. Ward, Westbrook, beat Oscar Woodward, Montclair, 2 up; H. V. Seggerman, Englewood, beat James L. Taylor, Dyker Meadow, 1 up, (19 holes;) John Reid, Jr., St. Andrew's, beat W. W. Harris, Dunwoodie, 4 up and 3 to play; George T. Brokaw, Garden City, beat E. M. Barnes, Englewood, 3 up and 2 to play; Lloyd Gwyer, Siwanoy, beat F. R. Upton, Jr., Baltusrol, 1 up, (22 holes;) Findlay S. Douglas, Nassau, beat T. H. T. McMurtrie, Apawamis, 4 up and 3 to play.

Second Round—Herreshoff beat Dunning, 3 up and 2 to play; Lapham beat Brown, 4 up and 3 to play; Watson beat Bowers, 6 up and 5 to play; Kirkby beat Thurston, 1 up, (21 holes;) Travis beat Conklyn, 6 up and 4 to play; Ward beat Seggerman, 5 up and 4 to play; Reid beat Brokaw, 2 up; Douglas beat Gwyer, 4 up and 3 to play.

Beaten Sixteen Cup.—Tiffany beat Robbins, 1 up, (19 holes;) McMenamy beat Graham, 1 up, (19 holes;) Webb beat Watson, 4 up and 2 to play; Armstrong beat Wheeler, 1 up; Whitlatch beat Vanderpoel by default; Woodward beat Taylor, 3 up and 1 to play; Barnes beat Harris, 5 up and 4 to play; Upton beat McMurtrie, 1 up, (21 holes.)

Third Cup.—First Round—M. K. Smith, Morris County, beat H. O. Parsons, Crescent A. C., 1 up, (19 holes;) J. J. Radel, Deal, beat Bert T. Allen, Fox Hills, 5 up and 3 to play; F. A. Moore, Apawamis, beat C. B. Macdonald, National, 1 up; James A. Tyng, Baltusrol, beat G. W. White, Flushing, 5 up and 4 to play; S. Gourlay, Apawamis, beat A. J. Watson, Dunwoodie, by default; Z. T. Miller, Dunwoodie, beat F. H. Thomas, Morris County, 1 up; W. D. Vanderpool, Morris County, beat C. A. Spofford, Apawamis, 1 up, (19 holes;) Charles Presbrey, Fox Hills, beat A. S. Bourne, Englewood, 3 up and 2 to play.

Second Round—Radel beat Smith, 1 up; Tyng beat Moore, 4 up and 3 to play; Miller beat Gourlay, 3 up and 1 to play; Vanderpool beat Presbrey, 1 up.

Out to Visit the Bremen.

The German cruiser Bremen, which is anchored in the North River off the foot of Ninety-fourth Street, was open to visitors yesterday from 12 to 2 and from 4 to 6 P. M., and many sightseers went out in small boats.

In the afternoon the German Consul went on board and as the representative of Emperor William he was received with a salute of nine guns.

SWINDLE IN SUBWAY TICKETS.

The arraignment in Night Court last night of Edward Weber, a young clerk, of 889 Liberty Avenue, Brooklyn, by Special Policeman Magwood of the Interborough Company, disclosed the fact that for a year the company has been swindled by some one who has dropped into the ticket boxes bits of pasteboard colored like Subway tickets, but without the company's official marking.

Magwood said he had watched Weber for several days, and on Wednesday had seen him drop a bogus ticket in the ticket chopping machine. Last night, said Magwood, Weber repeated the performance at the downtown Eighteenth Street station, whereupon the special policeman arrested him. According to Magwood, Weber told him he did it because he had a family to support on a small salary, and had to save on his car fares.

Weber denied the charge, but Magistrate Kernochan fined him $5, which he could not pay.

Court Order Against Daniel O'Reilly.

Justice Lynch of the City Court signed an order yesterday directing Lawyer Daniel O'Reilly, former counsel for Harry K. Thaw, to appear in court next Saturday for examination in supplementary proceedings relative to his ability to pay a judgment of $1,047 held against him by Elsie Hartwig, a milliner. The judgment was in a suit to recover for goods alleged to have been sold to Mrs. O'Reilly.

Women know!

It isn't necessary to tell them how to wash the thousand and one pretty trifles that come under the general name of "fancy work."

They would not think of using ordinary laundry soap—or washing powders—or chemicals.

Oh, no!

There is a better way; a safer way—Ivory Soap and lukewarm water.

Why Ivory Soap? Because it is pure; because it contains no "free" alkali; no coloring matter; no harmful ingredient of any kind.

OUR PROCRUSTEAN METHODS.

The Indianapolis News facetiously announces that a compromise has been reached in the tariff controversy at Washington. Since it has been impossible to revise the tariff to suit the ultimate consumer, the consumer is to be trimmed to fit the tariff. The matter is almost too serious to be treated jestingly, and yet there's many a true word spoken in jest. It is almost the exact truth that our statesmen expect commerce to mold itself to their statutes, rather than seek to enact laws expressive of merchant common law. In regard to railways as well as the tariff there is abroad—or has been—a pestilent idea that bad economics is somehow good politics.

Especially in finance are our methods Procrustean. We furnish a currency which is almost as rigid as iron, and which, so far as it is elastic, expands when it should contract and contracts when it should expand. To this volume of currency trade is expected to adjust itself, absorbing currency in speculative excesses when it is redundant, and when it is deficient wrenching gold from the world's markets by main strength. That is the way in which we have "moved our crops" for a generation, alternately stimulating Wall Street with a plethora of funds, and then shaking them out of Wall Street when they are wanted. If trade does not fit the currency, it is the trade which must adjust itself to the conditions. This is costly, alternately necessitating imports of dear gold, and then causing the export of undervalued gold. It is a sorry jest to say that now the consumers are to be trimmed to fit the tariff.

THE TRACTION OUTLOOK.

The Governor has just signed a bill which will greatly disappoint its authors, and some millions more, if it shall fail to provide better transit facilities than New York has ever known. Just as the Governor signed the bill the Interborough publishes traffic statistics of the greatest significance at this time, when the transit problem is about to assume its final form.

For the quarter ending with March the Subway earned more dollars profit than did the elevated. The Manhattan's gross earnings are the larger, and, since the fares are the same, it follows that it must have carried more passengers, although the accounts are not stated that way. But the Manhattan's gross gain is a paltry $28,822, whereas the Subway's gain is $459,460, at the cost of an increase of operating expenses of only $60,389. The significance of these figures does not lie on the surface, but that there is a hidden significance is made sure by the fact that in the fiscal year 1907-8 the elevated roads carried nearly 83,000,000 more passengers than the Subway. The Subway's first calendar year was 1905, and it then carried only 116,000,000 passengers. By 1908 it had made a growth to 220,000,000, and now it is on the point of passing the Manhattan lines in the service it renders to the traveling public. This is no small feat when it is considered that the Subway operates only sixty-nine miles of single track, and the Manhattan over ninety miles. On 20,000,000 fewer car miles the Subway is carrying almost an equivalent traffic.

The figures now published tell us nothing about where this gain is made, for they deal only in dollars, and say nothing regarding traffic over any given sections of track. The clue is given by the chart exhibited at the City Planning Exhibition giving sales of tickets at all Subway stations. The highest total for the single hour chosen naturally was at the Brooklyn Bridge station, but it is more surprising to find that the second highest total was at the Atlantic Avenue station in Brooklyn, 10,900. This is more than double the sales at Borough Hall, and far more than the anticipated proportion of business to be done. Engineer BION J. ARNOLD estimated the sales of tickets in Brooklyn at 22,060,000 annually, which represents the travel in one direction only. Here are 44,000,000 passengers, or thereabout, and most of them short riders. The proportion of Brooklyn passengers who go above Fourteenth Street is not so large as the proportion of Manhattan passengers who go below it. The Brooklyn traffic is most of it for less than five miles, and therefore is disproportionately profitable. Much of the Manhattan travel is over five miles, and therefore done at a loss.

The suggestion of these facts is that Manhattan furnishes most of the work for the Subway, but that Brooklyn furnishes more than its share of the profit. Not all of this is due either to the number of the riders, or to the short distance they ride, but to the fact that they ride in a direction opposite to the Manhattan load, occupying cars which otherwise would make the run south empty in order to get in position to carry the northward rush in Manhattan in the evening. And the reverse is true in the morning. In other words, the builders of the Subway discovered the richness of the interborough travel, and the lesson comes just in time to be utilised in connection with the new roads which all hope for, although with differing degrees of confidence. The surest relief for Manhattan congestion is to scatter travel, leading those who will go into other boroughs in search of more light and air and room than they can afford in the city's chief borough. There are many easterly and westerly lines of interborough transit, and it is urgently to be desired that they should be utilized in connection with the new routes whose construction is now apparently close at hand. It was a tremendous discovery that as many people want to return to Brooklyn as come from it, but now that it has been disclosed all have the secret, and while the builders may be few the riders will be millions if the builders appreciate and use the opportunity presented to them.

THE PNEUMONIA CARS.

In spite of the lingering Winter's chill and the prevailing dampness in the air, the pneumonia cars made their appearance on almanac time, and will doubtless be kept running until after the Autumn equinox. In hot weather they are in high favor with the young and agile. Rainy and cold days nobody wants to ride in them. But once in use they are kept in use. For the elderly, the stout, the infirm, they are comfortless vehicles, hard to climb upon, equally hard to dismount from. The conductor, swinging himself from one end to the other, on the side step, has all he can do to collect fares and give transfers. He is rarely looking your way when you want the car to stop.

Doubtless many thousands will agree with us that the open street cars might well be abolished. Their reappearance this Spring has been particularly annoying, for we have all grown to like the new, clean, comfortable "pay-as-you-enter" cars, which are just as cool, while they have windows which can be closed, when necessary, to keep out the cold and wet.

MR. JEROME'S ORDEAL.

That District Attorney JEROME should have stood up for four hours answering the pointed questions of that Cooper Union audience and then have got away with his hair and his clothes is a wonderful example of the triumph of a mind over a multitude. But that he could win the applause of that audience and the confidence of the greater part of it, and left the hall amid its cheers while his discomfited "hecklers" were nursing their bruises was an exhibition of power such as few men in this community or in any community possess.

The occasion, it seems to us, was one of extraordinary interest. In its antecedents and conditions it was quite without precedent here, and was in many respects widely different from the "heckling" affairs in England, where only candidates for the House of Commons are put on the grill. The audience and the man it assembled to hear and to harass were alike interesting. Mr. JEROME is, indeed, extraordinarily interesting. In respect to power over an audience he doubtless has no equal in this city and few in the country. He has been bitterly, even venomously, assailed, his personal honesty has been called in question, his official conduct denounced as culpably negligent and inefficient. In the history of the City and County of New York there have been few public officials more continuously under fire or subjected to more serious accusations. It was an act of surpassing courage on his part to volunteer to meet any and all comers before a Copper Union audience. Few men would have the courage for such an undertaking, still fewer, perhaps, the ability to face the challenges of such a body and confound calumniators by plain answers to uncommonly plain questions. Mr. JEROME gave a convincing demonstration of his courage and his intellectual power.

It was an audience of which the majority was unfriendly to him. It was an audience predisposed to believe the charge that during his term of office there has been one law for the rich and another for the poor. There were present not a few professional exposers of wrongdoing, self-appointed gadflies of transgressors. The interesting, the important, and the encouraging thing about the affair was that this audience, though largely hostile, nevertheless insisted upon fair play for Mr. JEROME, thereby setting a noble example in decency, in manners, and in manliness to some of his traducers. Mr. JEROME himself set up the standard of fair play. Even when the question was raised as to whether the exaltation of one of his questioners was of ethical or of alcoholic origin he insisted that the man extruded by the police should be brought back into the hall. It is encouraging, we say, that both the "hecklers" and the "heckled" should have been animated by an honorable spirit of fairness. If the precedent set up in Cooper Union Wednesday night is to be followed, if candidates and public officers are from time to time to render direct account to the people in this manner, fair play and reasonable courtesy must be considered essential to the success of the procedure.

The reports of the meeting are in substantial agreement upon the main fact, that Mr. JEROME scored a triumph over his accusers. There were, of course, doubters in the audience when the meeting broke up. But the District Attorney certainly appears to have convinced the majority that the charges against him were unfounded. We should say that this result ought to stop the iteration of the calumnies. The class in this community to which the appeals against him are chiefly made, a class that is rather easily credulous of charges made against any man in office, appears to have been won over by Mr. JEROME so far as the behavior of its representatives in Cooper Union may be held to give evidence of that result. Obviously, then, the iteration of the old slanders will be futile, since those who may have believed them in the past no longer accept them as well founded.

If Mr. JEROME has not vindicated himself before this community, we do not see how vindication can be possible for any public officer charged with dereliction. The Hand report, upon which he largely relied in replying to his questioners, and upon which he had a right to rely, expressly declared that the charges against him were not only not proved, but were specifically disproved. That report the Governor of the State approved. The chief men of the Bar in this county have over their own signatures expressed full confidence in him. The remarkable banquet at which he was recently the guest of honor was attended by hundreds of men prominent in the affairs of the city, who would have stayed away if they had had any doubts about Mr. JEROME. For a confirmation of their verdict upon him he has appealed to a different tribunal, to an east side Cooper Union audience, and at the end of the test his audience thought better of him than of his accusers. He has a right to demand, and the community he has so long served has a right to demand, that the campaign of calumny shall cease.

SIMPLIFY THE ISSUE.

The curse of the voters is their votes in the large cities of this country at the present time. In theory the voter has but one vote, which he may cast for any ticket he may choose or make up. In practice he has as many votes as there are offices to be filled, and the rational choice of a candidate for each of these is simply beyond the mental capacity not merely of the average voter, but of all save a very small and insignificant minority. The great number of offices to be filled and the impracticability of filling them properly by the free choice of voters who can know little or nothing about the various candidates is one of the strongest elements of strength in our party organisations. These choose the candidates and the voter chooses his party. Obviously it would be infinitely better if the number of offices could be reduced to a point where it would be possible to make a real, an intelligent, choice of incumbents.

There is, fortunately, an appreciable approach to this desirable solution of our city problem in New York this year. There will be a lot of candidates, as usual, but so far as concerns the main question of decent government for the city, only three of the offices will be of controlling importance, those of the Mayor, of the Controller, and of the District Attorney, and circumstances may arise that will make the last named office, which is a county and not a city office, relatively subordinate. And, of course, it is understood that the Mayor's post is of the most weight in the general administration of the affairs of the city. If we can get a Mayor competent as to ability, judgment, and character we shall have the further prospect of seeing his powers extended during his term. They are already of great scope, and the election of a Mayor who will use them wisely and fearlessly would be an object lesson in the value of the concentration of authority and responsibility.

THE BALL-PLAYING GIRL.

With Miss ELLEN O'CONNOR, who fell into the hands of the law because she was caught playing baseball in Central Park, we are inclined to sympathize. The privilege to play ball on the Park greens is restricted to male youths under 16 years. Miss O'CONNOR is 18 years old and feminine. She plays ball according to the accepted rules, but that does not count with the law. We do not question the judgment of the policeman who arrested her. The law accounts a woman of 18 the equal in discretion of a man of 21. Experience teaches that a woman of 18 is frequently more than the equal of a man of 45. The rules of the Park Department do not recognize girls as ball players. The watchful eye of the police can be relied on to distinguish a girl from a boy. As for the age restriction, pedestrians in the Park must frequently marvel at the mature appearance of many of the boys supposed to be under 16.

Officer POWERS, who arrested Miss O'CONNOR, describes her as "one of those suffragettes," and perhaps he is right. To mingle with miscellaneous representatives of the lower sex on the public ball ground is no less threatening to feminine delicacy, perhaps, than to mingle with men at the polls. But Miss O'CONNOR seems to be inspired with an enthusiastic liking for the National game, and endowed with a real ability to "gobble the flies" and "bang the sphere." Baseball can be no more harmful for a girl than for a boy, and if the women get their votes they may have certain park fields set apart for feminine ball players. As to whether that separation of the sexes in the National game will satisfy Miss O'CONNOR and her like we have our doubts. But that is the best she can look forward to, no matter how clear and penetrating her mental vision may be.

If DE NIVERNAIS is really the ancestral name of the Far Western gentleman who has hitherto been called LIVERNASH, he is to be commended for returning to it. It may have an effete, foreign sound to his friends at first, but it is a good name to sign to a State document, a book, or a bank check. As for Livernash, it is hopeless, unless, indeed, Mr. BOOTH of Cambridge should discover a hidden acrostic of the first two syllables in SHAKESPEARE'S plays. The connection of Liver with Nash would then seem the work of the hand of fate, for NASH was an Elizabethan poet long credited with a hand in the authorship of some of the plays.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Mr. Hamn's Bill Meets a Strange Fate. In a memorandum, the length of which shows appreciation of the importance of the subject, Gov. HUGHES has vetoed the Hamn Automobile bill. This will be a cruel disappointment to the men who have worked so long and hard, and, as we believe, with the best of intentions, to secure its enactment, and it will be a severe blow to the movement making all over the country, and especially in this part of it, to secure the much-needed approach to uniformity in automobile regulation which would prevent involuntary law-breaking. The veto will also perpetuate for at least a year a system of control by means of arbitrary speed limits which we know by experience to be far from effectual either for the prevention of accidents or the punishment of reckless driving.

In explaining his adverse action on the bill the Governor criticises more severely than anything else its withdrawal from municipal authorities of the power to limit the speed of automobiles by local ordinances. If that is a valid objection the originators of the bill will have to leave the work of reform to others, for this very withdrawal was their most important and best-considered purpose, and all the other changes they asked were subsidiary and incidental. Their constant contention has been that low speed and safety, high speed and danger, were not interchangeable terms, and that all the present troubles came from the assumption that they were. There is some room for honest difference of opinion on the question, but it seems to us that the weight of argument is on the side of those who, while admitting that there is a speed which is intrinsic evidence of criminal carelessness, insist that the requirement of constant prudence is a better protection than the establishment of definite rates which take no account of changing circumstances.

With most of the Governor's other objections to the bill we are inclined to agree. Its provisions for the holding to trial of offenders are inadequate, the penalties it prescribes are unduly lenient in the case of repeated transgressions of the law, licenses under it would be held under a tenure too secure, and it wholly ignores the vital point of examinations to prove competency and character. In all these respects the bill could and should have been improved, but evidently they were not decisive of its fate. That was settled, curiously enough, by the one feature which was the only real reason for passing it.

Mr. Lande and His Incongruities. Would that we knew more about the reasons that caused E. L. LANDE, a North Dakota farmer, to take steerage passage on the Adriatic for himself and his wife, this week, as the first stage of an automobile trip through Norway and Sweden.

Mr. LANDE, it seems, has so prospered since his arrival in this country that, like many of his neighbors in the region of the big wheat fields, he had acquired the means and developed the inclination to own a motor car. That shows him to be a progressive as well as an industrious person, and nearly acquits him of any disposition toward a miserly hoarding of his well-earned wealth. Evidently, he is as fond as the rest of us of reasonable pleasures and does not deprive himself of them merely because they cost money. Why, then, when he decided to revisit his native land, did he do two things so incongruous as to send his car on ahead to be ready for his use on arrival on the other side and then to make the ocean voyage as a steerage passenger?

To the reporters who questioned Mr. LANDE on this interesting point he said that, having come over here in the steerage when he was poor, and having found the conditions there sufficiently comfortable, he saw no reason for "wasting money on extravagances." The explanation has a certain plausibility, but it will not bear examination. When Mr. LANDE started on his travels, one can safely assume, he did not ride in an automobile from his native village to the port where he embarked. The chances are that he walked to the nearest railway, and then took a third class carriage. If he now finds a first or second cabin passage an "extravagance," why does he not go the whole way home exactly as he traversed the route the first time? Can it be that he does not care what we think about him, but foresees a keen delight in proving to those who knew him in the days when, if there were any automobiles, they certainly were not for him, that he is now a great man and can travel in style like the other American millionaires?

It would be interesting to know whether Mrs. LANDE, too, has retained all her former toleration for steerage conditions and associates. And if there are any young LANDES out in North Dakota, what do they think of combining the steerage with the automobile? These and many other questions suggested by the case are for the settlement of psychologists, and one among them might possibly reach the conclusion that Mr. LANDE, in making himself and his wife uncomfortable—for the steerage is uncomfortable, whatever he may say—has chiefly in mind the teaching of some sort of a "lesson" to those same young LANDES. Anyway, it's a queer proceeding.

A NEW BIRTH NEEDED.

The Republican Party Has Lost Its Original Inspiration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is just the right time, in these days of a higher cost of living with a lower receipt of income, for men to look back to 1862, when men, troubled over the slavery question, met under an old oak tree at Jackson, Mich., and founded the present Republican Party upon the resolution "That as the Declaration of Independence had declared that all men were born free and equal at birth, a party should be formed, by men, to make it so."

This unselfish action of men, for the good of other men held under the bonds of slavery, resulted in Republican history up to the present time. May some such principle arise that will produce justice to all, and be unselfish in its action toward all men. Instead of a protective tariff for capital and not for labor nor the consumer, may it be simply to return, for the investment of honest capital, a non-usurious percentage of profit, and the highest wage that can be given to labor up to its capability of action and worth in the production of commodity. For a revenue above that gained by a just tariff, let it be a tax upon incomes in exact proportion as that income has been received by each individual from all other men.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE APPROACH.

Property Owners Will Not Accept Price Offered by City.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Over three years ago the city commenced proceedings to acquire certain property for the Brooklyn Bridge approach, which property included the Staats Zeitung building on Tyron and Park Rows. After the proceedings had been pending for a year or more Mr. Ridder, by a private agreement with the city, agreed to take some $1,600,000 for the last named property, or above $250 a square foot, and the price named was promptly paid.

Every effort has been made since that time to depreciate the value of the balance of the property so to be taken, and while the property has been in the possession of the city all of this time, there is no prospect of paying the owners for the same in the near future. The parties owning property on the east side of Park Row, adjoining the Bridge, which was included in the proceeding, being satisfied that they would not get a fair value from the city for their property, caused a bill to be introduced in the Legislature authorizing the city to release and deed back to them. They are only too willing to take back the property, as in no event will they accept the ridiculous price placed on the same by the Commissioners of Appraisal who recently filed their report.

TO PERPETUATE G. A. R.

Would Open Society to Any One Who Served in Army or Navy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Under the caption "Taft a G. A. R. Associate," you say: "A few years ago, when the Grand Army ranks began to thin out from death, a movement was started to organize associate societies of such persons as desired to help to keep up the famous organization."

I beg to suggest that the true way to perpetuate the Grand Army of the Republic is to amend its constitution, which now limits its membership to veterans of the civil war only, so that any man who has served in the United States Army or Navy, whether in peace or war, and has been honorably discharged, shall be eligible to membership. By this act thousands of recruits to the G. A. R. could be at once obtained.

WOMAN'S LOGIC.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I confess that my mind is not capable of following the twists and turns of Suffragist reasoning, but I wonder whether any one else saw, as I did, in Miss Blackwell's account of how the ballot would help women, the traditional whiting with its tail in its mouth. If women voted, it was asserted that women might more easily get positions which are not considered especially desirable for women except by those who also consider voting desirable for women. Indeed, I have, for my sins, read Suffragist literature—the famous "Woman's Bible," where women are advised:

> "The virtue of self-sacrifice has its wise limitations. Though it is most commendable to serve our fellow-beings, yet woman's first duty is to herself, to develop all her own powers and possibilities, that she may better guide and serve the next generation."

The "power and possibility" of self-sacrifice being thus judiciously nipped in the mothers, one wonders what the "next generation" would become. I also read, as other readers of THE TIMES did, this Winter a letter from one Suffragist quoting Tennyson's inaccurate account of the evolution of the sexes, "Yet in the long years liker shall they grow," or words to that effect. I am quite willing to believe that Miss Blackwell knows herself to be different from a man, but what seems clear is that Suffragists don't realize that structure alone has not made them different, but ages of the exercise of different functions from those of men, in different fields.

When one compares such a splendid appeal to women to tackle the field to which they are fitted, with the weapons that are theirs alone, as Mrs. Corbin's "Letters from a Chimney Corner," to the Suffragist exaggeration of the importance of mere political power, one prefers Anti-Suffragist Literature to Suffragist. In the "Woman's Bible," Elizabeth Cady Stanton writes, with an easy digression from the buying of Sarah's burial place to politics:

> "That Abraham paid for all this in silver, current money with the merchant, might suggest to the financiers of our day that our commercial relations might be adjusted with the same coin, especially as we have plenty of it. If our bimetallists in the halls of legislation were conversant with sacred history, they might get fresh inspiration from the views of the patriarchs on good money."

This is the Suffragists' rather mixed idea of "Woman's Sphere." Compare with this the words of Mrs. Corbin, the Anti-Suffragist:

> "As between the power of the ballot and this moral force exerted by women, there cannot be an instant's doubt as to the choice. Nor is it very plain to see how women can wield both. It is a question of having your cake and eating it, too. In natural refinement and elevation of character the ideal woman stands a step above the ideal man. If she descend from this fortunate position to take part in the coarse scramble for material power, what chance will she have as against man's aggressive force? * * * She has, under God, the forming and rearing of men in her own hands."

NAME INQUIRY COMMITTEE.

To Investigate Direct Nominations and Charter Revision.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 27.—Lieut. Gov. White and Speaker Wadsworth of the Assembly to-day announced the appointment of Executive Committees to investigate the questions of direct nominations; the proposed extension of the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commissions to include telephone and telegraph companies; the proposed revision of the New York City Charter, and employers' liability and the unemployed.

The committees follow:

Public Service Commissions—Senators Davis of Buffalo, Kissell of Brooklyn, Frawley of New York, Assemblymen Merritt of St. Lawrence, Yale of Putnam, Ward of New York, Walters of Onondaga, Caughlan of New York.

New York Charter—Senators Brough of New York, Gledhill of Brooklyn, Grady of New York; Assemblymen Hammond of Onondaga, Murphy of Kings, Robinson of New York, A. E. Smith of New York, Geoghegan of Kings.

Employers' Liability—Senators Wainwright of Rye, Platt of Painted Post, Bayne of New Brighton; Assemblymen Lowe of Jefferson, Voss of Kings, Thorn of Erie, C. W. Phillips of Monroe, and Jackson of Erie.

The Committee on Direct Nominations is authorized to visit other States in the course of its investigation, particularly those where the direct nominations system is now in operation.

The committees are to sit during the legislative recess and report to the Legislature of 1910.

Because he was refused the privilege of naming two members on each of the legislative investigating committees announced to-day by Lieut. Gov. White and Speaker Wadsworth of the Assembly, Assemblyman Frisbie, Democratic leader in the lower house, declined to submit the names of any Democrats for representation on the committees. Mr. Frisbie contended that the minority was entitled to three representatives on each committee, one Senator and two Assemblymen. Consequently the Assembly committees were named by Speaker Wadsworth on his own initiative.

Two Democratic Assemblymen, Hoey and Foley of New York, received places on the Direct Nominations Committee, and two, A. E. Smith of New York and Mr. Geoghan of Kings, were named on the committee to investigate the proposed revision of the New York City Charter. But one Democratic Assemblyman was placed on the committee to investigate the powers of the Public Service Commission, Coughlan of New York, while Jackson of Erie will represent the minority of the lower house on the committee to investigate employers' liability and the unemployed.

FIGHT CONEY TRACK PLAN.

Property Owners Oppose Use of Middle of the Avenue by Trolley Line.

Owners of property along Coney Island Avenue, in Brooklyn, are aroused over the prospect that the Board of Estimate may grant the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad Company the right to operate cars down the middle of that thoroughfare. A protest has been signed by the owners of 90 per cent. of the property along the avenue. The tracks now run on one side of the avenue.

Many Brooklyn organisations have joined the fight, among them the Manufacturers' Association and the Flatbush Taxpayers' Association. They assert that a petition which they made for a hearing before the special committee of the Board of Estimate having the matter in charge was ignored. The committee has since recommended turning the avenue over to the railroad.

TRINITY SCHOOL 'BOYS' DINE.

Fully 250 alumni of Trinity School, founded 200 years ago yesterday by Trinity Church, gathered last night in the Hotel Astor, the building which occupies the site where their old school house stood over a quarter of a century ago, to hold their bi-centennial dinner. The day was spent in celebration of the anniversary. In the morning there was a service in Trinity Church and in the afternoon a reception at the present school building, 138 West Ninety-first Street.

The Rev. W. H. Vibbert, President of the Board of Trustees, was toastmaster at the dinner, and the principal speakers were President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia and Bishop David H. Greer.

Trinity School was founded by Trinity Church, and though now an independent institution, it is still the New York Protestant Episcopal public school.

Information Regarding the Abandoned Farms.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Take the Erie or Lackawanna main lines to Elmira, N. Y. Take the old Elmira, Cortland & Northern from Elmira. Get off at Spencer. Hoof it up Halsey Valley, and take your choice. Here are farms till you can't rest. Buy almost any of them for less than what the buildings on them cost. Or, better yet, if you wish to save the carfare, get in touch with Mr. John B. Stanchfield, Elmira, N. Y. He owns hundreds of them. He will sell any of them on the same terms.

Come on, men. Welcome to our city. Come up and farm it. Be a son of the soil. Live on fresh vegetables, fresh meat, the fine chicken broth, the golden pumpkin pie, the elegant milk, with cream in it—or on it, I forget which, but bring it all along with you, because you can't get that stuff anywhere outside of a market. They raise it on farms, but not in Upper York State. Bring your wad and buy a farm. Bring your friends along, and tell them to bring their wads, too. You can all have a nice farm apiece. Bring along a bar'l of whisky for seed, because all you can raise up here is hell and a mighty poor crop of that.

REJECTS PLAN FOR WASHINGTON LIFE

POINTS OUT A COMPROMISE

Rigid Restrictions Imposed by Superintendent Hotchkiss to Insure the Safety of the Washington Life's Assets.

Supt. of Insurance William H. Hotchkiss announced yesterday his decision in the matter of the application of the Pittsburg Life and Trust Company for admission to do business in the State of New York in connection with its alleged reinsurance of the business of the Washington Life. Mr. Hotchkiss in effect denies the application on the ground that the so-called contract of reinsurance is probably invalid, and does not protect sufficiently the policy holders of the Washington Life, whose stock the Pittsburg Company acquired last September. He points the way, however, to the admission of the Pittsburg Company on a new application, to be made in conjunction with a contract of reinsurance such as the New York department can approve, and one that will fully protect the policy holders of the Washington Life Company.

Rigid restrictions are incorporated by the State Superintendent in the form which he suggests in the memorandum accompanying his decision for the amended contract of reinsurance. One is that there shall be established in the funds of the Pittsburg Company a fund to be known as the Washington Fund, which will be credited with all receipts on account of the Washington Life's policies and charged with the corresponding disbursements. The establishment of such a fund will have the effect of preserving intact to the policy holders of the Washington Life in the reinsurance not only the funds required to maintain the reserve, but also all profits that may accrue to them in the use of this money.

Mr. Hotchkiss further proposed as an essential feature of the contract of reinsurance that a sufficient amount of the assets of the Washington Company to protect its policyholders should at all times be kept in this State. This would mean, substantially, that the entire reserve against the Washington's policies must remain here. It is further provided that the company must not decrease its capital stock below $1,000,000.

It is also provided that the contract of reinsurance shall not be abrogated or modified, or the Pittsburg Company's holdings of Washington Life stock sold except with the written consent of the New York Department, and that in case of the withdrawal of the Pittsburg Company from this State, or the revocation of its certificate of authority to do business in this State, the reinsurance through the fund arrangement shall immediately terminate, the Washington Life resume its business as a going concern and the Pittsburg Company as the controlling stockholder proceed immediately to mutualize the Washington Company.

"The advantages of this plan," says Mr. Hotchkiss in his memorandum, "need no extended discussion. For the Pittsburg company it ends the present trusteeship, turns over to it a business nearly three times as large as its own, quiets present doubts as to the reinsurance contract, and removes causes for further litigation. For the policy holders of the Washington company it assures the continued protection of the New York laws, sets apart the fund which their premium payments have created, and insures them both against arbitrary treatment and possible loss; more, it creates in them the right, in certain contingencies, to mutualize the company for their own protection.

"Such an arrangement, amplified, of course, in details to cover possible contingencies, would meet with the approval of this department, and the applicant may have thirty days in which to make such an arrangement."

The memorandum of the Superintendent of Insurance contains detailed financial statements of the condition of the two companies as reported by his investigators showing totals for the Pittsburg Company of $5,170,034 and for the Washington Company of $19,024,841. The Washington Company has capital stock of $500,000 and a surplus of $581,108, and the Pittsburg Company has a capital of $1,000,000 and a surplus of $14,809. Mr. Hotchkiss also explains the facts surrounding the transfer of the controlling stock of the Washington to the Pittsburg Company.

LOVING CUP FOR MRS. BURNS

In Recognition of Her Work in Behalf of the Little Mothers.

A silver loving cup was presented to Mrs. Clarence Burns yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Plaza, in general recognition of her work in the Little Mothers' Aid Society. For the last eighteen years Mrs. Burns has been Acting Vice President of the society and its President for eight years. During that time she has done a great deal of good for the little half-grown sister-mothers of the city, and a large number of her friends, most of them members of various women's clubs, had this "get-together" party to tell her how much they appreciated it.

The affair was held in the ballroom of the Plaza, where Mrs. Charlotte B. Wilbour and Mrs. Esther Hermann assisted Mrs. Burns in receiving. Miss Florence Guernsey introduced the guests, while Mrs. S. Dickinson Lewis, as general mistress of ceremonies, dropped the guest tickets into something that looked like an idealized ballot box at the door.

The loving cup was large and beautiful, with an appropriate inscription. Mrs. Belle de Rivera, President of the City Federation of Woman's Clubs, sat on the platform. Among the guests were some of the little mothers who had each wished to contribute their share to the cup. Many flowers were sent, one big bunch of roses from Frank Tilford, who every year gives the Little Mothers a dinner.

MOTION PICTURES IN SCHOOL.

District Supt. Shiels Wants to Make Them Part of the Curriculum.

A moving-picture exhibition was held at Public School 64, on East Ninth Street, between Avenues A and B, yesterday afternoon, with 400 of the 600 teachers of the Sixth and Seventh School Districts present. The exhibition was under the direction of Albert Shiels, the District Superintendent of Schools, who, as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Censorship of Motion Pictures, had secured permission for the exhibition from the Board of Education.

"We wish to impress upon teachers and parents," said Mr. Shiels, "the positive educative value of some of the moving pictures. I hope some day to see motion pictures a regular part of the school curriculum."

The pictures yesterday showed Italian cavalry in action, the fall of Pompeii, a zoological garden at Copenhagen, whale fishing, aerial navigation by the Wright brothers, a sunset picture, and a light comedy. Besides the 400 teachers there were present several hundred parents of the school children, some of the children themselves, and representatives of the various motion picture firms.

GOT FIRST DIPLOMA AT COOPER UNION

Mrs. Robitscher Tells of the Honor Conferred on Her by Peter Cooper.

SHE WAS A WOOD ENGRAVER

May Give an Account of the First Graduation at the Fiftieth Anniversary on Tuesday.

At the fiftieth annual reception and exhibition of the Woman's Art School at Cooper Union next Tuesday evening, the most distinguished guest will be the silver-haired Mrs. Bianca B. Robitscher of 238 West 131st Street. Forty-one years ago, next Monday, Mrs. Robitscher, then a girl of twenty-two, and much embarrassed because she had a black dress on while all the other girls were wearing white ones, was lifted bodily on the stage of Cooper Union amid laughter and applause.

She had been studying in the Wood Engraving Class of Cooper Union for eight years—practically ever since her father's friend had endowed and opened the institution which now bears his name. But she had been out of the class for several months and was plying the trade she had learned there, making the old-fashioned wood cuts for Randolph's, the Methodist Book Concern, and other historic publishing houses of old New York.

On the evening of May 30, 1868, her sister told her that, for the first time in its eight years of existence, Cooper Union was going to begin giving regular diplomas with scarlet seals and Peter Cooper's own signature to its graduates.

"I earned one, but of course they won't give me one, now that I've left the class," said Bianca. But she went over to the big brown building and took an inconspicuous seat among the spectators, intending to see the other girls get their diplomas.

On the platform was Peter Cooper himself and Abram S. Hewitt, who was Secretary of the union. Behind them were seated all the girl graduates of the "Female Art Department"—as the Woman's Art School was called in those days. They all wore conventional white graduation frocks. Their friends had provided them with the customary bouquets.

"Miss Bianca Bondi," read Secretary Hewitt from the top of his alphabetically arranged list of those who were to receive diplomas. Bianca Bondi was the present Mrs. Robitscher's name in those days. You can imagine how she felt sitting down there in the audience without any white frock, or bright ribbons or flowers.

"But Mr. Hewitt kept calling my name and looking from one to another of the girls on the platform," went on Mrs. Robitscher yesterday, laughing, as she recalled the incident for the benefit of a TIMES reporter. "He grew very much embarrassed and a little testy when no one answered. I couldn't let him keep the whole graduation ceremonies at a standstill while he called my name. So I got up from my place in the audience and said, 'Here I am.'

"Then I walked down the aisle, and a gentleman picked me up and lifted me on the platform, though I was a grown girl. Then Mr. Hewitt handed me the diploma which you see hanging there on the wall. And everybody laughed and applauded."

Mrs. Robitscher's telling of the story of how she obtained the very first diploma that was ever given out in the Female Art Department at Cooper Union will probably be one of the features of the fiftieth anniversary ceremonies at the institute next Tuesday evening.

She is the daughter of Jonas Bondi, a Dresden banker, who was ruined by the fall in values of American securities during the late '50s, and in 1859 came to this country with his wife and three daughters to retrieve his fortunes. He was a highly educated man, and became editor of The Hebrew Leader. He was Peter Cooper's personal friend for many years, living at a period in this city's social history when the successful mingled freely with neighbors of more moderate means.

The Bondis lived in a brownstone house in St. Mark's Place. Mrs. Robitscher, who moved uptown almost half a century ago, took her children to see the old place downtown one Saturday in 1896, and found St. Mark's Place lined with doubledecker tenements and the home of her childhood unrecognizable. The neighbors of the Bondis in the old New York Street were Commodore Levy, Adolph Weiner, and Dr. Katzenberg, who kept a large private school. Mrs. Robitscher began studying art at Cooper Institute in April, 1860, a few months after Mr. Cooper's endowment of $100,000 caused it to be built and opened.

She was there when the famous old New York philanthropist brought the Prince of Wales to see the school. She learned wood engraving so well that she taught it, at the late Abram S. Hewitt's request, in the school for a time. She made the original engraving of Thomas Nast's "Jefferson Davis Being Captured in Woman's Clothes," exhibited at the Philadelphia Exposition, and did engraving for Fowler & Wells' "Phrenological Journal," and for other old New York publishing firms. But wood engraving was replaced by steel engraving ten years after she had learned it; and her husband, a merchant, was prospering. So she gave up her work.

"Next to my father, Peter Cooper was the noblest man I ever knew," she said yesterday. "He was homely and poorly educated. But, oh! how good he was. I made a crayon portrait of him which hung in Cooper Union for years. The Hewitt family, I think, has it now. The steel engraving which my old Cooper Institute teacher, R. O'Brien, made of Mr. Cooper, I have always kept hanging in my own bedroom."

Mrs. Robitscher has lived at the Harlem home of her son and daughters for many years. She went down to Cooper Union to see Director Dielman about next Tuesday's anniversary plans the other day. It was the first time she had visited the building in which she was educated for more than a decade.

HURTIG & SEAMON OUT.

Quit Managers' Association After Complaint That They Adapted Ryley's Title

Hurtig & Seamon, proprietors of the Hurtig & Seamon Music Hall, it was learned last night are now out of the National Association of Producing Theatrical Managers following the complaint of Thomas W. Ryley, the theatrical manager, that Hurtig & Seamon were using the title "The Girls of the Moulin Rouge" for one of their attractions.

Mr. Ryley is the producer of "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge," which ends its run this week at the Circle Theatre, to open next Tuesday at the Grand Opera House for a limited engagement. He maintained that Hurtig & Seamon's use of the name "The Girls of the Moulin Rouge" was an unwarranted infringement upon the title of his own play.

Following action by the association, Mr. Ryley, through his attorney, Louis J. Rosette, yesterday obtained an injunction from the Supreme Court restraining Hurtig & Seamon from using the title in dispute at their Music Hall in Harlem, where the attraction is now being played. The injunction papers were served upon Jules Hurtig at his offices in the Gaiety Theatre Building.

NEW THEATRES FOR SHUBERTS

100 Houses of the Inter-Mountain Circuit to Book Through Them.

Contracts were signed yesterday between J. J. Shubert, representing the Shuberts, and A. R. Pelton and F. C. Smutzer, representing the Inter-Mountain Theatrical circuit, by the terms of which the Shuberts will book all their productions next season, and those of their allies, in the one hundred theatres controlled by this circuit.

At a recent meeting the managers interested in this circuit, following the example of the Association of Western Theatre Managers, decided to adopt the Shubert open-door policy, accepting desirable attractions from all producers without reference to their affiliations. The Shuberts decided to take advantage of this new field thus opened to their offerings, and the productions of Liebler & Co. and other allies, who book through the Shubert offices.

The Inter-Mountain Theatrical Circuit has its main office in Denver, Col., and is under the direction of Messrs. Pelton and Smutzer. The circuit embraces about one hundred theatres in the cities of New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming, Montana, Utah, and California. The circuit has twenty-eight theatres in Utah alone, fourteen in Arizona, eleven in Idaho, eleven in Nevada, and corresponding numbers in the other States mentioned. Taking the Auditorium Theatre in Denver as their new furthest west base, the Shuberts are now able to book attractions to the coast by two different routes.

IN S. J. BARROWS'S MEMORY.

Oratorio Society and the Prison Association Hold Exercises.

In honor of Samuel June Barrows, before his death President-elect of the next International Peace Congress and a penologist of world-wide fame, memorial exercises were held last night in Mendelssohn Hall by the Oratorio Society of New York and the Prison Association of New York. The Chairman was Eugene Smith, President of the latter society. He told how Mr. Barrows had hurried to Oklahoma when he was informed that he could induce the Legislature to adopt for the new State a proper penal system. He had secured the establishment of a reformatory.

Mr. Smith also read a cablegram from the Russian reformer, Tchaykovsky, in whose behalf Mr. Barrow had made efforts with the Russian Governor. The cablegram sent: "Condolences, love, encouragement." The other speakers were Z. R. Brockway, William E. Benson, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Dr. Lyman Abbott, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer.

During the evening a number of selections were rendered by the New York Oratorio Society, under the leadership of Walter Damrosch. Among them was a musical setting of a hymn by Mr. Barrows on Springtime. An organ prelude, composed in his memory, by Constance Mills Herreshoff was played by Frank Sealy.

The films will arrive in New York on the Lusitania next Friday and will be shown for the first time at the American Music Hall on Monday, June 7.

The Metropolitan Opera House has been lent for next Monday night's Lambs' gambol, for the benefit of the Actors' Fund. The highest priced seats on the lower floor will be $3, and family circle prices will be $1. Boxes will be $20 and $25. The sale of seats will begin Saturday at the box office.

Moving pictures and vaudeville at popular prices will be offered at the Majestic Theatre during the Summer months, beginning next Monday afternoon. Next season regular attractions will be presented under the Shubert management.

SUNDAY THEATRES ORDINANCE INVALID

Justice Greenbaum Dismisses Suits Against the Alhambra and Hurtig & Seamon's.

Decision Holds That the Aldermanic Provision for "Sacred or Educational" Entertainments Does Not Count.

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum dismissed yesterday the suits brought by the Corporation Counsel against the Alhambra Theatre Company and Hurtig & Seamon to recover $500 in each instance as penalty for violation of the ordinance adopted by the Aldermen on Dec. 17, 1907, forbidding performances on Sundays except those of an educational or sacred character.

The defense put forward by Leon Laski, counsel for Hurtig & Seamon, that this ordinance was illegal, was sustained by the court, who, in his decision, says:

The decision goes on to say:

> The ordinance in question ostensibly forbids certain performances in the city on Sunday, and is a reiteration of the provisions of Section 277 of the Penal Code so far as it enumerates the same prohibited performances and acts.
>
> Section 277 of the Penal Code declares an offender against its provisions guilty of a misdemeanor, and provides, among other matters, in addition to the punishment therefor provided by statute, that every person violating this section is subject to a penalty of $500, which penalty goes to the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents.
>
> The ordinance above mentioned likewise undertakes to subject the offender against its provisions to a penalty of $500, but provides that the Corporation Counsel is hereby authorized in the name of the city to prosecute, sue for, and recover said penalty.

Justice Greenbaum further points out that the ordinance violates Section 44 of the charter, and Section 728 of the Penal Code.

The effect of the court's ruling, so lawyers familiar with the amusement laws say, is to leave in force again the old "blue laws" which the Aldermanic ordinance was intended to modify.

What result this will have on Coney Island and on the "sacred concerts" in Manhattan a few days will reveal.

The production will be returned to New York, where Sothern and Marlowe on Monday night commence a three weeks' combined stellar engagement at the Academy of Music in Shakespearian repertoire. The stars were individually called numerous times before the curtain.

SAYS STAGE IS IMPROVING.

Bishop Greer Tells Actors' Alliance It Is Returning to its Old Plane.

Bishop David H. Greer told the members of the Actors' Church Alliance last night in the Berkeley Theatre that the signs of the times pointed to the theatre of the future reaching the plane it occupied many years ago, before that which he called immoral and debasing crept in. He said that some things exist in the theatre of the present which should not exist, some things which are base and vulgar and suggestive.

"But should they all be closed because of this?" he asked. "No. The use of conscientious discrimination by the community, giving praise for what is good on the stage and condemnation for what is base and bad, will eventually bring about a change. By elevating the intellectual and moral tone of the community, the theatre will rise above the base and vulgar. The theatre is here as an integral part of our economy. It is destined to return to a plane which will serve its God-appointed purpose."

Several other speakers urged upon the alliance the necessity for moral uplift of the stage. A hundred or more members of the alliance were in the theatre, having gathered to attend the tenth National convention of that organization.

Dr. Pereira Mendes told the alliance members that there was never a greater need for such an organization than at present. He said that it would be well to bring about a change in the tone of plays which are being produced at present, that instead of social evils being depicted on the stage the theatre would serve a better purpose by portraying some of the horrors of war.

LAMBS GIVE TWO GAMBOLS.

Receipts of Washington Matinee and Baltimore Night Performance $14,5[illegible]

WASHINGTON, May 27.—An audience which completely filled the new National Theatre this afternoon witnessed the all-star performance of the Lambs' Club Gambol. The show made a hit, and from a financial viewpoint was also a success, the receipts, including the recent auction sale of box seats, aggregating $7,324.

The Lambs, 125 strong, reached here before noon, and led by Victor Herbert's Band, paraded from the Union Station down Pennsylvania Avenue to the playhouse. Members of the Lambs living in this city acted as an escort for the visitors. The Lambs Special left here immediately after the performance for Baltimore, where they appeared tonight.

BALTIMORE, May 27.—The Lambs' Gambol at Ford's Grand Opera House tonight was a great success. The house was crowded, notwithstanding the fact that almost from the time of the arrival of the company until after the curtain went up there was a furious downpour of rain, making it necessary to omit the intended parade. The receipts were $7,100, to which must be added $175, which sum was paid by William Lanahan for the autographed souvenir copy of the programme which was auctioned by Augustus Thomas.

YANKEES BREAK EVEN IN WESTERN SERIES

CHASE AND CREE AS STARS

Sensational Plays in Fourth Inning Prevent Chicago from Scoring—Yankees' Hits Scattered.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The New York Americans completed their first trip in the Western section of the league to-day by playing a ten-inning tie game with the White Sox, the score being 2 to 2. Play could not be continued beyond the tenth inning because the New York team had to leave for Washington on the 5:38 train.

Considering the misfortunes to the players and the bad breaks in luck, the Yankees were fortunate in breaking even in the Western series. Had luck favored them at all they would have gone Eastward with several more victories to their credit, notably two at St. Louis, when the Browns took two games on as many lucky bounders.

The Yankees outbatted the White Sox to-day, but they gathered their hits mostly at times when they were of no value in run getting. The Chicagos, as usual, made the most of their few hits, and only sharp fielding prevented them from winning this game. In the fourth inning Chase pulled down a liner with one hand that would have meant two bases at least had he missed it, and in the same inning Cree gathered in a difficult fly that was sailing for extra bases. These two great catches certainly saved a defeat for the Stallings team.

New York got lots of men on the bases, in fact had nine left there because they could not bat consecutively, and bases were easy to steal, but these got the visitors little.

Chicago scored one run in the second inning. Purtell bunted to Warhop, who threw wildly to Chase, and Purtell went on to second. Parent bunted to Warhop, too, and he tried to head off Purtell at third, but was a trifle too late. Bunting was so successful for the White Sox that Atz did likewise, and Purtell crossed the plate. Knight did not cover first base, and Atz was safe. Sullivan and Smith passed away on fly drives. Atz took a long lead off first, which drew a bad throw from Blair, and Parent tried to score from second, but Demmitt made a perfect throw of the recovered ball and nipped Parent as he was sliding home.

The game passed on to the sixth before the home plate was touched again by a base runner, and this time the Yankees got two men over. Chase, first up, was retired on his grounder to Purtell. Elberfeld hit safe into left field, and Knight cracked a safety past Purtell and Parent, sending Elberfeld to third. Knight stole second unmolested, and Austin drove a single into centre, which scored both Elberfeld and Knight. After Austin stole second Blair struck out.

The game looked like New York's until the White Sox tied it up in their half of the ninth. Dougherty took four balls and first base for his, and the swift Patsy ran around to third base on Altizer's bunt, which Elberfeld fielded to Chase. Purtell shot a single into left field, and Dougherty romped home with the tying run. Knight chucked out Parent, and Davis flied to Knight.

Chase reached second base in the tenth inning on his scratch hit to Purtell and a wild pitch, but no one could bring him home. The White Sox went out as fast as they came to bat. The score:

KING EDWARD TO J. E. MADDEN

Horseman's Congratulations on Derby Victory Bring Thanks by Cable.

A somewhat informal interchange of compliments between King Edward VII. of England and John E. Madden, the Kentucky horseman, which began when King Edward's colt Minoru won the Epsom Derby Wednesday, was closed yesterday by cable messages. Mr. Madden, who bred the American colt, Sir Martin, and retained a contingent interest in his race for the Derby, sent a message of congratulation by cable to King Edward a short time after the result of the race was received in New York, as follows:

> Permit me as the breeder of Sir Martin to add my congratulations on your Derby victory.

A response, sent immediately after the receipt of the Madden message, was delivered to Mr. Madden yesterday. It was:

> John E. Madden, New York: The King's thanks for your congratulations.
> (Signed) KNOLLYS.

Lord Knollys is Royal Secretary. Mr. Madden also received yesterday a message from his two young sons in Washington, condoling with him for Sir Martin's accident in the Derby, causing his defeat. This was:

> Just tough racing luck. We will try to do it next year. (Signed) JOE and EDWARD.

GENTLEMAN JOCKEY RODE PLUCKY RACE

Mr. Harper, Out of Saddle, Regained Seat on Galloping Horse and Finished Second.

MOORISH KING WINS CUP

Mr. Tucker's Mount Led Throughout on a Muddy Track and Won Feature Event on Belmont Park Course.

The most enlivening incidents of the racing at Belmont Park yesterday cropped up in the two events that brought out gentlemen jockeys, the contest for the Amateur Cup and the Meadowbrook Hunters' Steeplechase. In the cross-country event Fletcher Harper, one of three amateur cross-country riders who had mounts, was awarded for a fine exhibition of pluck and persistence on Mr. Chetland's Fincastle by getting up to fight the race out with a professional jockey at the end, though the professional on pretty Michal, was the winner. Mr. Harper's mount blundered on the far side of the course, in the first round of the field, and almost went down in landing.

Mr. Harper was pitched out of the saddle, but though he was out of sight behind his horse, clung to the hunting saddle, in Comanche style, and with Fincastle galloping on after the other horses, struggled for nearly a furlong to regain his seat and finally succeeded, though it was about another furlong before he got his feet into the stirrups again.

Fincastle then was last and far out of the race, but Mr. Harper persevered, and in the mile and a half left of the race, finally worked his way through the rear guard and actually got so close to Pretty Michal, the favorite and winner as to cause the professional jockey, Huppe, to hustle the horse out to win, Fincastle finishing second. The race was for qualified hunters, and the well schooled mare that won made the pace from end to end, while Oaklawn, after running second most of the distance, finished last.

For the Amateur Cup the competition was confined to horses ridden by gentlemen jockeys, and four horses of seven entries went to the post, the Tucker brothers having two mounts, Johnny on King Sol and Evans on Moorish King. Mark Anthony II., which started favorite, was ridden by Mr. Carman and Footpad by Mr. Fleischmann, both interested in the ownership of the horses. Moorish King, carrying the colors of F. A. Forsythe, broke out in front in the first strides and after several challenges by Footpad, finally shook off that horse and won cleverly with Footpad second and King Sol third.

In the Jockey Club Weight for Age Race, at one mile and a furlong, James R. Keene's great colt Celt, the star of the stable in America, returned to racing with a hollow triumph over the two very moderate animals that opposed him, Celt galloping out in front all the way and winning in a canter, at odds of 30 to 1 on. The race was a preparation for the Brooklyn Handicap, in which Celt is the top weight, and which will be run next Thursday. The summaries:

B. Joel's Dean Swift. W. H. Walker's White Eagle was second and L. de Rothschild's Santo Strato third. Six horses ran. August Belmont's Fair Play II. failed to get a place. Written Exclusively for THE NEW YORK TIMES
By EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., May 27.—The mud that I encountered six miles east of Aurora was of a new variety—black, greasy, and very sticky. It required all my strength to get through, and I finally arrived at Aurora at 9 P. M.

This morning, after a refreshing sleep and a good breakfast, I started for Denver. About fifty persons awaited me at the hotel, and at 8:30 A. M. I was on the way with the crowd growing larger and larger. My one escort who walked with me from Hugo, 105 miles, was in good condition and was of valuable assistance in keeping the crowd from stepping on my feet. The police finally came to my rescue, and did excellent work keeping the ever-increasing crowd back.

My entrance into the business section of Denver created a great deal of enthusiasm. I was escorted by members of The Denver Post and business men to a balcony, where I addressed the great mass of people, numbering about 15,000.

I walked seven miles to-day, and am resting, as the excitement wearied me. I will start again at midnight, making a long walk if it does not storm.

EDWARD PAYSON WESTON.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., May 27.—Although yesterday was one of the hardest day of his tour, owing to mud and rain, Edward Payson Weston made his way into Denver to-day, and was royally welcomed by thousands of delighted spectators, who cheered the venerable pedestrian to the echo.

Gov. Shafroth was on the steps of the Capitol watching for him, and Weston doffed his cap and bowed, the Governor responding, but Weston did not stop. He hurried on downtown, smiling, lifting his hat, and bowing to the thousands who welcomed him, and was followed by hundreds who strove in vain to imitate his gait.

Weston has but one vulnerable spot, his heels, which he ever guards from danger.

"Keep away from my heels," he would shout, as he swung down Capitol Hill, amid the crowds which threatened to engulf him. "If you injure a tendon there I am a goner," he cried, and immediately his police escort of three officers would clear the way for him.

He met many old friends here and spent the day looking over the city with them.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE MEETS.

German Turners Receive Silver Cup as Victors in Gymnastics.

BERLIN, May 27.—The International Committee of the Olympic games met this afternoon under the Presidency of Baron de Coubertin to make arrangements for the games in 1910. The Silver Cup, offered by the Touring Club of France for the best exhibition of gymnastics at the recent games in London, was presented to the German turners. The presentation of diplomas awarded to Dr. Charcot, the French explorer; Count Zeppelin, the German aeronaut, and Col. Balck of Sweden also took place, Dr. Charcot, who is at present on an expedition to the South Pole, receiving his diploma by proxy.

Among the delegates present were Allison V. Armour of New York and Prof. W. M. Sloane of Columbia University, Lord Desborough and the Rev. R. S. de Courcy Laffan of England, Count Henri de Baillet-Latour of Belgium, Count Brunetta d'Usseaux of Italy, and the representatives of several other countries.

Baron de Coubertin made a speech in which he eulogized the Crown Prince as a patron of sports. The Crown Prince, who sent a representative to the meeting, will entertain the delegates at dinner next Tuesday evening. The conference will continue until Wednesday. Extensive festivities have been arranged in honor of the members of the committee, who will be present on Saturday at the annual Spring parade as the Emperor's guests.

Marathon Runners Training Hard.

Spurred on by the announcement that a special prize will be given to the runners who beat the record made by St. Yves, the men entered for the Marathon race which will be held at the Brighton Beach Arena next Monday worked like Trojans yesterday in an endeavor to increase their speed.

During the early part of the week they confined themselves to long, slow journeys. Yesterday all their efforts were directed at accumulating speed. All day long they were out along the Coney Island Boulevard sprinting and reeling off fast miles.

Tom Longboat, the great Indian runner, said he was never in better condition. Fred Appleby, the world's greatest fifteen-miler, stated that he was sure he would go the entire journey in fast time. Cibot, Orphee, Red Hawk, Bob Allen, Tom Morrissey, Pat White, Carvajal, the Cuban, and Jack Hildreth also said they were in condition to travel the course in fast time.

New York Post Office Clerks' Games.

The feature event of the New York Post Office, Clerks' Association games, next Sunday, at Celtic Park, will be a 300-yard match race between Harry Hillman of the N. Y. A. C., Lawson Robertson of the I. A. A. C., and Roy Dorland of the Pastimes. Champions will compete in every event, beginning with Ekman, Archer, Stephenson, Northridge, and other stars in the 100-yard dash; Robbins, McEntee, and Edwards in the 300 yards. Harry Gissing, the conqueror of Melville Sheppard in the 1,000-yard championship, will start in his favorite event. Tom Collins will give liberal handicaps to such sterling distancers as Muller, Malone, and Gilbert in the 3-mile race. Martin Sheridan will compete in both the discus and hop, step and jump events. Matt MacGrath, Duncan, and Hines are also entered for the discus.

Cross and Erne to Go Ten Rounds.

One of the most interesting attractions scheduled during the season is on the card for to-night at the Fairmont Athletic Club. Leach Cross, the east side dentist, will box ten rounds with Young Erne of Philadelphia. Young Erne comes over from the Quaker City with a long string of victories behind him. He has beaten such top-notchers as Abe Attell, Johnny Summers, Tommy Murphy, and went twenty rounds with Freddie Welch, the English lightweight champion. Erne and Cross boxed six rounds in Philadelphia a few months ago without satisfying their respective followers as to which was the better man.

AUTO TRADE TICKET HAS BEEN NOMINATED

Only Three Changes to be Made in the Board of Directors.

CHALFONT QUITS A. L. A. M.

Will Take High Position with Packard Motor Car Company—Other Automobile News.

The official ticket for the New York Automobile Trade Association has been nominated. Few changes are made from last year, only three new names appearing on the ballot. The Board of Directors received the report of the Nominating Committee yesterday, and there will not be another meeting of the board until June 1. The committee recommended the following members of the association to serve the coming year:

Gen. John T. Cutting, Oldsmobile Company; E. S. Partridge, Wyckoff, Church & Partridge; G. W. Bennett, White Company; Richard Newton, Atlantic Motor Car Company; C. Andrade, Jr., R. M. Owen & Co.; C. P. Skinner, Mitchell Motor Car Company; Frank Eveland, A. G. Spalding Brothers' Company; William Haradon, Victor Auto Storage Company; Peter Fogarty, George C. Johns; H. Fosdick, The Hol-Tan Company; W. W. Burke, Mora Motor Car Company; A. J. Interreiden, Warner Instrument Company.

The three men recommended as new members of the Board of Directors are Harry Fosdick, W. W. Burke, and A. J. Interreiden. They will undoubtedly meet with the approval of all the members of the association. No opposition to the ticket is anticipated.

Seven new members were taken into the association by the Board of Directors. The new members are the E. R. Thomas Motor Company, Knox Automobile Company, Poertner Motor Car Company, Mora Motor Car Company, Babcock Electric Carriage Company, Louis S. Duquet, auto accessories, and Cherry Auto Cab Company, garage.

An important change is soon to take place in the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers. E. P. Chalfont, General Manager, has resigned, to take a high position with the Packard Motor Car Company. Mr. Chalfont said yesterday that his resignation does not go into effect for thirty days. It is reported that he will be the General Sales Manager of the Packard Company. Mr. Chalfont's successor has not been selected. M. J. Budlong, Mr. Chalfont's predecessor as General Manager of the A. L. A. M., resigned to become the President of the Packard Company. Mr. Chalfont has been a prominent figure in automobile affairs for many years.

A. R. Pardington, Chairman of the automobile division of the Queensboro Bridge celebration, has written to THE TIMES asking that it be made plain that a change has been made in the date for holding the motor hunt, which is to be a part of the official bridge opening programme. The date was originally set for June 15, but it was changed to June 17. A provision has also been made for the postponement of the event from June 17 to June 19.

The first of the automobiles entered in the New York to Seattle contest arrived in New York yesterday. The car is a six cylinder Acme, stock model, 45-50 horse power, and was driven from the factory at Reading, Penn., to the Cordner Motor Car Company's salesrooms in Times Square by George Salsman, who will drive in the run to Seattle. The car is on exhibition in the Cordner windows, and several hundred persons viewed it yesterday. The car is equipped with extra large gasoline and oil tanks, and has an especially high clearance to overcome the obstacles of the Western roads. It is a racy looking machine.

Two Wins for Duryea Horses.

PARIS, May 27.—Mr. Duryea's Rose Noble won the Prix Bois Rouad at Longchamps to-day, and W. K. Vanderbilt's San Pedro was third in this event. Mr. Vanderbilt's Cornstalk ran in the Prix Fould, but did not get a place. The Prix Ville d'Avray was won by H. B. Duryea's Wanda III.

NEWARK ENDURANCE RUN.

Triple Tie for One Cup—Protest in Another Event.

NEWARK, N. J., May 27.—Award of trophies in the ten-hour automobile endurance run for amateur drivers of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club, held over a course leading from Newark to-day, was held up by a triple tie in one class and a protest in another.

Thirteen of the twenty-one cars made perfect scores, but the interest centred in three special trophies offered for cars finishing each of the two rounds the closest to the scheduled time. W. Clive Crosby's 45 horse power Marmon touring car, Frank L. Kramer's 45 horse power Jackson, and F. A. Croselmire's 40 horse power Locomobile crossed the tape on time to the second and without penalization, and qualified for The Sunday Call Trophy. H. A. Bonnell's 28 horse power Maxwell performed the same feat in the class for cars of intermediate power, thus winning President Crosby's cup, but the award was held up by a protest, because Mr. Bonnell, it is alleged, used field glasses in watching the official clock as his car approached the tape. Mr. Bonnell also won the special Maxwell Challenge Trophy. D. G. Holmes's 20 horse power Reo captured the Motor Record Cup for best performance in the low-powered class, though it was penalized.

The Race Committee will meet to-morrow morning to act on the protests, and also to decide how the triple tie for The Sunday Call Cup shall be broken.

The race was enlivened by a fire at the clubhouse in Newark, which threatened for a time two of the contesting cars, and by an accident to a Mitchell roadster driven by D. J. Scott, who ran into a telephone pole, due to skidding. E. R. Carter of Tompkinsville, S. I., the observer, sustained a fractured collarbone.

The course, leading from Newark to Hackettstown, N. J., and back, a distance of ninety-six miles, over which two laps were made, was very slippery, owing to rain, and there were many minor accidents.

The following drivers will receive club cups for making perfect scores within the time allowances:

H. A. Bonnell, 28 horse power Maxwell; M. R. Sherrerd, 28 horse power Maxwell; Andrew Heuschkell, 28 horse power Maxwell; W. L. Ferguson, 30 horse power Chalmers-Detroit; F. G. Goeken, 25 horse power Crawford; F. A. Croselmire, 40 horse power Locomobile; W. H. Cornwell, 35 horse power Oldsmobile; C. E. Callard, 45 horse power Marmon; R. S. Ward, 35 horse power De Dietrich; Frank L. Kramer, 45 horse power Jackson; W. C. Crosby, 45 horse power Marmon; W. E. Shuttleworth, 50 horse power Haynes; A. N. Eisele, 35 horse power Fiat.

WILKESBARRE HILL CLIMB.

Rain Prevents Autoists Practicing—Trials for To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., May 27.—Chairman George F. Lee of the Contest Committee of the Wilkesbarre Automobile Club announced to-day that the additional entries received for the hill climb here on Monday are as follows, and that the entry list is now closed:

Forty horse power Middleby, driven by E. Hume; three 40-50 horse power Mathesons, Charles L. Baker, Joseph Parkin, Jr., and Charles Basle, drivers; 30 horse power Mitchell, W. M. Cram, driver; 60 horse power Simplex, Fred Molt, driver; 40 horse power Knox, Fred Bleacher, driver, and 30 horse power Knox, Robert Johnson, driver. Indian motor cycles were entered in the two events by William H. Wray, Charles Anderson, and Jesse Arndt and Excelsior cycles by Stanley Kellogg.

To-day's steady rain prevented the cars which are now here practicing on the hill, but it put the course in better shape than it has been and will make it fast for the trials to-morrow. The 130 horse power Benz is expected to-morrow. The Fiat-Cyclone is now here. They will compete in the free-for-all event.

(a) To be sold for cash at not less than 120, excepting that $1,000,000 thereof (reserved for the exclusive benefit of the employees of the Companies) may be allotted from time to time by the Directors of the United Dry Goods Companies at a price not less than par on such terms and conditions as shall encourage and enable the employees to participate in the profits of the business.

(b) To be exchanged for the Preferred Stocks of The Associated Merchants Company on equitable terms.

No stock other than that above mentioned can be authorized without consent of stockholders, as provided in the certificate of incorporation or by-laws, and no bonds can be issued except upon the written consent of three-fourths of the holders of each class of the company's stock, or by a vote of the stockholders holding at least three-fourths of the amount of each class of the capital stock of the corporation represented at a meeting specially called for that purpose or an annual meeting.

Temporary certificates will be issued pending the delivery of the definitive stock.

Application will be made to list the stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

J. P. MORGAN & CO.

MESSRS. J. P. MORGAN & CO.:

Dear Sirs—

The United Dry Goods Companies, incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware, has issued at par $20,000,000 Capital Stock, divided into $10,000,000 Common Stock and $10,000,000 Seven per cent. cumulative Preferred Stock, having a preference as to both principal and dividends. It has acquired from me in exchange for $8,650,000 of its Common Stock $8,650,000 of the Capital Stock of The Associated Merchants Company out of a total issued Capital Stock of $17,250,000. This gives the United Dry Goods Companies control of The Associated Merchants Company, which has control of the following companies:

Wholesale: THE H. B. CLAFLIN COMPANY.
Retail: JAMES McCREERY & COMPANY, 34th Street, New York.
JAMES McCREERY & COMPANY, 23d Street, New York.
O'NEILL-ADAMS CO., two blocks on Sixth avenue, 20th to 22d Streets, New York.
STEWART & CO., OF BALTIMORE.
J. N. ADAM & CO., OF BUFFALO, AND FOUR-FIFTHS OF THE COMMON STOCK OF
C. G. GUNTHER'S SONS (FURS), NEW YORK.

The market value of The Associated Merchants Company's stocks is more than par, and the dividends on the $8,650,000 of its stocks at current rates exceed the dividend requirements on the $10,000,000 Preferred Stock of the United Dry Goods Companies.

THE UNITED DRY GOODS COMPANIES has bought outright from me four large stores, to wit:

HAHNE & COMPANY, of Newark.
POWERS MERCANTILE COMPANY, of Minneapolis.
THE WILLIAM HENGERER COMPANY, of Buffalo, and STEWART DRY GOODS COMPANY, of Louisville.

The available income of these four stores alone, disregarding all other sources of income, exceeds the dividend requirements on the $10,000,000 Preferred Stock of the United Dry Goods Companies.

In the acquisition of the entire Capital Stock of these stores the United Dry Goods Companies has paid current market values for their tangible assets as appraised by independent experts, without any allowance for their exceedingly valuable good-will.

The merchandise has been taken at figures somewhat below wholesale prices.

Upon the opening of its books the balance sheet of the United Dry Goods Companies will stand in substance approximately thus:

$ 8,650,000.	Capital Stock of The Associated Merchants' Company	Common Stock	$10,000,000
		Preferred Stock	10,000,000
10,000,000	Tangible Assets of Hahne & Company, Powers Mercantile Company, The William Hengerer Company and the Stewart Dry Goods Company.
1,350,000	Cash

In the tangible assets is included the entire capital stock of Hahne Realty Company. This stock represents the store property of Hahne & Company, and is appraised subject to a mortgage of $1,250,000 on said property. It is taken over by the United Dry Goods Companies at the net value so determined. This mortgage can be paid in 1911, two years hence, should the Company so desire.

There is no net indebtedness whatsoever against any other of the tangible assets aforesaid, an amount of cash exactly equal to the indebtedness of each company conveyed being left in the treasury of each company to cancel its indebtedness. This cash is additional to the tangible assets of $10,000,000, and is also additional to the $1,350,000 cash in the treasury of the United Dry Goods Companies.

The fact that the United Dry Goods Companies has no net indebtedness, has assets at market value more than double in amount the face value of its Preferred Stock, and has from various and separate sources an income which in bad times would be more than double its preferred dividend requirements, renders its Preferred Stock exceptionally safe as to principal and as to dividends.

In this relation it is interesting to note the dividend record of The H. B. Claflin Company, which was incorporated in 1890, and that of The Associated Merchants Company, incorporated in 1901.

The H. B. Claflin Company has paid dividends on all classes of its stock from organization to date, covering the three panic periods of 1892-1894, 1903-1904, and 1907-1908, always full fixed dividends on its Preferred Stocks and dividends at a rate never less than six per cent. on its Common Stock. The total dividends on its Common Stock amount to 139 per cent. The present dividend rate of eight per cent. has not been changed in ten years.

The Associated Merchants Company has paid regular dividends on its Preferred Stocks from organization to date, and numerous additional dividends beyond those provided for in the organization of the Company. After accumulating a safe surplus during the first year and a half of its corporate existence, it began dividends on its Common Stock December, 1902, at the rate of Seven per cent. per annum. It has maintained this rate to date, and has paid frequent extra dividends. Its average distribution for the last six years has been more than Eight per cent. per annum. In an experience covering more than eighteen years in one case and eight years in the other, neither company has ever needed to modify in the least the statements or promises made in its prospectus.

No change is proposed in the management of the affiliated companies. The active heads of the various companies will continue their customary work. I will continue to be President of The H. B. Claflin Company and of The Associated Merchants Company and of the United Dry Goods Companies if the stockholders so wish.

I enclose copies of the Certificate of Incorporation and of the By-Laws of the United Dry Goods Companies.

JOHN CLAFLIN.

HASKINS & SELLS,
Certified Public Accountants,

30 Broad Street, New York, May 24, 1909.

MESSRS. J. P. MORGAN & COMPANY,
3 Broad Street, New York City.

Gentlemen:—

In accordance with our arrangement with you we have made an examination of the books, records, and accounts of the following named companies:

HAHNE & COMPANY., Newark, New Jersey,
THE WM. HENGERER COMPANY, Buffalo, N. Y.,
THE STEWART DRY GOODS COMPANY, Louisville, Ky.,
POWERS MERCANTILE COMPANY, Minneapolis, Minn.

The general purpose of our examination was to determine the value as of April 30, 1909, of the assets of these companies in respect to real estate, buildings, store fixtures, delivery equipment, and merchandise on hand, and to study and report on the organization.

From our examination of the various properties and of the books and records relating thereto, and from the appraisals and estimates which have been furnished us by competent real estate dealers and engineers, we are of the opinion that the value of the real estate and buildings is conservatively stated. We are also of the opinion that the store fixtures and delivery equipment are conservatively valued.

Regarding the merchandise, from the tests made by us in several departments at each of the stores we estimate that the trading stock is undervalued below wholesale cost from 2% to 4%, and that 3% is a conservative estimate of such undervaluations of the stock as a whole.

It was noted that while two of the companies carry certain of their miscellaneous store supplies as assets, as a general rule all purchases of this nature, including fuel and feed, and in some cases insurance premiums and interest paid in advance, were charged to expenses as incurred. We are of the opinion that a detailed audit of the accounts of each of the companies would show assets of this nature on hand which are not reflected in the statement attached hereto, amounting in the aggregate to $75,000 or more. This amount, in connection with the excess of the cost of the merchandise on hand over the book cost heretofore referred to, makes total additional assets of approximately $200,000, which, in our opinion, might reasonably be added to the total of the assets shown by our statement to determine the real value of such assets.

All of the companies have a very large good will value which is not included in the statement of the assets.

The loss from uncollectible accounts has been very low, averaging only a small fraction of one per cent. of the amount of the total sales.

A uniform system of periodical reports is maintained in all of the department stores controlled by Mr. Claflin. These reports show the result of operation in each department of each store by days, weeks, months, seasons, etc., and its aid to the executives and consequent effect on the results of operation can scarcely be overestimated. Such a system enables comparisons to be made which are of the highest value in determining and locating specifically the primary sources of any variation in profit or loss.

A system of reports is also maintained in each store which shows at once the nature and amount in detail of all slow-moving stock in each department. It appeared to us that these reports were receiving consideration and attention by the executives, and only about 3% of slow-moving stock existed in the stores examined.

The management and organization of the business throughout impressed us as being capable and efficient, with a spirit of earnest co-operation existing between the general officers, the store managers and all other employees. We were particularly impressed with the interest taken by the managers of the different stores in the success of the business as a whole, and the prosperity of their own store in particular.

In the various companies controlled by Mr. Claflin, the general supervising organization consists of Mr. Claflin, at its head, Mr. Louis Stewart, his principal associate and adviser, Mr. John C. Eames, Vice-President, of The H. B. Claflin Company, and about a dozen of most able executives among the store managers. These gentlemen comprise a board of council which considers and decides upon all important questions involving policy, management and operation of the various stores controlled. Few organizations possess so capable a managing force or give so great attention to the training of their employees, with a view to their future usefulness. This policy assures in large measure the continuance of successful operation of the business.

The system of checks and reports maintained throughout is thorough and complete, and the reports are advantageously used in the administration of the business. The results of each store and each department therein are compared with the results of the other stores and the same departments in such stores. The employees who show themselves most efficient are moved forward from department to department, and from store to store, and the inefficient are relieved. The organization is strengthened by this system and a spirit of interest among the employees is developed.

The men charged with the administration in the various stores impress us as being broad-minded business men, capable of successfully assuming larger responsibilities.

Yours truly,
HASKINS & SELLS,

HIGHER FEDERAL BOND RATE?

National City Bank Thinks Future Interest May Go Above 2 Per Cent.

The National City Bank, in its June circular, says that a modification of the practice of the Government in respect to the issuance of bonds is to be expected along the line of an increase in the interest rate above the 2 per cent. rate now paid on the bulk of the country's bonds.

It suggests in connection with this that in the event of the issue of bonds bearing higher rates of interest steps would undoubtedly be taken to protect the position of the 2 per cent. bonds already outstanding. On this score the City Bank says:

> Our advices from Washington are to the effect that in the event of legislation in the Tariff act authorizing the sale of bonds bearing a greater rate of interest than 2 per cent. the old issues of 2s will not be permitted to suffer in the change. The consols and the Panamas have both resulted in profit to the Treasury.
> Under the act of March 14, 1900, there were refunded into 2 per cent. bonds $646,250,150 United States bonds bearing 3, 4, and 5 per cent. on terms which resulted in a net profit to the Government of $16,551,037.54, while the $84,631,980 outstanding Panamas have been sold at prices ranging from 102.2778 to 104.036. It has been estimated that the premium accounts on United States bonds owned by National banks show an aggregate depreciation of as much as $30,000,000, and it is understood that the office of the Controller of the Currency has been rather leniently inclined so far as requiring these losses to be written off as promptly as is customary in other accounts.
> This disposition to refrain for the time being from a drastic requirement is based upon the conviction that the 2s will sooner or later bring a higher price in the market than that at which they are now quoted. This is likely to be attained if legislative changes leave the 2s in a class by themselves, with special circulation privileges and a limit reached as to the ability or intention respecting further issues.
> In order to preserve the integrity of the 2s and to prevent them from declining below par, thus impairing the Government credit, now at its highest, Congress might even consider the advisability of further reducing the circulation tax. It could well stand a considerable reduction, for the Government now collects from the banks about six times more than all requirements connected with National bank administration call for. Last year the banks paid as tax on circulation $3,090,811. The expenditures chargeable to this fund were $527,071. Since the beginning of the National banking system taxes paid have aggregated $180,472,155.

There is a probability, the bank says, of a further call on the banks for part of the Government's deposits. Should this result in the withdrawal of Government deposits from some or all of the special depositories, many of which purchased Government bonds at higher than present prices, the banks should remember, the circular says, that if they expect to get deposits from the Government when money is tight they must also be prepared to give up the deposits when money is easy, as it is now.

"In other words," the City Bank says, "the idea of Treasury interference in the money market at all is based upon the well-known inelasticity of our currency; and if banks are given to asking for such relief at times when rates are high and currency is scarce they ought not to complain if they are called on to return money to the Treasury when money is plentiful and rates are low."

In reference to the possible issue of bonds or certificates of indebtedness in the near future, which would probably lead to a large increase in National bank circulation, the City Bank says that any further addition to banknote circulation at this time would enlarge and accelerate the gold export movement now under way and would in general introduce a disturbing element into a situation now fairly satisfatcory.

SHARP RISE IN WABASH

Familiar Reports of Buying for Control Accompany Move—Steel's New Record—French Bank Gains Gold.

Although busines son the Stock Exchange yesterday was duller than on Wednesday, transactions falling off over 100,000 shares, the course of prices presented quite a different aspect. Where the inactivity invited realizing sales, and even short selling, in sufficient quantity to depress quotatons on the previous day, the greater dullness yesterday seemed to bring about opposite movements, and the market closed substantially higher. Features of interest were the Wabash issues, the preferred stock rising 2⅝ points and the common 1⅛ in connection with stories that the control of this property was being sought by outside interests. Probably no railroad property whose shares are dealt in on the Stock Exchange has been the subject of so many "control" stories as the Wabash, but speculators have finally come to look upon them in spite of repeated disappointments as possible repetition of the story of the little boy who cried "Wolf!" On this theory they are always willing to buy Wabash issues upon the circulation of a story of this kind. United States Steel, after a day of rest, went after its high record again and succeeded in raising the figure another notch, but other Steel stocks, including the Republic shares and Sloss-Sheffield, were also very strong, reflecting the reports which are now current and which have much to substantiate them that the month of May has been particularly prolific in orders, so much so that the Steel Corporation, at least, will have placed upon its books a greater tonnage than has been received by it in any month for a number of years. Erie stocks were favorably affected by the news that the road is now in receipt of such excellent earnings as to permit its management to abandon the emergency plan formed some time ago and to meet its interest obligations in the usual fashion. The recovery of this property from the depression has been both remarkable in itself, and, in a way, typical of the situation as a whole. The road's earnings for April increased $378,000, making a gain in operating revenue for the ten months of the present fiscal year of over $3,371,000. The Reading's earnings for April enlarged $206,000.

Money markets were without feature. Foreign exchange quotations were very little changed, and the gold movement is still in abeyance. The Bank of France, reporting for the week, noted a gain of above $5,000,000in gold, while the Bank of England returned a decrease in this item and a reduction in the proportion of reserve to liabilities from 49.50 last week to 47.84.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—The movements of prices on the local board to-day were rather confused, although the volume of dealings was comparatively restricted. Lake Superior fell to 29 before the movement was checked. Rapid Transit also receded further, going below 32 in the first hour's dealings. United Gas Improvement advanced to 88 without much effort, while the warrants also hardened. Keystone Telephone was still firm, as were the bonds. Lehigh Valley was comparatively inactive to-day, and followed the fluctuations of Reading. The market closed irregular.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Retirement of Shorts.

From all appearances a fairly good-sized short interest had accumulated in the stock market in the first three days of the week, and brokers said that attempts to cover yesterday again appeared to reveal somewhat of a scarcity in the supply of stocks, which, in part, accounted for the recovery in prices. One experienced operator summed up the situation in this manner: "From time to time, for one reason or another, some individual or party liquidates a block of stock, and while such selling is under way the price of the particular issue sags, and if it happens to be one of the leaders, has a sentimental influence on the rest of the list. As soon as such liquidation is over the market again presents a strong front. There is not much danger while the liquidation is of a sporadic or isolated nature, such as we have had lately, and I do not know of any reason why such movements should become general. Until they do, it would not appear that the bears will be able to make much headway." It was generally conceded that there were no signs of renewed liquidation in the market yesterday.

Erie Shares Responsive.

From the start, the Erie shares were one of the strongest features of the market, being favorably influenced by the announcement of the sale of about $5,000,000 short term notes by the company and the added intimation in the official statement published that the plan for the issue of $30,000,000 collateral trust bonds in connection with the coupon funding scheme was likely to be abandoned. Wall Street heard reports to this effect two weeks ago, and the official announcement bearing thereon served to dissipate any doubts which might have been entertained regarding the matter. No one supposes that the sale of notes just made will complete the Erie's financing, and the assumption, of course, is that in due time a further issue of bonds, probably of the convertible class, will be made. It is a matter of common observation that bond sales are facilitated by strength in the stocks of the issuing corporation, though in the case of Erie yesterday the stocks were, of course, helped by the rather optimistic utterances coming from the management.

St Louis Southwestern Dividend Talk

St. Louis Southwestern preferred made a new high record for the movement, showing an advance at one time extending to nearly 2 points, and reaching 68. In connection with the rise, reports were current that the stock would be placed on a 4 per cent. dividend basis before the end of the calendar year. The large increase in the company's earnings during the current fiscal year lent color to the dividend idea, and some brokers went so far as to say that they had positive information from members of the board that the intention was to declare an initial dividend on the stock next Fall. It might be supposed that Wall Street would not become greatly excited over an event set for so far in the future, but the comparatively high level reached by most stocks has led to pretty close scrutiny of the list, with a view to picking out such issues as might be expected to benefit by developments even as far removed as that. Earning capacity, it appears, is beginning closely to engage the attention of speculators willing to take a chance of dividend possibilities turning into actualities if they find that the income of the concern would seem to warrant initial disbursements to shareholders in the case of non-dividend-paying stocks, or larger disbursements in the case of those already on the dividend list.

Rise in Wabash.

Another Gould stock which was especially strong was Wabash, the preferred shares moving up nearly two points. Some time ago when Wabash preferred was selling in the low 40s, a banker affiliated with the property remarked: "The stock is in such a position that the pessimists would be sure to buy it at 30 or under, while the optimists would be just as sure to buy it at 50 or over." Since that time there seems to have developed a large crop of optimists, and they are buying it in the 50s. To help things along a bit, the old story was again heard that the Wabash would be turned over to the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, though the possibilities of a straightening out of the Wheeling & Lake Erie and the Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal difficulties within the next few months, some thought, would tend to help Wabash, sentimentally at least, and possibly in some other way.

Strength in Metal Group.

The metal shares, taken as a group, were consistently strong. United States Steel common again crept a shade above its previous high figure, but it was in the minor steel stocks that the most pronounced advances were made, Republic preferred rising over 3 points, Bethlehem preferred over 1⅛, and Sloss-Sheffield nearly 3. A further gain of 4½ per cent. was recorded in National Lead preferred, for the same reason as was operative in this stock on the previous day. Authorities in the steel trade continued to talk in a most optimistic veing concerning the outlook, while the leading copper-selling agency was reported to have practically withdrawn from the market at current quotations. This had a bullish influence on Amalgamated, which advanced about a point.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Approaching Holidays Check Fresh Commitments in London.

LONDON, May 27.—Money was in strong demand and restricted supply on the market to-day. Discounts were firm on the monetary outlook.

On the Stock Exchange the satisfactory completion of a heavy settlement put dealers in a good mood, but the approaching holidays checked fresh ventures. Kaffirs, after an easy opening, recovered sharply. Copper shares gained in strength with the metal, but British and foreign securities were neglected and easy. Paris was inclined to sell.

American securities opened dull, with prices showing mixed fractional changes. They ruled uninteresting until midday, when prices were unchanged to ⅝ over the New York closing. In the afternoon Erie and United States Steel received attention, but New York did little, and after narrow business the market closed steady, but lifeless.

Bar silver quiet, 24⅛d per ounce.

Money, 1½@2¼ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1 9-16@1⅝ per cent.; for three months' bills 1 9-16@1⅝ per cent.

PARIS, May 27.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were irregular.

Exchange on London, 25f 17½c for checks.

BERLIN, May 27.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were firm, especially copper shares on good American reports.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Crop News Bad, but Prices Sag—Closes 12 Points Down to 2 Up.

Cotton, after opening higher, yesterday sagged off under realizing for over the holidays, closing steady, net 12 points lower to 2 points higher. Near months were relatively easy, late positions being sustained by continued bullish weather and crop news.

The market started steady at an advance of 3@8 points. While it seemed that adequate provision had been made for additional May tenders, and the notices circulating were promptly stopped, the near months led the downward movement. Heavy precipitation was reported in sections which had been complaining of excess moisture, and complaints were reaching the market all day that replanting was being rendered necessary in the lowlands of the Mississippi Valley.

All three of the big markets will be closed on Saturday and Monday, while Liverpool will remain closed until Tuesday morning.

"Swept by Ocean Breezes"
Manhattan Beach
A high-class residential development, with SEWERS installed.
LOTS AND PLOTS AT PRIVATE SALE.
CONCERNING SEWERS—It is a very important item both for your health and for the more quickly furthering a development—MANHATTAN BEACH ESTATES has the finest of SEWER SYSTEMS INSTALLED—if you are buying for a home the SEWERS are in ready for you to connect to the house you build—if you are buying for SPECULATION, looking for a rise, the SEWERS are in—for the man you sell to, ready for him to connect to the house he builds—and there is NO ASSESSMENT for them—visit the property and ask to see our PERFECT SEWER SYSTEM.
Trains run every 10 minutes from New York City Hall (Brooklyn Bridge).
No running to catch them.
Sidewalks are also an important feature of any development, whether you are buying to live there—or for speculation, and equally so is transportation. There are surely times when it is going to rain—and you want something besides mud or loam to walk through. Then again as to roads—study carefully if they are good macadam roads, heavy enough for carriages, moving vans and automobiles to go over in any kind of weather. Judge the value of this property that you are thinking of buying from ALL these conditions, and remember what they are, SEWERS, SIDEWALKS, CURBS, GOOD SOLID MACADAM ROADS, WATER AND LIGHTING MAINS READY TO CONNECT, AND TRANSPORTATION. Manhattan Beach Estates Development has ALL of these, and remember, NO ASSESSMENT for any of them. They are ALL put in for you.
Remember, no assessments for sewers, sidewalks, curbing and grading.

NEW COMPANY FOR LACKAWANNA COAL

Directors Expected to Favor Giving Beneficial Certificates to Stockholders.

ACTION DELAYED YESTERDAY

Lawyers for the Railroad Unable to Complete Final Details in Time for Board's Meeting.

The Directors of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railway held their monthly meeting yesterday, but postponed probably for another month final action on the segregation of the company's coal lands from its railroads. It has not yet been formally decided what form of segregation will be resorted to, but the impression prevailed yesterday among stockholders who are in close touch with the leading interests in the road that the coal lands will be turned over to a new company and certificates of beneficial interest distributed pro rata to the Lackawanna stockholders.

The plan, it was suggested yesterday, might, on the other hand, take a shape similar to the distribution of ore trust certificates to the Great Northern stockholders two years ago. Under such an arrangement control of the coal lands could be lodged with Trustees who would coöperate with the Lackawanna, while the profits accruing from the operation of the coal mines would be distributed to the holders of the beneficial certificates.

Three plans, it is known, have been considered by the road's legal advisers, but it is thought that in their final vote on the matter the Directors will favor the distribution of securities representing the coal lands to the road's shareholders. This would meet not only the requirements of the commodity clause of the Hepburn law as interpreted in the recent decision of the Supreme Court, but would also avoid possible future conflict with a law which Congress might pass to prevent railroads from owning stock in coal mining companies.

The delay on the part of the Lackawanna Directors in acting on the segregation plan is not due, it was said yesterday, to any disposition to put off complying with the requirements of the law, but merely to the fact that the plans which are being worked out by the road's legal advisers have not yet been brought to the stage at which a definite recommendation can be made by them to the road's Directors. The plan may be ready for action by the Directors within two or three weeks, but it is more likely, it was said, that action on the matter will be allowed to go over until the next regular meeting of the board on the last Thursday of June. No serious difficulty is presented in a separation of the Lackawanna's coal land from its railroad for the reason that, unlike the other coal roads, the Lackawanna has not mortgaged its coal property, and it is in position to turn over the land to a new company free of all debt.

A distribution to the stockholders without a voting trust would leave control of the coal property in the same hands in which control of the railroad is now lodged. The largest groups of stockholders are understood to be the Baker interests, the Taylor interests, and the Maxwell interests. These three groups of stockholders, it is believed, absolutely control the company, and after a distribution they would control the coal lands and the railroad through stock in two companies, as they now control both properties through stock in one corporation. The way would even be open, it was suggested yesterday, to form a holding company for both the railroad stock and the coal company stock to assure continuance of joint control of the coal lands and of the railroad, but the formation of such a holding company, if resorted to, would probably, it was suggested yesterday, be considered subsequent to the distribution to the Lackawanna stockholders and not in connection with this distribution.

Under the decision of the Supreme Court the Lackawanna is, of course, free to transfer its coal property to a new company and place the stock of this company in the Lackawanna's own treasury. Some of the Directors are said to favor adopting this course, but other Directors, among them those who have for some time past favored a readjustment of the Lackawanna's capital, are understood to support the pro rata distribution to the company's stockholders. This is the plan which is regarded as most likely of adoption.

MISSISSIPPI WANTS FLEET.

Valley Organizations Plan Visit of Many Battleships for November.

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—Following the successful trip of the battleship Mississippi up the river to Natchez, commercial organizations in the Mississippi Valley have launched a scheme which calls for an assemblage of a whole fleet of battleships in the Mississippi River at the time of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterway Convention in New Orleans next November.

President Taft has promised to attend the convention if it can be so arranged.

FORT EADS, La., May 27.—After a quick run down the river from New Orleans, the battleship Mississippi went through South Pass successfully and at 11:50 A. M. stood out to sea and was soon merely a speck on the horizon. She will probably reach Pensacola to-morrow morning.

This is the end of the history-making trip of the battleship on the river whose name it bears to Natchez and return. From Pensacola, where the Mississippi will remain two or three days, the vessel will steam to Horn Island, Miss., to receive the silver service to be presented to it by the citizens of Mississippi.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

HIRSCHFIELD & ASCH.—Judge Hough has granted a discharge from bankruptcy to Hirschfield & Asch, cloak manufacturers, formerly of 66 East Eighth Street, against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed on Feb. 20, 1905. Their liabilities were $26,456 and their assets $12,549.

MOSES SCHECHTER.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Moses Schechter, dealer in dry goods at 86 Hester Street, show liabilities of $8,273 and nominal assets of $35.78, consisting of claim on an unpaid check for $35 and 78 cents in a trust company. Among the creditors are A. H. Goodman, $1,000; H. B. Claflin Company, $760, and J. Kridel, Sons & Co., $309.

LANDAU HEATING COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Landau Heating Company, 118 West Thirty-first Street, show liabilities of $13,243 and nominal assets of $14,840, consisting of stock, $500; tools, $500, and accounts, $13,840. Among the creditors are the Central Radiator Company, $3,894; Union Radiator Company, $2,071; Gurney Heater Manufacturing Company, $1,600, and Spencer Heater Company, $1,043.

QUIVIRA LEAD AND ZINC COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Quivira Lead and Zinc Company of New Rochelle show liabilities of $10,026 and nominal assets of $3,601, consisting of land and mining leases in the Indian Territory, $801; mill and equipment, $2,000, and accounts, $800. There are only four creditors, Livingston Whitney, $6,076, loans; William A. Moore, $2,650, legal services; Griggs, Baldwin & Pierce, $1,000, legal services, and Amos Kennedy of Baxter, Kan., $300, services as watchman.

WILLIAM E. FINN.—John J. Townsend, referee in bankruptcy, has made a report on the objections to the discharge from bankruptcy of William E. Finn, real estate operator and builder of 35 Nassau Street, that none of the charges in any of the specifications is established by the evidence. Mr. Finn was interested in the George W. Levy Company, which erected and owned an apartment house at Riverside Drive and Ninety-fifth Street. The panic of October, 1907, and conditions of business thereafter prevented the arrangement of permanent loans on the property and led to its foreclosure and precipitated Mr. Finn's bankruptcy. The specification creditors were creditors of the company whose accounts had been guaranteed individually by Mr. Finn. The large apartment house, 43 Fifth Avenue, has also been foreclosed. The referee is satisfied that there has been no concealment of property by Mr. Finn, or any false oath knowingly and intentionally made by him, or any intentional destruction or loss of books or failure to keep proper books and records. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against Mr. Finn on Feb. 19, 1908, and his schedules showed liabilities of $875,359 and nominal assets of $952,450.

FOREST FIRES IN MICHIGAN.

Timber Worth $50,000 Destroyed—Telegraph Service Interrupted.

NEGAUNEE, Mich., May 27.—Forest fires, started by a spark from a railroad engine, last night, destroyed a large part of the village of Dalton, 3,000,000 feet of lumber, and a big mill. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Flames are reported raging along the Munising & South Shore Railroad. Telephone and telegraph service has been interrupted, but big fires are reported near Sidnaw and along the north shore.

Exchanges to Have Triple Holiday.

The Governing Committee of the Consolidated Exchange voted yesterday to close the Exchange on Saturday, May 29, making a three-day holiday over Decoration Day. The Stock Exchange had previously declared a holiday for Saturday, and practically every Exchange except the Produce Exchange will have the triple holiday.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Cotton and Calf Hair Fabrics in Part Wool Pay High Rate of Duty.

Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday denied a claim made by F. Rosenstern & Co. for lower duty on fabrics composed of a cotton warp and calf-hair filling, together with East India wool, wool waste, or mohair noils for holding the calf hair fibres in place.

According to the importers, the merchandise should be granted entry at 20 per cent. as non-enumerated manufactured articles. On the other hand, the Government insists, and the Board of Appraisers and the Circuit Court held, the fabrics to be dutiable by similitude to Paragraph 366, providing for "manufactures in part of wool." While Judge Lacombe remarks in his decision, concurred in by Judges Coxe and Ward, that the evidence taken in the Circuit Court does not show satisfactorily that wool is one of the components of the fabric in question, it is incumbent to find in favor of the Government owing to a conclusion reached by the Supreme Court, in the case of Arthur vs. Fox.

Judge Lacombe says: "The goods in question bear a like similarity to certain manufactures of calf hair and cotton, with a substantial percentage of wool or mohair noils, which are used for cloaks, but being of a better grade and more durable are also used for other purposes, (such as car seat coverings,) which involve more wear and tear. In our opinion these additional uses of the standards with which these importations are compared do not disprove a similarity in use, and the weight of the testimony establishes a similarity in texture and quality as well.

New Goldfield Consolidated Head.

The Directors of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company elected George Wingfield President yesterday in place of Senator George S. Nixon, who recently sold out his interest in the property to Mr. Wingfield and his associates. W. P. Roelker was elected to the Directorate to fill the vacancy caused by Senator Nixon's withdrawal. A dividend of 30 cents a share was declared for the quarter, payable July 31 to stockholders of record June 30.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS TAKEN OUT TO SEA

LOOKING FOR MRS. BLITZ

But They Found Only a Hoboken Lieberwurst Commissioner and a Blonde Opera Singer.

Deputy Sheriffs Thomas Madigan and John J. Daly of the Hudson County Sheriff's office went on board the Hamburg-American liner President Grant just before she sailed for Europe on Wednesday to serve papers on Mrs. Melica Blitz, wife of the manager of the German Theatre, in a suit for $18,000 brought by Maurice Baumfeld and Annie Butler, two of the stockholders.

The Deputies did not serve Mrs. Blitz, as she could not be found on the liner, but in their zealous hunt for the defendant Madigan and Daly were carried seaward as far as Fire Island, and had not the Captain slowed down for a tug to come alongside they would now be on their way to Plymouth.

When the Deputy Sheriffs arrived at the pier in Hoboken they met Deputy Sheriff Terry of New York, who had an order for Mrs. Blitz's arrest, signed by Justice Gildersleeve in the Supreme Court. Terry left the pier when he discovered that George Whitfield Butts, Jr., attorney for Maurice Baumfeld, had got another order in New Jersey which the Hudson County Sheriff was called upon to execute.

Madigan and Daly were instructed that two private detectives from Hirsch, Scheuerman & Limburg, lawyers, at 111 Broadway, would meet them and identify Mrs. Blitz so that she could be served with the papers. Her name was on the passenger list, but the stewards of the liner seemed never to have heard of her. After some inquiries the amateur sleuths pointed out a cabin that was closed, and told the deputies to knock and go in as the woman they sought was in there.

Madigan rapped at the door, which was immediately opened by a buxom German frau, who looked at them and asked, "Was ist los hein?" or words to that effect. The deputies replied, "Mrs. Blitz, we have something for you." She slammed the door, and the conversation ended. A steward, who was standing near by, said the woman was the wife of a delicatessen shopkeeper in Hoboken, who was going to Germany to buy frankfurters, schinken, and lieberwurst for next season.

The detectives had another try, and indicated another cabin, which proved wrong also, the door being opened by a blonde young woman who sings small parts in German opera, and had not the slighest idea who Mrs. Melica Blitz might be. The men searched everywhere on deck and in the saloons, and questioned many passengers, but no trace of the missing defendant could be obtained.

Meanwhile the powerful twin screws of the President Grant were churning the water up astern and driving the liner toward Europe at the rate of 17 knots an hour. It was not until the chief steward asked if the searching party had tickets for Plymouth that the deputies and sleuths realized where they were.

The Sheriff of Hudson County had arranged for a tugboat to follow the President Grant down the bay and take the special deputies and detectives off. When the liner began to increase her speed after passing Sandy Hook the tugboat was soon left astern, and she had to put on every pound of steam in her boilers to come up after the President Grant had slowed down.

Judgment has been filed in the Supreme Court against Mrs. Blitz, Jacob Blitz, her husband, and two other defendants for $18,000 in a suit in which, it is asserted by the plaintiffs, Baumfeld and Butler, that they converted to their own use the box office receipts of the German Theatre in addition to costumes, scenery, fixtures, furniture, and other belongings of the theatre which were the joint property of the stockholders.

The litigation over the theatre between the management and the stockholders began early last Winter when Maurice Baumfeld was refused admission to the house by Manager Blitz.

Mrs. Blitz is alleged to be going to Europe to avoid appearing before Edmund J. Tinsdale, the referee appointed by the Supreme Court to ascertain the value of the property in her hands and to evade the reconveyance of the property to Abraham Stern, who was appointed receiver of the German Theatre.

On MEMORIAL Day
Wear a Hart, Schaffner & Marx Blue Serge Suit
THE one fabric above all others best suited for Summer wear is blue serge. Suits here made of blue serge by Hart, Schaffner & Marx. A very bald statement that, but one that means a very great deal to you. Here is the reason: The name "Hart, Schaffner & Marx" in a suit guarantees you more real service, greater wearing value for every dollar you pay, than that of any other maker. This is most true of our blue serge suits. Some at $20, $22.50 and $25 especially—herringbones and self stripes. Smart, indeed, and SUCH values. Every line of them; every little detail that marks them as the most styleful of New York shown clothes will Last. Their thorough honesty of fabric and tailoring assures you of that. That their values warrant our pricing them at from $5 to $10 more than we do you will quickly realize once you see them.
Suits of fancy materials, too. Every whit as excellent values. Styles to suit every taste. Clothes that will please and fit you well. See them to-day.
